Hearing June 14

Legion Hall closes, buyer may build apts.

Winchester Post 97 of the American Legion voted recently to close down and sell the Legion Hall on Vine street.

Coronis Construction Company of Winchester has made a contingent agreement to buy the property, pending a zoning board of appeals decision on a petition to rezone the half-acre site.

The closing of the hall is at least partially the result of complaints from neighbors about noise and disturbances during some of the Legion's social gatherings. The board of selectmen had warned the Legion they would not renew the group's liquor license if the disturbances continued.

Another factor was imminent foreclosure on the building by the Shawmut Bank. However, because of the sale, the bank is holding off until the papers are passed. John J. Sullivan, financial officer for the Legion, says the Legion plans to pay back the mortgage from the money earned by selling the building.

Sullivan added that as soon as papers are passed, the Legion will start looking for a new location to set up shop. Of the disturbances and complaints, Sullivan says, "It's hard to keep things quiet all the time." Consequently, he says, the Legion is "looking for somewhere out in the woods."

Coronis Construction, meanwhile, has filed a petition for a special permit or a zoning variance so they can build four townhouse apartments on the site. Presently zoned SC-1 or conservancy-institutional, the property is bordered by residential and commercial zones. Current restrictions do not permit residential use of the property.

The townhouse plans call for four contiguous, two to three bedroom apartments with garages. The structures would be staggered away from the street. On the Vine street side they would be a single story; at the back, they would reveal three levels overlooking Wedge Pond.

The hearing before the zoning board of appeals is scheduled for June 14, 7:30 p.m. at Town Hall.

Fish Derby times changed

The annual Kiwanis Fish Derby is to be held Saturday, rain or shine.

Registration forms have been distributed in all Winchester elementary schools, and they may be obtained at the Winchester Sport Shop, 751 Main st. These forms must be filled in and signed by parents, then returned to the Winchester Sport Shop by Friday. The copy of the registration application in The Star may be used.

A parent or guardian must accompany each entrant at the Derby. One guardian is sufficient if more than one child is registered from a family.

The times that appeared in last week's article have been changed. Participants are to meet behind the Town Hall at 9 a.m. and will march to Wedge Pond at 9:15. Fishing will be from 9:30 to noon.

Home Care Corp. funds ok'd, Assoc. for Retarded denied

The spring session of town meeting made it almost to the half-way mark Thursday night as the members seemingly contradicted themselves on two votes.

They voted to appropriate money for the services of the Minuteman Home Care Corporation but at the same time defeated an article to provide funds for service from the Central Middlesex Association for Retarded Citizens, Inc.

The members heeded advice of Town Counsel Douglas A. Randall when he said, "In my opinion, appropriating funds to a service not under the superintendence of public officials is outside the Massachusetts Constitution." The final vote of 77-30 was not enough to bring in CMARC, a non-profit private group which sought to provide prevocational and vocational training to retarded adults over the age of 22.

In a somewhat similar article, however, the meeting chose to go against Randall's same opinion and voted to join Minuteman Home Care Corp. for a year for services to the needy elderly.

Although similarly worded, the two articles differed in a significant item. The Minuteman appropriation was contingent on the approval of the town manager and of the town counsel.

Finance Committee Chairman John Williams said, "On a close vote, the finance committee has voted favorable action on this article because it is contingent of the approval of town counsel and the town manager. Dr. Lawrence Quigley urged favorable action on behalf of the board of health "because the article is prefaced with approval from those two gentlemen."

Although selectmen urged that the article be deferred until the November town

Town meeting rejects motion to buy land for conservation

The price is not right.

At least not according to Town Meeting, which rejected, by a 68-77 vote Tuesday night, a motion to appropriate $530,000 to purchase 56 acres of land on the west side of town for conservation and recreation purposes.

The price of the land appeared to be the deciding argument in a debate which lasted an hour and a half and saw 19 Town Meeting members rise to speak on the issue.

The motion came under Article 14, seeking funds to be spent by the conservation commission to buy two parcels of land, one containing 54 acres, the other 2.85 acres.

The debate pitted the desire to conserve Winchester's diminishing open space against the desire to control the town's growing tax rate.

Under the motion, purchase of the land would have been contingent upon Winchester receiving written approval from the state and/or the federal government for at least a 50 per cent reimbursement for the price of the land.

Conservation Commissioner Walter J. Farrell cited studies by the planning board (1975) and the growth policy committee (1976), as well as the commission's own open space and recreation plans, in his opening arguments in favor of the purchase. A series of maps showing the history of open space in the town and a slide show of scenes on the property accompanied Farrell's presentation, in which he said the land would help preserve the town's environment and provide Winchester with a sizable recreation area.

"The proposed use of the land is in keeping with the present character of the town," Farrell said, warning of the potential disadvantages should the land be developed for residential use. He estimate from 60 to 90 new homes could be built on the land.

Another prime argument cited by Farrell and others in favor of the motion was that there would be "no second chance" for the town to pick up such a large piece of undeveloped land.

Farrell compared the effect of the purchase on the tax rate to the price of a pound of coffee. Since the town would borrow the money to purchase the land and would eventually receive a 50 percent or better reimbursement, the effect on taxes would decrease over the years, Farrell said.

The commissioner then produced a chart showing the cost to taxpayers of the purchase. In the first year, the cost would range from $4.90 for a homeowner whose assessed valuation totalled $20,000 to $19.70 for an assessed valuation of $60,000. By the last year of paying off the loan, these numbers would be reduced to $2.90 and $8.70 according to the chart.

TMM Vincent G. Carroll cited 31 separate parcels of open conservation and park lands around town, along with MDC land, the Fells, school property and well-established private open lands in opposing the need for the purchase.

Another principal argument against the purchase was the loss of potential tax revenues from developable land, TMM Eugene B. Rotondi argued this point and expressed doubts as to whether the land would be developed even if it remained in private hands. He said the terrain made the cost of development prohibitive.

He also said the $530,000 price was "unreasonable and unjust." The selectmen agreed with him.

The selectmen agreed that buying up conservation land was a good thing, that the proposed parcels were desirable, and that the town could afford it, according to Chairman Barbara Hankins. But she said her board's estimate of the land's value was about $300,000 and concluded that it would be "premature" to go ahead with the purchase at the present asking price.

Another conservation commissioner, TMM John F. Looney Jr., refuted Rotondi's argument that the land was undevelopable. He pointed out that an adjacent section of land, just behind Mahoney's Nursery, was already being developed, and that this area was "by far the most difficult portion" to develop.

The fact that the purchase is not part of a long range capital improvements plan was also a major argument against buying the property. Finance committee Chairman John J. Williams said the town should establish its priorities before spending the money.

Williams noted the town, in the long run, may want the land developed to add to the tax base and provide more housing. He also complained that the purchase price had been set by a third party rather than through "head to head negotiations."

Farrell retorted that the price was based on the "fair market value" of the land. He

FinCom seeks 5%

Six per cent raise voted

Town meeting Thursday night approved a personnel guide and compensation plan which would give salary increases of five and a half percent to organized clerical workers, and six percent to non-union clerical, professional-technical and managerial-supervisory positions.

Although it elicited little debate, passage of article 4 came as surprise in an otherwise fiscally tight spring session.

John Williams, chairman of the finance committee, urged unfavorable action on the article, calling the six percent "inflationary." He said, "In April we recommended a five percent increase as the maximum. This six percent is inflationary."

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux, author of the compensation plan, rebutted Williams. "I am recommending six percent for managerial-supervisory, professional-technical, and clerical workers after consultation with the personnel board."

The FinCom amended the personnel guide, the first such report made by Groux, to give wage increases of five and a half percent to the clerical workers, and five percent to professional-technical and managerial-supervisory.

Selectmen Chairman Barbara Hankins urged unfavorable action on the FinCom's amendment and on a standing vote it was defeated 43-76.

The proposed wage increases for schedules in the town compensation plan are as follows:

1. Clerical — The five and a half percent increase is the second year of a collective bargaining contract negotiated with the Winchester Organized Clerical Association which begins July 1. The maximum range is $7620 for S-1 to $11,871 for S-10.

2. Clerical — The six percent increase is for non-union clerical position. The maximum range is $7674 for CS-1 to $11,955 for CS-10.

3. Professional-Technical — Position titles in this schedule are non-union employees primarily in the engineering department and the public library. The six percent increase gives maximum salary of $10,834 for P-T-4 to $16,353 for P-T-12.

4. Managerial-Supervisory — For this schedule the two merit performance schedules for managerial and supervisory positions have been merged into one. The six percent structure adjustment does not in this case mean a six percent salary increase to each employee whose position title is in the schedule. These employees are still within the performance evaluation program adopted by town meeting. In addition, when the incumbent collector-treasurer and town clerk fill out their terms, they will be put in positions M-13 and M-14 respectively.

5. Miscellaneous schedule — Most of the positions in this schedule are part-time or seasonal. The town manager recommended certain of these positions receive a six percent salary increase. They are call firefighter - $1685 a year; veterans' grave caretaker - $396 a year; town counsel - $20,630 a year; school lunch supervisors (elementary) - $4.72-$5.06-$5.40 a session; senior supervisors (elementary lunch) - $5.90-$6.30-$6.69 a session; school messenger - $3.23 an hour;

Star to pick top athletes

Next week in these pages The Star sports department will present its first annual Outstanding Spring Sports Performers at the senior high school for 1977.

Staff writer Rick Pearl will take an in-depth look at the seven athletes who were considered their team's best on a general consensus of the sports department and the coaches.

The sports covered will be: baseball, softball, boys' tennis, girls' tennis, golf, track, and lacrosse.

In addition The Star will list their selections of the outstanding male and female athletes for each class in the high school.

The upcoming June 9 issue is one that any true sports buff will not want to miss. Be sure and reserve your copy at a newsdealer now.

school traffic officer $66.42 a week; sealer of weights and measures - $2096 a year; planning board engineer - $4267 a year.

6. Hourly wage schedule — The hour wage increase of 30 cents an hour effective July 1. The maximum wages in this schedule are $4.91 for a W-9 to $6.37 for a W-14. In addition, there is an added 17 cents per hour for tree spraying as part of the first year of a collective bargaining agreement. There are also changes in longevity payments: After five years - $100; after 10 years $325; after 15 years - $425; and after 20 years $500.

7. Police — The negotiations with the police are not yet completed. Groux recommended a six percent adjustment to the temporary patrolman classification (outside the collective bargaining discussions) from $202.87 a week to $215.04 a week.

8. Fire — These negotiations are also still going on. Groux recommended a six percent wage adjustment in the firefighter temporary classification, bringing the weekly wage from $202.87 to $215.04.

9. School custodians — The hourly rates in this schedule reflect a four percent salary adjustment in the second year of a multi-year agreement. The maximum range is $3.62 for a SC-1 to $7.30 for a SC-14.

10. Food service workers — There was no change recommended under this schedule because a new contract is being negotiated.

11. School secretaries — The rates set in this schedule reflect a five and a half percent increase as negotiated for the second year of a multi-year contract. The wage scale for maximum annual salary is $8421 for SS-3 to $13,045 for SS-12.

Groux pointed out to town meeting that many of the changes in the personnel policy guide came about as a result of reorganization of the department of public works. Changes in that section of his report dealt mainly with language clarification.

The section dealing with position titles and reclassifications was also adjusted because of the DPW reorganization.

For 35 years of volunteer service at the Winchester Red Cross, Dorothy Field is presented with a special service emblem by Joseph Krajewski, chapter chairman.

Ralph Hatch retires as RC treasurer

At the annual meeting of the Winchester Chapter of American Red Cross, Ralph Hatch retired as treasurer of the Chapter after 12 years in the post.

He helped with the purchase and financing of the present Red Cross building at 39 Church st. 10 years ago when the town decided to demolish the ancient Cutting Building adjacent to the Library, where the Red Cross was housed.

Frederick Zappala was elected to succeed Hatch as Treasurer.

Among the highlights of the 55th annual meeting of the Chapter, held at the Breakheart Inn in Wakefield, was the honoring of Dorothy Field for 35 years of volunteer service with Red Cross.

Joseph Krajewski was reelected Chairman of the Chapter. William O'Connor succeeded John F. Looney Jr., as Vice Chairman, relinquishing the secretaryship to Frances Elliott.

John Looney Jr. received a special plaque awarded to his father, who provided the mailing material used in the membership fund campaign this spring. The campaign netted nearly $3000 for the local chapter.

Next year's high school seniors elected to a special one-year director's term representing the high school were Marcia DeSanctis and John F. Waite.

The following members were elected to the board of directors: for one year, Walter Armstrong; for two years, Edward Sandford; for three years, Miriam Davis, Janice Dolan, John Ellis, Rev. James Haddad, Joseph Krajewski, Manning Morill, Barbara Panosian, Samuel Rotondi, Frederick Zappala.

Elected to the executive board to serve with the officers were Robert Edgar, Evander French, Dr. Leonor Rich, Ruth Stevens, and John Waite Jr.

Other service pins awarded were: Five-year pin to Jeanne Cresse, Genevieve Dale, Ruth DeSanctis, Jeanne Ellis, Florence Gosselin, Marge Labedz, Pat Lyon, Lorrie Norton, Sue Porter, Helen Quinn, Eunice Reardon, Ruth Stevens, and Leonard Weckel; Ten-year pin to Stanley Black; Fifteen-year pins to Nancy Burgatti and Hildred Prowse; and a Twenty-year pin to Pat Archibald.

Girl Scouts celebrate 60th

By Carolyn S. Johnson

The Winchester Community Girl Scout Association celebrated a milestone this month as they observed the 60th Anniversary of their local founding.

According to the headline of an article in The Star dated May 11, 1917, "two ladies from Boston gave a comprehensive talk on the Girl Scout Movement to members of the Special Aid Society for American Preparedness." From this meeting interest evidently quickly developed, and an account a week later states that a local council is being formed and Miss Eugenia Parker has consented to be the leader of thirty girls.

Mrs. Addison Pike was the first commissioner, the necessary steps were taken to affiliate with the national council (then five years old) and "the work of the organization went forward with great enthusiasm."

From these beginnings, Girl Scouting in Winchester has grown and prospered as thousands of girls have participated in activities and hundreds of women have helped them. At the present time 623 girls and over 100 adults are registered members.

Although the outward appearance of Girl Scouting has changed over the years, the organization has remained constant to its basic concepts. It remains a program with a purpose, based on ideals and a code of conduct, the Promise and Law. While retaining traditional values it has expanded with new emphases and dimensions.

Proficiency badges, the basis of scouting activities, reflect the interests of today's girls. Today's Girl Scouts are no longer required to clean and dress a fowl, tie up a burglar with only eight inches of cord, or stop a runaway horse as their 1917 counterparts were but they do learn to repair their own bicycles, create original works of art, and carry out ecology and conservation projects.

The out-of-doors and camping has continued to be one of the most popular aspects of the scouting program. In the first years, the Winchester Scouts owned a cabin at Cedar Hill in Waltham and later they built a small cabin on the Brooks Estate off Grove Street.

In 1949 the Rotary Club planned, supervised and provided the labor for the present Camp Joy on South Border road. On a cold December day, with fresh snow on the ground and a fire in the outdoor fireplace, the cabin was dedicated, a symbol of community spirit and cooperation.

The building of Camp Joy is only one of the highlights of Scouting in Winchester. Over the years Winchester Scouts have marched in drum and bugle corps; Senior troops have traveled to Canada, England, and Mexico; individual girls have taken part in national camping events; and countless numbers of girls have participated in service projects benefiting the whole community.

In 1963 a new era of Winchester scouting began when the local council joined twelve other Middlesex Communities to form the Mistick Side Council and further expand and strengthen the Scouting program.

As Winchester Girl Scouts celebrate 60 years, they salute the vision of their founders, thank those who have served as leaders, and look forward to the future with faith and enthusiasm.

The Boston Hospital for Women Blood Bank reports a critical shortage of O-Negative blood donors who can serve the bank on a voluntary, on-call basis.

There is an increasing demand for this type of blood for transfusion for newborn babies, particularly those suffering from Rh problems of the newborn (such as incompatibility and exchange diseases).

Donors must be in good health and at least 18 years of age. If under 21, they must have written consent signed by their parents or guardian. Anyone who would like to sign up as a ready donor should call the Boston Hospital for Women Blood Bank, weekdays from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

they will always be able to savor their 3-2, come-from-behind upset victory over defending league champion Lexington. Softball letter winners were: Senior Co-Captains Pat Harrington and Audrey Leach; seniors Leanne Fitzgerald and Susan Yavner; juniors Diane Cullen, Biter Dexter, and Barbara Redmond; and sophomores Kathleen Driscoll, Kelly Gately, Toni Vacca, Lisa Willard and Senior Manager Carol Favorat.

After breezing through the 1977 Tennis season and again finishing undefeated with a 13-0 record, Coach Paul Mulloy's Sachem Boys' Tennis Team is currently defending both its eastern Mass. and New England tennis titles. To try to list their entire list of accomplishments would take more room than exists on this page. However there is room enough to say that this year's boys' tennis team letter winners were: Senior Captain Lloyd Thomas; seniors Jim Ferrera and Richard Champoux; juniors Rhys Thomas, Dipak Khaund, Nick Julian, Paul Simmons; and sophomores Jim Willing and David Carlson.

The Sachem Girls' Tennis Team also had a highly successful season, finishing with a final record of 8 wins - 5 losses. Unfortunately they lost their bid to keep the girls' Middlesex League tennis title in Winchester (they won the title in 1976). Coach Margie Sexton presented seven players with letters. They were Senior Captain Tricia Welch, seniors Helen Sandford, Chris Guarnaccia, Liz Patrick, Kathy Whitney, Stephanie Martin, and sophomore Beth Noble.

Eugene Bouley's 1977 Sachem Lacrosse team exceeded everyone's expectations, including their own, finishing with a fine 6-9 record on the season. At the time of the banquet they were 6-6, but they lost their last three games to the fourth, second and third ranked teams in the state. This year's Lacrosse letter winners were: Senior Tri-Captains Chris Gill, Richard McCarthy and John Roche, seniors Darren Abbanat, "Sparky" Dwyer, Jack McInnis, Bob Simone, Tim Skehan and Bill Tunncliffe; juniors Steve Barret, Chuck Began, Mark Carzo, Chad Doe, Steve D'Onofrio, Jack Driscoll, Kevin Foley, Jack Noble, Edward Quinn and the only sophomore to receive a letter, "Bubba" Sandford.

The Sachem Spring track team was the final team to receive their letters on this night. Under the guidance of coaches Manny

Marshall and Tom Kline the Sachems ran to their best record in years, finishing at 7-2 and in a tie with Lexington for second place in Middlesex League competition.

I'd like to thank Rick Pearl, who caught me completely by surprise (as could be seen by the "elegant" attire I was wearing) when he presented me with an award at the end of the sports banquet. It was a very nice gesture on his part and one that was deeply appreciated. Star Sports Writer Kelly Gately also received an award and is still blushing from the peck on the cheek she received from the dapper looking sports editor.

On last Wednesday night in the high school auditorium the WHS Music Department presented its annual Spring Concert, just a few weeks after the highly successful Exchange Concert with Glassboro, N.J. The Spring Concert was also a great success. It has been a very good year for the Winchester High School Music Department.

This is the week all of the graduating seniors at WHS have been waiting for. Tonight in the high school cafeteria Class Night 1977 will be held at 8 p.m. Tomorrow night the Winchester High School Senior Prom will be held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel on Memorial Drive in Cambridge from 7-12 p.m. Graduation ceremonies for the Class of 1977 will be held this coming Sunday afternoon, June 5, in Knowlton Stadium (Manchester Field) starting at 2 p.m. In the event of rain, the proceedings will be moved to the high school fieldhouse and will begin at 5 p.m.

★ Town meeting

was backed up by TMM David S. Mortensen, who urged the meeting to "grab the opportunity" and buy the land before the price goes even higher.

Both Mortensen and TMM Otto E. Schaefer Jr. pointed to the future, when open space may become an even more precious commodity than it is now. Wondering aloud about what went on in the minds of TMMs 90 years ago when forced with the opportunity to buy the Fells, Mortensen said, "There may never again be another opportunity in Winchester to buy land as cheaply as we may tonight."

Other actions

In other actions, Town Meeting voted overwhelmingly to allow the selectmen to negotiate the leasing of the Wyman School to the Bartlett School of Arlington, a private, non-profit organization. The suggested rental fee is to be at least $6,000.

The lease, to be for a one year term, would leave the town responsible only for the roof and outside structure and the general condition of the major systems (heating and plumbing) within the school.

A street layout plan for Shepard court was rejected by the meeting under Article 20. Resident Carl DeFilippo argued convincingly that the present plan, which would take all of the necessary land for a cul de sac from his property (a vacant lot), was unfair.

DeFilippo presented an alternative plan of his own in which property would be taken from both sides of the street for the cul de sac. TMM Schaefer suggested a compromise might be reached if the residents could sit down and discuss the problem.

Also under Article 20, the layout of Aricia lane was accepted by the meeting.

A land acquisition fund of $15,000 was approved for conservation as part of the capital improvements program. The money will go into a kitty, to be built up over a period of years, so some money will be available when the town decides to acquire land.

Under Article 14, $5000 was approved for "other expenses" in the conservation commission's budget.

The meeting ok'd a change in the by-laws under Article 17 which extends from seven to 10 days the period for which the dog officer may keep dogs in the pound.

The by-law prohibiting peddlers from "crying their wares" throughout the town was reinstated. The original language of the by-law had been questioned as potentially unconstitutional by the state attorney general's office.

Article 19, to effect a change in the water rates, was indefinitely postponed.

Bhante Punnaji, a Buddhist monk and teacher of meditation, will lead a meditation at the Unitarian Church Monday at 8 p.m. The evening is open to the community and is co-sponsored by the Unitarian worship committee and the mind control study group led by Lou Flackert.

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

In its wisdom

So it's been done. By a vote of 68-77 the town has given up, probably forever, the chance to add significantly to its open space.

There is no longer any point in going over the wheres and whys of the importance of green space and recreation area. There have been eloquent explanations from the conservation people and others who recognize the need for picnic areas, bridle paths, snowshoe trails, and just a fallen log to sit on and listen to woodpeckers.

There have also been eloquent speeches from some pretty powerful people in town about the expense of such an acquisition. There was a lot of money involved and a definite commitment required in order to bring about the purchase of the Moss and Kelley properties.

"In its wisdom," the expression goes, the town meeting decided the price was too high.

So be it.

That leaves us with a very important task. We have to improve on what we do have left. Police are making an effort to keep Winchester's parks and streets clear of debris — a somewhat thankless job — and that will help a little.

The Fells groups are active in that part of Winchester and they work to keep trails clearly marked and other aspects of conservation and ecology. We remember the MDC "golden pipeline fiasco."

There has been a lot of activity from a group calling itself Save Open Space. Their first commitment was to secure the old Wadleigh School site for conservation purposes. That worked and the town is the better for it.

Their next order of business was to encourage the town to purchase the west wide land (Moss and Kelley properties). We know to what lengths they went.

Now we have to take a hard look at what's left. We have to check our environment and do more than just refrain from throwing rubbish on the street.

Some merchants and business persons have been doing their part to brighten Winchester Center and they should be commended.

The Cheese Shop has been putting out a planter every day with the brightest geraniums you ever saw. That small pot up against the parking meter on Church street stands out like a cardinal in the snow.

On the other side of Church street, The Artisans Gallery has been hanging baskets of green plants overhead. They, too, give one pause.

Directly in the center, the window boxes along Main street near the police box have been holding blooming flowers for several weeks now. On Winchester terrace, although tucked away off a side street, there are more flowers to refresh a downtown shopper.

Commercial establishments, like Woolworth's, have also displayed their pots of flowers and green plants on the sidewalk.

There are other places where people have supplemented nature's display for public pleasure. Each merchant or business person who takes the time and trouble to water a plant has added just a little bit more to our sense of beauty.

When budgets are to be cut or requests for appropriations to be denied, it seems the first to go are the intangibles which make us a little higher than the animals — the music and art programs, the extra field trips, the green spaces.

If ever there should come a time when Winchester is once again faced with the possibility of acquiring conservation land, we hope that the town meeting sitting then will consider very carefully what such land means. Unfortunately, it seems that possibility won't come up again. —KLW-F

Right on base

This being the season for lauding outgoing club officers, students excelling in French and physics, and other notables, we would like to mention an outstanding group who isn't very often recognized publicly for its devotion, dedication, and effort on behalf of the young people in town.

We refer to the coaches and managers of the various teams who give freely and willingly of themselves to teach seven-year-olds to hit a double, to show an awkward ten-year-old how to dribble down the soccer field, to explain once again what a hook shot is.

These men and women are extraordinary people. Not only do they exude enthusiasm at a Saturday morning game, they also show up for mid-week practices. They spend hours a week helping kids and every single future Superstar benefits, if only from an extra pat on the back when he fans for the third time that day.

When it's done right, the kids learn more than winning technique. They learn respect and sportsmanship.

Winchester is lucky indeed to have a group of men and women who are worthy of that respect and who themselves exhibit that sportsmanship. —KLW-F

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Town, and the Town Meeting, has again been deliberately denied their right to know and this time at the hands of the Moderator in his ruling regarding the discussions on motions for reconsideration. (You recall he admonished the meeting that the merits of the articles were not to be discussed.) We expect a child of ten to read with more comprehension than what we witnessed at Town Meeting. Robert's Rules of Order, by By-Law, has been established as our law relating to Town Meeting procedure and it says re: reconsideration motions (pg. 157-158) "...it opens to debate the merits of the question to be reconsidered."

Unless the Moderator's ruling is reversed, the Town is in for a duplication of Personal Services monies in the Public Works Budgets amounting to thousands of dollars. The Administration account (1490) has been approved with some $100,000 allocated for positions that, at this writing, do not exist! Each of the other Public Works Budgets is over-appropriated for Personal Services by nearly $100,000...all duplicated services, duplicated costs.

We have charged time and again that there has been a planned, developed and now carried forward political conspiracy of several persons including the Town Manager, Director of Public Works, Board of Selectmen (its former Chairman, now Moderator) and the Finance Committee...aid has been given (though not culpable) by the Personnel Board, Capital Improvements Committee and other Town Officers and employees who looked the other way. The Town Manager, responsible for Personnel Administration, did willfully and knowingly violate the Charter provisions relating to job protection in at least five cases of reducing pay-grade and wage compensation. This has been accomplished, despite public statements to the contrary, by the simple threat of a cut in pay is better than no job at all. Certain members of the Town Employees Association as well as the Selectmen and Town Counsel aided the Manager in this action.

When a certain President decided that the law didn't apply to him (since he was after all the President) and began to run his office and the country as he wanted, there was a tremendous outcry... "no one is above the law"... "denial of due process"... etc. Are we in Winchester also above the law? Can our elected officials trample on the citizens rights? (is it really that important) Perhaps only the Court can determine.

Arthur J. Hewis Jr.
Town Meeting Member, Dist. 2

Hocus pocus

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Ignoring all those well-worn political campaign promises to cut government spending and reduce taxes, Congressman (Edward) Markey continues to vote with the rest of the "boys" for more federal spending.

This is being sold to us "boobs" (taxpayers) under the guise of a political hocus pocus called "economic stimulation" as the reason for appropriating 22.6 billion to "create" jobs and encourage consumer spending. Mr. Markey must know the government doesn't have the money and will have to borrow or print it. Oh yes, the House members recently, by not voting, did something for themselves—they received an "automatic" pay raise of $12,900 to $57,500.

Excessive government spending, as it has been for many years, creates a budget deficit which sets the stage for inflation, because the government expands the money supply, which causes inflation. As inflation increases more and more workers lose their jobs, resulting in more unemployment.

Rep. Markey has claimed to be doing everything possible to fight inflation—yet (he) votes for more government spending that causes inflation and unemployment, which he claims to be against. The record shows he voted for more government spending on six out of six measures: 1) Rousset Amend. to House Con. Res. 110—cost $3 billion; 2) House Con. Res. 110—cost $20 billion; 3) House Res. 11 Public Works Development—cost $4 billion; 4) Motion to recommit HR 3477—cost $11 billion; 5) HR 4876—cost $22.6 billion; 6) HR 4877 Supp. Appr. bill—cost $28.4 billion.

These six measures cost each head of a household $1599.

If your representative tells you that he is opposed to big government, higher taxes, unemployment and inflation, check to see how he votes. Does he actually vote against all measures that increase the cost and size of the giant in Washington (and on Beacon Hill), measures that working Americans must pay for through higher taxes and more inflation?

All he has to do is simply to vote consistently against measures that increase the cost and size of government. Tell him so!

Vital program

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

While I did not vote for President Carter, after his energy message I wished that I had.

I have spent the last four years working at the M.I.T. Energy Laboratory. Carter's energy program incorporates every item that I personally believe to be necessary for this country's economic health and eventual well-being. The program directs American attention to the field where I believe the greatest economic benefits lie for all of us — conservation or end-use technologies. At the same time, if his rebate systems work adequately, his program will, in my opinion, stimulate the economy. In effect, Carter's program will substitute the lost production due to unemployment for the heavy sacrifices we would otherwise be called upon to make.

I hope others will join me in supporting the President's program which is particularly vital for New England.

Odd reasoning

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I feel it is strange reasoning that causes the Carter administration to offer pardons to many who followed their conscience and illegally avoided duties during the Vietnam war.

The Carter administration then, turned around and prosecuted certain FBI agents who were also following their consciences when they used different methods in an effort to curtail the activities of radical anti-war groups who were threatening to bomb almost everything around, during the same time we were in Vietnam.

Town watch ...

Is your dog legal?

by the Observer

Nick Molea, continuing his efforts to have every Winchester dog licensed, warns that owners who have not yet secured tags for their pooch have until June 10, that's next Tuesday, to pick one up at the town clerk's office.

After that date, an additional one dollar demand charge will be added to the price of the license. The fees are $4 for males and spayed females and $7 for unspayed females.

If your dog is caught, you are subject to fines of $10 for the first offense, $15 for the second, and $20 for the third.

Nick says there are about 1800 dogs in Winchester and 1300 have been licensed properly so far.

and no further applications are accepted unless the list is exhausted within two years. Registrations will be held at the MBTA office at 500 Arborway, Jamaica Plain, and the Lena Park Community Center, 150 American Legion Highway in Dorchester. Hours are 9 to 3:30.

A glaring omission in last week's story on the annual high school award ceremonies was the Wellesley Club Book Award, presented by English department head Francis Russell to Julie Hamel.

The award is presented to a senior girl who demonstrates outstanding achievement in the liberal arts. Among her other accomplishments, Ms. Hamel played lead roles in two of this year's dramatic productions at the high school: "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "How to Succeed in Business."

The Metropolitan Area Planning Council has approved a 16 cent assessment to meet 1977-78 budget requirements. This action raises the present 13.3 cent assessment on the area's 101 cities and towns by 2.7 cents.

The raise will give the MAPC $478,000 in funding from the cities and towns to go along with $406,000 received from the federal government.

The council says it will spend $782,000 of this money on the fiscal 1978 "work program." The remaining $102,000, in addition to reserve fund "borrowings" of $89,000, will be used, says the council, to eliminate $191,000 of debt for FY78.

Just to make the matter a bit more confusing, the MAPC says the 16 cent assessment "will provide MAPC with funding at the same level as the present year, plus an additional $81,000 to repay past overassessment."

On the brighter side, the council reports: "In fiscal 1979, the council plans to begin an Incentive Grant Program which will return money to communities working on regional cooperation programs through special grants."

Plant some happiness

By Elizabeth Mahoney
Correspondent

There is an old Chinese proverb that states, "He who plants a garden, plants happiness." This is especially true of an herb garden, for growing herbs will bring you double pleasure.

Not only through their color, texture and fragrance during the growing season, when they add interesting flavor and aroma to many foods; but in winter they may also be enjoyed dried and even frozen.

Herbs are the oldest plants to be grown in gardens and are mentioned time and again in the Bible. Herbs links us with a colorful past when people mingled love potions; wore certain plants attributed with magical qualities to combat illness, death and evil spirits; and spread fragrant herbs on stone and earthen floors instead of rugs. These were referred to as "strewing" herbs and included marjoram, basil, balm and mint.

In common usage, the word herb refers to plants that can be used for their flavor in cooking, in medicine, and for their fragrance. The quality of herbs grown and dried at home far exceeds the quality of commercial packages. The strength of fresh herbs is double that of dried ones, and the herbs dried at home will have stronger flavor also because of the freshness of the delicate, essential oils.

Fortunately for the gardener, most herbs are easy to grow. They care for themselves and survive under adverse conditions, almost like weeds. Herbs grow best in a sunny location, although partial shade may produce more luxuriant growth. Sunshine is needed to make most herbs rich in the volatile oils responsible for odors and flavors. A west, south or southwest slope is preferable.

Any good garden soil is satisfactory for most herbs. Many seem to prefer a rather meagre soil. If it is too rich, the growth is often rank and the oils poor in quality.

Only a few herbs, particularly those frequently cut, such as parsley, chives and basil, require application of plant foods. Water-loving herbs such as mints, cross, lovage and pennyroyal should have a fairly moist location. Most other herbs do best on a rather dry, well-drained soil.

Prepare soil before planting to aid in deep root penetration. Loosen soil to a depth 18 to 24 inches. Cultivate established herbs only often enough to kill weeds and provide a fine dust mulch. Except for moisture-loving herbs, watering is necessary only during severe drought. In general herbs are free from insects and diseases.

It is best to sow herbs early in flats or shallow boxes, transplant them into pots when plants are small and set them in the garden when growing conditions are favorable. This process provides a longer growing season. Now, a look at a common herb.

CHIVES

Chives are a hardy perennial which is one of the easiest and most satisfactory sweet herbs to grow. These small and dainty onions were even known to the Chinese as early in history as 3000 B.C. They can be easily propagated from seed and more easily from the matted clumps of tiny bulbs from which sprout the tops so highly prized by cooks.

Any time of the year when the ground is not frozen set out two clumps. The more the grassy leaves are cut, the more tender the new shoots are. Chives do best in rich soil and in full sun. They are well adapted as border or specimen plants and may be used as winter house plants. Cut finely with scissors to impart a delicate flavor of onion to potato soup, meats, omelets and salads.

Chives are excellent when linked with creamed or cottage cheese, added lightly to souffles, mayonnaise, and hollandaise. For grilled chicken legs in foil: wrap each leg securely in foil with a pat of butter, a teaspoon of chopped chives and salt to taste. Grill the packages over hot coals, turning once. Total cooking time is about 40 minutes. Note: be sure the coals are reduced to a nice gray ash and high heat before starting to cook or you may have undercooked chicken.

This is the first in a series on raising and using herbs.

The Brilliant blue Mickey Mouse-like blossoms of the Asiatic Day Flower must quickly attract insects as blooms only last one day. The yellow anthers on the ends of the six protruding stamens even look like animal features.

Like the spiderwort these plants like wet ground and damp compost piles. This plant's stems and leaves have been used for salads or prepared as a spinach. It was believed that by drinking a flower infusion the aging spouse could increase sexual potency and this concoction was often given to stud animals. This plant may be found throughout Winchester.

Redistricting a tough issue

by Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr.

The year 1977 will go down in history as the time when the membership of the Massachusetts House of Representatives was decreased from 240 to 160.

As a member of the Joint Special Committee on Redistricting I can speak from personal knowledge when I tell you that the task confronting us was monumental. Great credit should go to our chairman, Rep. George Keverian, who was chief architect of the statewide plan; and the overwhelming vote of approval (179-48) the bill was given in the House is indicative of the opinion of it held by most legislators.

Of course we did receive our share of brickbats along with plaudits—for there was no way to eliminate 80 seats without incurring the wrath of some communities in the Commonwealth.

The neighboring town of Stoneham, for instance, is up in arms because four of its precincts will be joined to Winchester in future years and the remaining two will be merged with Melrose. This would seem to give a Winchester candidate a better-than-even chance of winning over a Stoneham candidate since our population outnumbers the Stoneham voters in the district by an almost two to one margin.

But how effective a Representative would I have been if I did not make every effort to keep the pledge to the voters of this town to preserve the political integrity and unity of Winchester. I make no apologies for my success in achieving this goal.

It stands to reason that the Joint Special Committee could not be expected to create 160 representative districts of "equal" population sizes in a Commonwealth consisting of 351 cities and towns without the division of some municipalities.

Historically, Winchester has always been kept politically "whole" whereas Stoneham has been joined in part to Melrose and Woburn for a number of years. Personally, I would have been satisfied with the addition of precincts from Arlington, Medford or Woburn to Winchester as long as our town was enabled to preserve its political integrity.

But realistically, it is more logical to unite a town with part of another town rather than with a city, since in Massachusetts, local government units are closely wedded to the state tax policy and the state budget.

Actually, the House Redistricting Plan divides only 33 municipalities—24 cities and nine towns. This contrast with the revision of 1973 when 73 municipalities—36 cities and 37 towns—were partitioned to form two or more representative districts.

"Gerrymandering" is a term often equated in the past with redistricting designed to preserve or increase seats for the political party in power at the time of the redistricting. But today, our state government is so completely dominated by Democrats it was inconceivable to even consider realigning House districts to gain additional Democratic seats.

The basis for the entire redistricting plan was the 1975 state decennial census report of 5,789,488 Massachusetts inhabitants. The ideal apportionment norm of constituents per state representative for the next decade is 36,184. It was a practical impossibility to arrange legislative districts so each one would contain an identical number of residents.

Thus, the Committee set a maximum allowable differential of minus or plus 10 percent from the apportionment norm. The fact that only two districts exceed the Committee's outer limits by a minuscule fraction proves how carefully and conscientiously the redistricting was handled.

After the bill was drafted, we held a series of meetings regarding the proposed redistricting in six different areas of the state. In most cases we found reaction to be extremely favorable. We did, however, give careful consideration to all objections and suggestions offered us, and 48 changes were made and several districts revised before the final bill was presented for passage.

The reactions of some of its most vocal opponents were interesting. You will recall that the law mandating the House reduction was passed by the electorate in 1974 by an almost four to one majority. In fact, it prevailed in all 14 counties. But once the plan was unveiled in January, inhabitants of communities that would no longer enjoy their own representatives began to have second thoughts.

Then there were many voters who approved the House reduction because they thought it would decrease the costs of state government. They were thinking that there would be 80 less paychecks to cover. But they failed to consider the fact that the House cut would also necessitate each representative serving approximately 50 percent more constituents than they currently do. Usually, an increased workload is accompanied by an increased salary. I, for one, would favor such an increase as long as it would not take effect until the following legislative session so that it would not benefit personally those who voted for it. I am against legislators raising their own pay.

The House streamlining is also expected to make the House more efficient. This is a goal that may or may not be attained. Some political observers feel that the greater the number of legislators, the less control the leadership can exert. On the other hand, fewer representatives may also mean fewer duplicate bills clogging the House calendar and fewer meaningless speeches made in the House. However, the number of committees will remain the same, even though their membership will be reduced, and the same procedure for adopting and enacting new legislation will be followed.

There was no question about the mandate given us. The electorate spoke loudly and clearly and we acted in accordance with their expressed wishes. It is the first time in 120 years the House has been changed in size. Only time will reveal the wisdom of that decision. Of one thing you may be certain. There will be more lively primary campaigns during the 1978 state election than this Commonwealth has witnessed in many, many years.

No man for the islands

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper was represented at the recent Massachusetts Press Assn. Editor's Forum which Rep. Terrence McCarthy of Martha's Vineyard addressed. The intent of the forum is to discuss issues of interest to all communities and get reaction from readers of the papers reporting the forum. Letters published on the issue of redistricting and reducing the size of the House will be sent to Rep. McCarthy.

Under the House redistricting plan, which cut the House from 240 to 160 members, the islands of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket, which now each have one representative, will have none. Instead, they will be joined with Cape Cod counties to form four districts.

After rejecting all amendments to the plan, the House passed it by a 190-39 margin. By 155-74 an attempt to delay action pending an advisory opinion from the Supreme Judicial Court on the islands' own proposal was defeated. That plan, proposed by Rep. McCarthy, would have given the islands one Representative between them and three for the Cape, still a total of four for the islands and the Cape.

The bill is now on Gov. Michael Dukakis' desk. The Governor has indicated he will hold the bill for a week to allow the opposition to get in a last word. It is believed the Governor is waiting to see if opponents can muster enough votes to prevent the House from overriding a veto of the redistricting plan.

McCarthy calls the proposed redistricting the "most regressive step ever taken in the Commonwealth." If the plan goes through it will deny diverse voices, as it cuts the House by one-third, he says.

A Representative whose district includes a town of 5,000 and a city of 20,000 will listen to the city, McCarthy says. And he warns that control by the House Speaker will be easier, in view of the appointments of chairmen and vice chairmen made by the Speaker.

Now, with 240 members, the House is the agency for reform, because 240 people cannot be punished or controlled easily, he says.

McCarthy and his supporters feel that the islands need their own representation, which they have had for 285 years. Some 30 percent of the legislation passed exempts the islands. A lot of legislation makes no sense for the islands, McCarthy feels, including some which has become law, such as the ban on open burning and the ambulance requirements.

He cites geography and financial barriers to successful representation of the islands and mainland by one person. If an islander wanted to see his Representative it would take considerable time and cost to get to the mainland. The Representative, with only weekends to be back home, would find it hard to cover his district.

The issue of redistricting has to do with one man, one vote. The islanders hired attorney William Young of Bingham, Dana and Gould who, in a brief, cited the last redistricting plan in which the court upheld the islands' right to representation, and they got a Representative a piece.

The Supreme Judicial Court in the Vigneaull v. Secretary of the Commonwealth case said that to deprive the islands of representation would be depriving those residents of a voice in legislation. The brief contends that the courts would uphold an island seat regardless of their having 13,500 population instead of the required 36,000 population.

If the matter were to get tied up in court, McCarthy maintains that only the Cape and islands would be affected anyway, since four seats are involved under his or the Keverian plan. The rest of the state redistricting could go on.

This is not just a local issue, McCarthy says. Communities have to wake the state up to their needs or they will be subject to tyranny, he says. He claims that the reason the state does not record revenue by community and county is that it does not want people to know how little they get back and how much goes to bureaucracy.

He doubts that the redistricting plan will save money. As for the claim that it will make the House more efficient, McCarthy points out that the legislative process is meant to be deliberative, comprehensive and responsive, not quick and efficient.

He predicts that if the state is stampeded into making the House more controllable by special interests, urbanization will increase. This will mean the MBTA will be borne statewide and the Middlesex County courthouse will be on the Dukes County budget, he warns.

How Arm & Hammer Baking Soda helps maintain your pool's ideal pH and helps keep your water crystal clear.

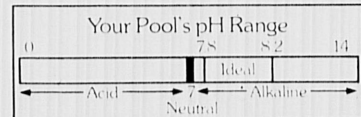

The 2 most important rules for easy pool care.

The most important rule to remember about pool care is to use a chlorinating product.

Recommended usage: Maintain a minimum chlorine level of 1.0 ppm Free Residual (Available) Chlorine.

The second most important rule to remember is to maintain the proper pH. And here's where Baking Soda goes to work. Baking Soda is a natural acid neutralizer and buffering agent which helps maintain pool pH at an ideal range of 7.8 to 8.2. This helps keep eyes from burning. And Baking Soda even helps improve water clarity—keeping your pool water crystal clear.

Recommended usage: Add 1 lb. of Baking Soda per 10,000 gallons of water each week during active pool season. Add a chlorinating product as needed.

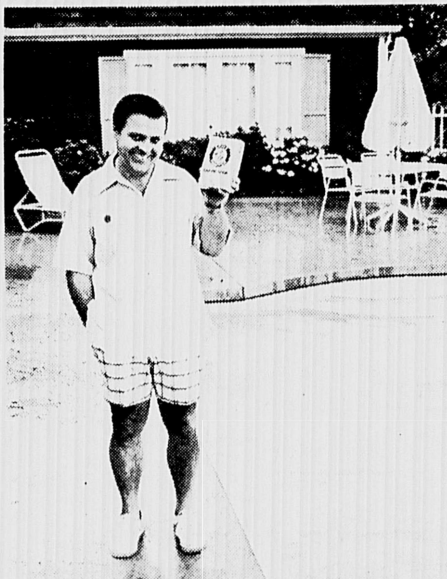

If pH reaches 8.2, you can discontinue weekly use of Baking Soda and use only as necessary to maintain a pH within 7.8 to 8.2. (Do not use Acid. If cloudiness occurs, run filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep the water clear

Your pool water is filled with tiny particles too small for your filter to remove. Some of these particles make the water cloudy. Baking Soda causes the smallest particles to become attached to larger ones which are then easily filtered out of the water. The result is crystal clear water. If cloudiness occurs when you add Baking Soda, run the filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep eyes from burning

When eyes sting or burn and chlorine odors can be detected from the pool water, the problem is usually one of low pH. A low pH promotes the formation of irritating chlorine-nitrogen byproducts. The best way to minimize the formation of these irritating byproducts is to control the pH of your pool water.

"Arm & Hammer Baking Soda is a pool owner's best friend."

By maintaining your pool's pH with Baking Soda, you automatically adjust the pH of your pool water into the ideal range of 7.8 to 8.2. As a result, eye irritation is kept to a minimum.

6 Rules for Pool Maintenance

1. Test water daily.
2. Daily chlorine measurements should be taken to assure proper germicidal activity. Free Residual (Available) Chlorine should be 1.0 ppm or above.
3. Maintain pH between 7.8 and 8.2. Once every week during active pool season use 1 lb. of Arm & Hammer Baking Soda for every 10,000 gallons of water.
4. Check filter regularly. Clean when necessary.
5. Check water hardness monthly, particularly in hard water areas. High water hardness may cause scaling. If total water hardness (as calcium carbonate) is above 300 ppm, do not use Baking Soda until pool has been drained and refilled.
6. If heater is used: Operate filter at least 15 minutes after heater is turned off.

Note: On occasion, particularly in a new pool or in pools being opened for the season, additional steps are required to bring the pool into balance more rapidly or to clear up problems such as algae growth or mineral accumulation. When these problems arise consult a pool expert in your area.

Test Kits

An accurate Test Kit is very important to avoid inaccurate readings which can cause problems in proper pool maintenance. Testing solutions should be replaced at least once every year.

How to estimate your pool's capacity

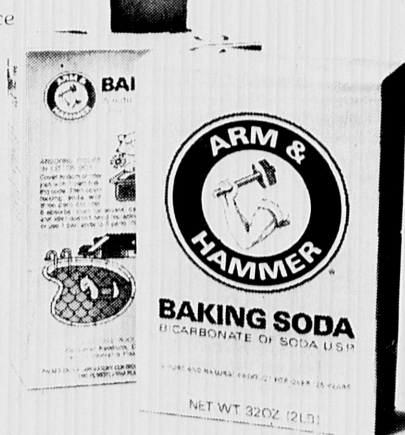

The average swimming pool contains approximately 20,000 gallons. However, an accurate record of the pool's water capacity in gallons is necessary since this measurement is often used to calculate amounts of chemicals for treating the pool water.

The following formulas can be used to approximate the total gallons of water a pool will hold.

Type Pool	Dimensions in feet	Gallon Capacity
Rectangular	Length x Width x Avg. Depth x 7.5 =
Circular	Diameter x Dia x Avg. Depth x 4.7 =
Oval	Length x Width x Avg. Depth x 4.7 =

Storm emergency

The sneak spring snowstorm that hit the area May 9-10 left nearly 100,000 Boston Edison customers without power, some for several days.

The fury of the unique storm, with trees in full foliage, led Boston Edison to implement its Major Emergency Plan of Operation (MEPO), a plan of action that replaces standard operating procedures when all or part of our system is in serious danger. The detailed, system-wide plan provides for mobilization of equipment, materials and employees, some on normal work assignments and others specifically assigned to critical areas. MEPO's objective is to restore service to the largest number of customers in the shortest possible time, with special attention to facilities essential to community health and welfare.

As outlined in the plan, our restoration efforts during this emergency were supplemented by line crews from other northeastern utilities and outside tree crews. In all, 357 crews including Boston Edison's contributed to the effort.

We regret the inconvenience to those of you who suffered outages and appreciate your patience throughout the difficult restoration period.

REALTOR

The Importance Of Location

Any Realtor will tell you that the three most important factors concerning the value of a house are: "Location, Location, Location." Unfortunately, most home buyers ignore this important advice.

Location is especially vital when buying a house for maximum resale value. Statistics say that you will be reselling your home long before the final mortgage payment is in the mail. Therefore, take a long, hard look, not only at the present, but the future prospects for the community and immediate neighborhood.

Select a location where raw land and house values have an increasing price trend. Especially check into the zoning laws for any unfavorable change which could cause a depreciation in the value of the neighborhood and the resale price of your home in the future.

Remember — you can remove, replace or remodel a house, but you can never change the location. So choose carefully.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester. Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

Tracksters finish second in Middlesex League competition

By Rick Pearl

Coaches Tom Kline and Manny Marshall's 1977 spring track team concluded the most successful high school season since the early 60's by demolishing Woburn last Tuesday, 111-34, to wind up the year at 7-2 and tied for second place.

It was a season of unsurpassed excitement for the two coaches and their team, as they had both an undefeated relay team and 440-runner to boast of after the dust had settled. The two big victories came against Belmont and Melrose, both at home at Skillings Field.

Against Belmont, who looked to be one of the toughest opponents for the Sachems, a big effort from high jumper Jimmy Burns led the way to an 83-5-61.5 victory. Melrose fell to a well-rounded effort from all the Winchester tracksters, with a big plus coming from the javelin throwers who swept all three positions for the first time all year. Woburn, which stood in the way of the best team record since 1965, never had a chance.

The 440-relay team of Scott Farrar, Charlie Larkin, Mark O'Neil, and David Mood picked up five quick points to start the meet (as they have all year) to start the rout. Other members of that relay team who played a major role in keeping that record intact were Bob Noel and Steve Duffy.

Larkin also remained beaten in the quarter mile (440). He won for the tenth (nine dual and one League meet) time this year in 51.8 seconds. Charlie now will move on to the State trials. Terry Cordova finished third.

Brian O'Connor won both the shot and discus events (again!) with Sachem's John Shattuck placing in the discus and Gerard DiBlasi in the shot. That trio accounted for 14 Winchester points in all.

Burns won the high jump with a 5'8", with Peter Santos taking a second.

Scott Kajander, an excellent hurdler, swept both the highs and lows for the Winchester cause. Santos was second in the highs and Kevin Gosselin was third in the lows.

Farrar won the 100-yard dash to lead a 1-2-3 sweep for the Sachems. Scott won in 10.7 seconds, Noel was second (10.8) and Duffy third (11.0).

A real boost for the Winchester morale came when hard-working Sammy Card pulled out his first victory of the season in the 2-mile race. Sam posted a fine time of 10:40.6.

Another big story in that race was the emergence of Jan Oehm as the second-place finisher.

It was the first time ever that a girl had placed Winchester boys meet, with Jan posting a time of 11:24. Jan has proven to be a big boost to the girl members of the track team, who will have their own squad next year.

Mark O'Neil continued to be impressive in the 220, as he also led a sweep of an event, in 23.8 seconds. Noel and Duffy (sound familiar) won the next two positions, in that order.

Ed Kirkpatrick, one of the great number of excellent sophomore runners on this year's team, won the half-mile (880) in 2:07.4.

The pole-vaulters took the first two slots with Tony Macinanti (11') and Andy Macdonnell (10') doing the honors.

Tommy Girard finished second in both the broad and triple jumps, with Dave Mood taking third in the broad.

The mile relay team of Santos, Wilsack, Wilber, and Paul Hamilton closed the meet with a victory (3:49.2).

Grange 343 seeks support for blind

Members of the Winchester Grange 343 are seeking support at their June 5 breakfast for the Carroll Center for the Blind and the Protestant Guild for the Blind.

The Carroll Center, formerly the Catholic Guild for the Blind, is located in Newton. It provides rehabilitation training for the blind and education for the public in understanding blindness.

The Protestant Guild for the Blind, located in Watertown, is a learning center for the multiply-handicapped, including the blind, retarded, deaf, autistic, and brain damaged.

The Grange is looking for public funds to assist in the training of the blind at these two centers.

Participants will be: Hugh Fraser and Christine Dwyer, last seen here in the Players fall production of Picnic; Mary Hughes, oral interpreter, of Medford; Dick Noonan, Winchester music teacher and entertainer; and Terry Linn, soon to be seen in Mousetrap with the Theatre Makers of Waltham.

A brief business meeting will precede the presentation and slides of recent productions will be shown by Dr. Robert A. Storer.

Choral group concert this Sat. and Sun.

The Mishawum Choral Society will hold two "Pops" concerts this weekend at St. Charles Hall in Woburn. Featuring medleys from "Oliver" and "My Fair Lady," the shows will be performed Saturday evening at 8 and Sunday evening at 7.

Tickets are available from any chorus member, or they may be purchased at the door.

The Mishawum Choral Society is a 70-voice chorus comprised of persons from the Burlington-Woburn-Wakefield-Winchester area as well as from several other communities. It is a non-profit, community chorus organized more than 13 years ago with the purpose of presenting pleasure to the community through music.

Herbert Black is award recipient

Herbert Black, Winchester resident and award-winning senior medical writer of the Boston Globe, was awarded the Presidential Medal from his alma mater, Tufts University, at the Millennium Club's annual dinner last week.

Black served as president of the Class of 1933, president of the Tufts Alumni Council and chairman of the Alumni Fund.

Dr. Jean Mayer, president of Tufts, cited Black as "a concerned writer, perceptive editor, and devoted alumnus." He said, "...as a dispassionate man, you have made the most arcane subjects in the area of health and medicine accessible to every reader. As a compassionate man, you have used your pen to describe the plight and to promote the welfare of the poorest and humblest of our fellow Americans."

Black, a member of the National Association of Science Writers and recipient of numerous awards, served as a Globe correspondent during two years of his studies in the Tufts School of Liberal Arts. After graduation he joined the night staff of the Globe and in July will have completed 44 years on the paper's full-time staff in various capacities. Black and his wife, Marion Tyler, reside at 7 Seneca rd. They have two children and four grandchildren.

Woburn wins 10-5

WHS baseball drops final game

By Rick Pearl

The Winchester Sachem baseball team ended the year on an all-too familiar note last Wednesday at Skillings Field. They suffered their 12th defeat in 18 games, bowing to the tourney-bound Woburn Tanners 10-5.

Woburn, behind the heavy hitting of Mark Ferrullo, Tom Masterson and John McCarthy overcame a 5-4 Winchester lead by scoring the equalizer in the fifth and then blowing the game wide open with a five-run seventh. Sachem hurler Reilly Atkinson (1-5) was tagged with the loss.

His opponent, Tanner Steve Marshall, who was a familiar face to many of the Winchester players from his days in the summer Recreation League, was hit just as hard as Atkinson but had a solid fielding club behind him. In all Woburn made three double plays and, other than a five-run third inning, Marshall was never threatened.

"I was generally disappointed with our season," said a weary Coach Jack Eydenberg afterwards. "I thought we'd do better but we didn't get off to a good start when our picking didn't come around at first. When it did the team as a whole just wasn't playing good ball."

"Maybe I was expecting a little too much," Eydenberg sighed, "but if I did it all over again I would've been just as excited. Mine weren't false expectations. I was being very honest when I said I thought we'd have one of the best clubs in the league. I guess it just wasn't meant to be."

Woburn put the final punctuation mark on this frustrating season. They started off with four runs in the first off Reilly. Mark Ferrullo began things with a long flyball that twisted away from rightfielder Bob Blasi towards the line for a home run.

Steve Benullo then walked, went to second on a bloop single by Masterson and scored on a line drive basehit to center by McCarthy. The two Tanner base-runners then pulled a double steal and both runners came home when Mark Lunardo tied to center.

Masterson scored on the sacrifice fly, and when the relay throw went wild McCarthy pulled in with the fourth Woburn run. Atkinson retired the next two (at the start of a 12-straight in a row string) on a pop up and strike out.

Winchester reached Marshall for two hits apiece in the first two innings but were erased both times. They finally broke through in the third.

With one out Mark McGoldrick beat out an infield hit. Marshall then lost his control temporarily and hit both Don Allard and Jon Pettee to load the bases. One run then came in when shortstop Ricky Johnson booted a ground ball by Powers, to make it 4-1.

Paul Medwar then got the hit of his career, a tremendous drive to the opposite field for a grand slam home run. Medwar's hit landed near the entrance to the tunnel leading to the ballpark and rolled all the way to the bushes where the pole vaulters compete in spring track. Paul's blast put the Sachems ahead, 5-4.

But after Atkinson breezed through the fourth the Tanners finally got back at him. Dave DeDonato led off the fifth with a walk. Dan Doherty then lined a sharp single into left with DeDonato holding at second. Ferrullo moved the runners along with a beautiful sacrifice bunt. After Benullo walked to load the bases, Masterson brought the tying run home with a sacrifice fly to center.

The Sachems threatened in both the fifth and sixth when, with one out in each case, Randy Pearl singled and then Mike Cavaretta walked, but sharp double plays killed rallies in both cases. Woburn won it in the next inning.

DeDonato led off with a line single to left. Doherty beat out a slow roller to Allard at short and Ferrullo loaded the bases with a hard-hit ball into left for a single.

Benullo tapped a ball back to the mound and Atkinson forced DeDonato at the plate for the first out but that was just the lull before the storm. Masterson hit a shot to left for a run and then McCarthy cleaned the bases with a three-run double up the right-center alley. Just like that it was 9-5.

Atkinson was pulled in favor of McGoldrick at that point and, after Goldy retired the first batter on a liner to center, Johnson singled to bring in the tenth and final Woburn run of the afternoon.

The Sachems went quietly in their half and this "longest of seasons" had finally and mercifully, come to a close. "Next year I'll look at things a little more realistically," concluded Coach Eydenberg. "I won't get too excited at the beginning."

BASEBALL NOTES: Many of the underclassmen on this year's team will play in the summer league under the watchful eye of Tom Mooney. "We're lucky to have a guy like Tom helping us," said Eydenberg. "He helps the kids with what they should know and is a very comparable coach." ... Captain Jon Pettee led the team in batting for the season with a .434 average. He also led the club in RBI's with 14. The team average was .247 (122 for 494).

Cardinals win first round of American Majors

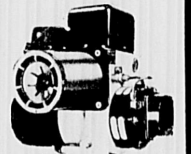

The first round of the Little League season came to a close recently with the Cardinals winning the American Major League. The Cards started fast and never looked back, finishing 9-0.

One reason for their success has been the outstanding play of pitchers Brenden Minnehan and Mike Colozzi and second baseman Kevin Scully. Minnehan and Colozzi are both 3-0 on the mound. Minnehan has pitched two one-hitters, and Colozzi leads the league with five home runs.

Scully leads the team in most other offensive categories while playing in one of the best infields in the league, with Scotty Nolan at first, Ricky Veitch at short, and Bobby Giarrizzo at third.

In the outfield are Eric Donaghey in center, flanked by Robert DiVincenzo and Steven McAdams. Donaghey had the team's best batting average most of the season. The team also has strength on the bench, with infielders Robert Bosco and Tony Todisco and outfielders Josh Keller and Andy Laats. All have contributed to the team's winning season.

Softball season ends with losses to Belmont, Woburn

By Rick Pearl

The Sachems of Coach Joan Rosazza had their season halted abruptly last week when they lost two routs to Belmont, 20-8, and Woburn, 13-2. The pair of losses dropped their final record to 4-15 (4-14 league).

Winchester was in both games...for a while, but then both the Marauders last Wednesday and the Tannerettes last Friday came back with a vengeance and wound up smashing the Sachem girls. The season concluded on an eleven-game losing streak, the worst of any team in the league.

BELMONT

For four innings it was one of the better games of the season - a close, high-scoring affair between the Belmont Marauders and the Winchester Sachems at Ginn Field last Wednesday. In the next three innings, however, Belmont shifted to high gear and left the Sachem softball team standing in their tracks.

Eight to eight was the score after those first four frantic frames, but after the regulation seven, the visitors had added 12 runs to their total while Winchester chalked up a big zero.

Belmont scored four runs in each of the last three innings on a combined total of nine hits, four walks, and five Sachem errors. Sue Trischitta had a fun day for the visitors, going three for five, scoring four runs and driving in five. She reached base in all three of those four-run innings and drove in three runs, two with a big triple in the seventh.

Vicki Hebert had four RBI's for Belmont and leadoff and number nine batters Joanne Douglas and Janice Barmakian (respectively) each scored four runs. It wasn't exactly an easy day for Winchester pitcher Pat Harrington (2-7) in her final mound appearance. In all the Marauders chalked up 15 hits.

But, as was mentioned, this game was close for a good while. After Belmont surged ahead with three runs in the first inning the Sachems tied it in their half.

Audrey Leach smashed her second home run in as many games when she poked a deep drive to centerfield to lead off. After one out was registered Kelly Gately smacked a basehit into the hole and reached second when Trischitta threw the ball away.

Gately went to third on yet another error by Trischitta on a ball hit by Bitser Dexter. Kathleen Driscoll brought Kelly home with a single to left and Diane Cullen sent Dexter across the plate with another basehit for a 3-3 deadlock.

Belmont picked up three in the second and two in the third before Winchester climbed back for the final time. It all started with one out in the bottom of the third.

Driscoll singled to right. Cullen knocked her in with a long triple to left field. Susan Yavner bunted Cullen home and reached herself for a basehit, making it 8-5.

Toni Vacca kept things alive with a solid single to center with Yavner moving up on an overthrow by the centerfielder, Hebert. Barbara Redmond brought in Yavner with a basehit to center with Vacca going to third. Barb then stole second.

After Leach fled out, Harrington knocked both runners home with a sharp single to right. Gately kept the attack up with a basehit and when Dexter walked Winchester had the bases loaded with a tie score. But Driscoll couldn't pick up where she left off and popped up to the catcher.

That was to be the locals last gasp. Belmont pitcher Janice Barmakian settled down and retired twelve of the last thirteen batters while her teammates went on a rampage. Talk about frustrating...

WOBURN

Four weeks ago last Friday this softball season looked as bright as it ever could be. Coach Joan Rosazza's girls had just defeated the defending state champions from Lexington and had evened up their Middlesex League record at 3-3. Twenty nine days later the Woburn Tannerettes capped a disappointing 11-game losing streak by handing the Sachems a 13-2 setback at Library Field in the season finale.

The season that looked to have been turned around by that impressive four-game winning streak ended instead in one final frustration. A win over Woburn would have salvaged the whole season - but - a win they didn't get.

Tannerette sophomore Barbara Galante hurled a tidy eight-hitter, while walking only two, and her team mates took care of the runs in an awesome display of power hitting. Kathleen Driscoll took the loss (2-8) although she appeared to be getting stronger and quicker as the innings wore on.

Winchester actually had a 1-0 lead before the Woburn onslaught with a run in the top half of the first. With one out, Pat Harrington popped a double into left field as the ball took a weird hop past Noreen Kennedy in the outfield. After the second out, Bitser Dexter bloomed another double, this one down the right field line, to drive in Harrington.

Woburn came back with two runs in their half. With one out Kate Martin walked and stole second. Beth Ann McGuerty then singled to center and when Audrey Leach threw the relay past third base, Katey trotted in with the equalizer. McGuerty moved to third on the play and scored on an error by catcher Leanne Fitzgerald.

The eventual winning run came around in the second. Galante helped herself with a leadoff single to center. Nancy Freeman then blasted a long triple way over centerfielder Kelly Gately's head to make it 3-1. Her sister, Barbara Freeman, then brought her home by reaching on an error.

Two more walks, a fielder's choice and a two-run single by Therese Ryan added three more runs to make it 7-1. Beth Ann's two-run homer to center and another run on an error made it 10-1 after three.

A pair of runs came across in the fourth on a walk and three singles, and Kennedy singlehandedly scored one in the fifth by walking, stealing both second and third, and coming across on a wild pitch.

Winchester's final run came in the seventh. Diane Cullen singled and was forced at second by Redmond. Toni Vacca then beat out an infield roller for another hit. With two out Audrey Leach singled to load the bases. Harrington then walked to force home the second Sachem score. Kelly Gately, who hit the ball hard three times to no avail, hit one right to the shortstop, Barb Freeman, for a force play ending the game.

The team was hitting the ball well all afternoon but usually right at somebody. The fielding was the best it's been in a long time and Kathleen's pitching really wasn't all that bad. But just as when the Sachems were winning they couldn't do anything wrong, for the past eleven games they haven't been able to do anything right.

The clock struck midnight last Friday in Woburn. The glass slipper is still waiting for its owner to emerge.

SOFTBALL NOTES: Kelly Gately led the team in batting with a fine .371 mark (26-70). She also tied for the team lead in RBI's with co-captain Audrey Leach, with 11. The team as a whole batted an excellent .271...There were four homers hit this year, with Leach leading the team with two. Diane Cullen and Pat Harrington hit the others.

Bike Rodeo Sunday for grades 1-6

Winchester children from grades 1 through 6 will be able to have some fun while learning about bicycling safety at the Bicycle Rodeo, to be held Sunday from 1-3 p.m. behind the police station.

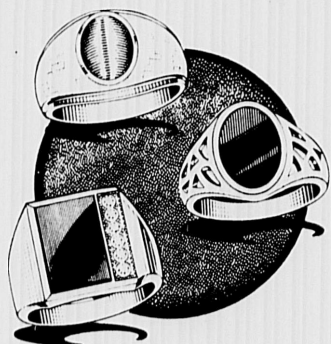

The event is being coordinated by police and the Community Schools Association, along with the help of numerous volunteers.

Prizes and handouts have been supplied by Winchester merchants, and the Winchester Business and Professional Association donated prizes for each age group. In addition, the Winchester Kiwanis has provided favors for the children, and the En Ka Society has offered bike rider comic books and rodeo stickers for all riders.

The police department is making available a special "ghost rider" balloon for all of the children. Other contributors to the event include the Jaycees, who as part of their crime prevention program will engrave each bike with the owner's last name and phone number; the Piantadosi Bakery, which is supplying plastic bags to carry the handouts and prizes home; Arlington Lithograph, which printed bike licenses for the kids; and the auxiliary fire department, which is setting up the music and public address system.

Helping out at the rodeo will be the local Boy Scouts, who will earn merit badges for their participation, and the Winchester Police Explorers Post No. 8. Community Schools Association and Town Bicycle Committee members will serve as inspectors and helpers.

If you drive to public transportation, take a neighbor. It's cheaper.

Students perform in final Adventures in Music concert

Adventures in Music recently completed another very successful season with their annual student participation concert. The student instrumentalists, the composition winners, and the student dancers all contributed to a very enjoyable performance.

At the concert, winners of the annual composition contest were announced. Each composition had to be original and at least 12 measures in length.

Lyndon Lien, a sixth grader, won with his composition entitled, "March Jubilee" which he wrote for the violin. Sara Scriven is Lyndon's violin teacher.

Students of music teacher Carole Fieleke who won were: Eric Fieleke with his piece, "The Phoenix," Eve-Laure Moros whose composition was titled, "Rondo Ostinato" and Charlotte Hartunian's "Lonely Journey in C Minor." These students played their own compositions at the concert.

Honorable Mention awards went to Elizabeth Wechsler, Beth Frank, Leslie Lien, Diane Intravala, and Michelle Stolor. All are students of Carole Fieleke.

Through the school music department students were introduced to Igor Stravinsky's Circus Polka before the concert. They were encouraged to write poems or draw pictures of circus animals. The winners were displayed at the concert and incorporated into the ballet.

Winchester students performing in the ballet were Jennifer Mirak, Rene La Cascis, Daniel Conti, Sara Warren, Glenn Shaw, and Jill Mirak.

Miss Coppins fourth in 4-H competition

Debbie Coppins, of 3 Thornton rd., a member of the senior class of Winchester High, placed 4th with a total point score of 147 out of a possible 150 at the Middlesex County Light Horse Field Day, April 23 in Westford, site of the County 4H Fairgrounds. This final position placed her on the Middlesex County Judging Team that this spring will compete against the other county teams in Ashland at the State 4H Center.

Debbie has been a member of the Woburn 4H Ranger Horse Club for the past five years, holding official positions for many of them including president for the past two. At the club's annual Christmas award dinner this year she was presented with the club's citizenship trophy.

Besides winning many ribbons in local horse shows over the years she won the coveted Fitting and Showmanship Grand Champion 1st place trophy and ribbon at the Middlesex County Annual 4H Fair last August, entering with her horse Spicy Bandit.

Local artist has painting in museum exhibit

Claudia K. Edgell of 8 Sheffield West, a graduate of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts School, has one of her paintings on exhibit at the museum's current show, "Art in Transition."

The show celebrates the 100th anniversary of the museum school with 245 works of art created by graduates of the school.

Mrs. Edgell's painting, a gouache landscape entitled "September Sunlight," was painted in 1950 and has been exhibited at the Boston Arts Festival in 1953 and at a Winchester Art Association exhibit. The painting is a Winchester scene: a view from Overlook way down across the one-time Pond Estate.

The "Art in Transition" exhibit will continue until June 12.

Ted Lorenzetti of Winchester has announced final plans for a 12,000 sq. ft. office building at 329 Washington st., Woburn. Neelon Management Company of Waltham says that the office facility will be on three levels.

Victoria Sirota, director of the Cloister Garden Concerts at The Parish of the Epiphany, announced this week the artists who will present the programs for the 1977 Cloister Series. Weekly Wine Facts

ZELLER SCHWARZE KATZ

ZELL - iTselli - Little vineyard town in the lower Moselle Valley well outside the district of superior wine, presumably the original source of what has become internationally famous as Zeller Schwarze Katz. A common, nondescript, commercial Moselle blend rarely in fact from Zell; this doubtless owes its popularity to its odd name, and label. Schwarze Katz means black cat, and the familiar cat is always present on the label.

Serve well chilled and enjoy with your fish or poultry dishes. It is very refreshing on ice along with cheese and crackers.

Grants honored on retirement from Boston drama faculty

Dr. Harlan F. Grant and Mrs. Florence Grant of 22 Pierrepont rd. were tendered a reception on May 15, at the Boston Conservatory of Music Theater, Boston, in honor of their retirement after 45 years on the Boston Conservatory drama department faculty. More than 125 faculty members, former students from several states representing graduating classes as far back as 1940, and friends were present to wish them well.

At the Convocation ceremonies last September, the Boston Conservatory awarded Harlan Grant an Honorary Degree of Doctor of Fine Arts, the first such degree in the 110 years of its history. Dr. Grant has been chairman of the department of drama for the past 40 years. He was founder and director of the Weston (Vt.) Playhouse, a professional summer theater for thirty-five years, retiring in 1972. Currently, he is chairman of the advisory board of the New England Theater Conference and was one of the Conference's founders in 1951. Dr. Grant, in 1976 received the American Theater Association's Gold Award of Excellence for years of service as an adjudicator for American College Theater Annual Festivals.

Florence Grant taught history of costume and stage makeup at the Conservatory for 45 years. She was co-manager at the Weston Playhouse since its inception and for many years its scenic designer. She is a member of the Winchester Studio Guild. Both Dr. and Mrs. Grant were active with the Parish Players of First Congregational Church, Winchester for many years. They have lived in Pierrepont road in Winchester for the past 20 years. Both plan to continue their work in art and theater.

The skits were created by the students themselves, who were also responsible for the costumes and props. After the performance, students served quiche Lorraine and French pastry of their own making. This second annual "Soiree Francaise" was well received by parents, students and faculty members in attendance.

One of Mrs. Leslie Hastings' eighth grade French classes at Lynch also presented an evening performance for their parents. The students wrote, memorized, and practiced an entire evening of television programs in French, including the news, two game shows, scenes from the Waltons, All that Glitters, The French Chef, and several commercials. After the program, the parents and students together enjoyed a variety of french desserts prepared by the students and their teacher.

and safety latches on the windows.

2. Connect a lamp to a automatic timer to turn lights in the home on and off each evening. Since noise is a deterrent, connect radio or TV to a timer.

3. Protect all doors and windows, with an inexpensive, portable burglar alarm which sounds whenever someone attempts to break in.

4. Light up your porch and yard with outdoor lights to increase the likelihood that an attempted burglar would be seen. These lights can also be timer-controlled, if desired.

5. Be sure all screens are fastened from the inside.

6. Never leave valuables lying around; keep them in a safety deposit box.

7. Notify your police department when you'll be leaving and how long you expect to be away.

8. Cancel all deliveries, such as the milk, laundry, cleaning, etc. Also, be sure to discontinue the newspaper or arrange to have it sent to your vacation address.

9. Have a neighbor, or your post office, hold all mail until your return.

10. Arrange with a friend to mow the law and sweep your sidewalk once a week. Also ask him if he'll pick up any circulars or handbills that may be left on your porch.

11. Leave your shades and blinds as you normally do; closed blinds keep the sun out, but also make an effective screen for the burglar.

12. Never advertise your departure with an item in the local paper.

There is no such thing as a "burglar proof" home, the Chief says, but he added, following the suggestions listed above will help to protect your home whenever you're away.

June is burglary prevention month

The month of June has been declared by Police Chief John P. McHugh to be "Burglary Prevention Month." During this week, the police department will provide information to help you protect your home from burglars.

Failure to know and practice the fundamental techniques of home protection was largely responsible for the burglaries committed in Winchester last year. Although most people didn't intentionally invite intruders to ransack their home, they might as well have hung up a sign saying, "No one's home, burglars welcome!"

A stroll around your neighborhood any day will tell you at a glance who's away: porches cluttered with circulars, an accumulation of milk bottles on the stoop, an unkempt lawn, an empty garage with the door open or a bulging mailbox. All of these are tip-offs that'll broadcast "no one's home" to anyone canvassing the neighborhood.

In the evening, most empty homes can be spotted too — just look for the dark houses. It's a known fact, light is one of the best deterrents to crime, yet most homeowners go out for an evening and leave their homes completely dark. Or, they'll go off for a weekend or vacation and leave the same light burning day and night. No light at all, or a light burning continuously, is a good giveaway.

A simple, but effective means of having light in your home every evening, is by connecting a automatic timing device to one or two lamps. Such a timer will turn a lamp on early in the evening, then turn it off several hours later. With lights turning on and off during the evening hours, it may give the appearance someone is home and may avert a possible burglary attempt.

Chief McHugh explains that most burglars pick the easiest targets they can find. They want to get in, get the loot and get away as quickly as possible. Therefore, if you put several obstacles in their way, they are less likely to try to break into your home, but will seek "easy pickings" elsewhere. By observing these few simple precautionary steps, you can reduce the possibility of a burglar selecting your dwelling as his target next time you're away:

1. Close and lock all doors, including porch, basement and garage. Use pin-tumbler cylinder locks on outside entrances

Professional and amateur artists and craftsmen from Winchester and nearby communities are readying their works for display. Paintings, jewelry, photographs, and creations in other media will be shown from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Most of the work will be for sale, and all will be in competition for prizes.

As in the past, all proceeds from this showing go into a program to promote interest in the arts. There will be members of the art association available at the show to answer questions pertaining to membership and activities.

Measles clinic at Town Hall Tuesday

The Winchester Board of Health is sponsoring a measles, mumps and rubella combined vaccine clinic for school age children Tuesday from 3:45-5 p.m. at the health office in Town Hall.

The vaccine is to be administered to children in grades 1-12 who received measles immune globulin with the vaccine (before 1966) and for those who have never been vaccinated.

All children must be accompanied by a parent and parental permission must be signed at the clinic. For more information, call the office, 729-1104.

Starts June 15

Middlesex Bar sponsoring legal information clinics

Residents of Middlesex County who need legal information will benefit from a new program sponsored by the Middlesex County Bar Association.

The Bar Association is instituting a Legal Information Clinic, to be held the first and third Wednesdays of each month from 5-8 p.m. in the Bar's headquarters on the fourth floor of the new Middlesex County Courthouse, 40 Thordike st., (corner of Third street), Cambridge.

The clinic is free and the only eligibility requirement is residency in Middlesex County. The clinic is intended to serve those who can afford a lawyer as well as those who cannot.

The first clinic will be held June 15. Approximately 10 Middlesex County lawyers will be on hand at each clinic to answer questions. Expertise in virtually all areas of law, both civil and criminal — including divorce, property, contracts, landlord and tenant, taxes and tort — will be provided. Those attending the clinic will meet with legal consultants in private rooms, and privacy and confidentiality are assured.

Must have a plan

Cab owners respond to mandate for night coverage

Winchester Taxi Owners Association President Richard Terzian assured the board of selectmen Monday night that owners would come up with a rotating plan of taxi coverage at night, possibly as soon as this week.

At the request of Selectmen Chairman Barbara S. Hankins, Terzian will provide a monthly schedule of taxis "on call" to meet the last train or provide other late night rides when called either before-hand or from the train depot.

Although charged two weeks ago to come before the board with the plan, Terzian indicated that the preferred system is the so-called "instant response plan" by which a party calls a cab before arriving in Winchester. "If that cab is unavailable," he said, "we can have something like a mutual aid system worked out so that the call is passed on to another cab, and so forth, until there's one available for the ride."

Terzian said that only once in recent months has he been unable to answer a late night call. Hankins and other members of the board cited "several, more than one" phone calls and letters complaining about lack of taxi service in the late evening hours. James T. Sullivan, owner of Winchester Cab Company, said, "It is uneconomical for me to cover the station after 7 p.m. and I can't sit there at 12:30 for a $1.20 fare. I have always been available, and I still am, for emergency calls and lab runs and blood calls all night, but I just can't sit there waiting for someone who may not come."

Selectman Edward O'Connell said, "It appears to be a 'no-plan plan' with no systematic method of responding," in reaction to Terzian's mutual aid plan.

After some discussion about the social responsibility of cab service and the possibility of incorporating an on-call system into the hackney carriage license itself, the selectmen called for a monthly listing of

Flags, bike stolen in breaks

There were the usual housebreaks and motor vehicle accidents for police to handle last week, but a couple of incidents had unusual twists to them.

On May 29 two flags were taken from the walls of the Mystic School portables. Another break that day occurred at the Wheelworks, 167 Washington st., where a bicycle was reported missing after police investigated the windows which had been tampered with.

At 10:40 that morning, police received a call about a convertible roof which had been slashed behind O'Neil's Pharmacy, 294 Washington st. Later that night, at 10:20, police apprehended a juvenile in connection with the theft of a CB radio worth $169 from a car on Squire road.

There was a housebreak on Wolcott terrace reported at 4:35 p.m. on May 30. Two youths were seen going into the bushes apparently carrying stereo equipment. Neither the youths nor the missing speakers were located.

The Parkview Apartments were the location of another break on May 30 when entrance into one of the apartments was made via the bedroom window. Police reported that a sewing machine, silverware, liquor, and a handiron were missing.

On May 31 a 14-year-old was apprehended in connection with the theft of a $200 bicycle at Purity Supreme. Officer William D. Saraco caught the thief on Highland avenue.

A car was stolen from the Parkview Apartments that night. It was recovered in Somerville, stripped of wheels, radio, batteries, and other equipment.

The Noonan School was vandalized May 30. Windows were broken, a speaker taken from the wall, and an outdoor spotlight broken.

There was a break reported at an Ardley road house, where some jewelry and a mink stole were taken. Entrance was through a rear window.

On June 2, a student was arrested at the high school for drinking. The court turned him over to the juvenile department's custody and he was again arrested later in the day.

Gene Frieda, 23, of 343 Cross st., was arrested June 3 and charged with breaking and entering in the nighttime when he was apprehended after a break at the VFW hall on River street. He was sentenced to a year in the house of correction.

There was another housebreak on June 3 on Sussex road where a window was smashed to gain entrance. Five oriental rugs and some silverware were reported stolen.

An unusual accident occurred at 11:33 p.m. June 3 when Robert P. Nuttall of Medford backed up his car, which skidded, causing Nuttall to lose control. The car landed on top of the stone wall at 61 Grove st. and required towing.

charges of trespassing in the Fells. Police Chief John P. McHugh notes that the MDC is being more stringent in enforcing the "no trespassing" rules in that area.

On June 6, police apprehended four juveniles after they received reports of debris on the train tracks. One hundred yards of track were covered with rocks, wood, tree limbs, and other materials in the area of Cross and Hill streets. At 2:05 p.m., Officer Kevin P. Mawn responded to the call.

Also on Monday there was a break reported at a Henry street residence where a television set was taken. It was found in the vacant lot next door. Entry was through the front door glass.

Tax increase cut by two dollars as town meeting ends

Winchester's tax rate for next year should go up by no more than $1.50. It may not go up at all.

The annual spring town meeting wrapped up its 10th and final session last Thursday by voting to apply $400,000 in general surplus revenues against the tax rate. The transfer makes for a $2 reduction in the expected $3.50 increase for the next fiscal year.

The meeting also acted on several proposed zoning changes. One of these allows for the continued use of the portable classrooms at the Mystic School; another paves the way for Winchester Savings Bank's plans to renovate the Winchester Theater site on Main street.

The $400,000 transfer against the tax rate came on an amendment by TMM Michael Saraco. His arguments persuaded the meeting to accept his figure over the $47,000 recommended by the finance committee and the $280,000 moved by the selectmen and the town manager.

The FinCom defended their figure on the grounds that a surplus fund of five percent of the current year's expenditures would keep the town in sound financial shape. The selectmen supported a surplus of four percent.

The FinCom had started with a sum of $420,000 to be applied against the tax rate but cut their figure to $47,000 when they learned that the state had reduced Winchester's Chapter 766 (special education) reimbursement by $373,000.

"We're trying to set a standard," said FinCom Chairman John Williams. He warned the meeting that funds should be set aside to cover future expenses, adding that the town's expenses are increasing about four percent a year, while revenues are increasing by only one percent.

Saraco responded by pointing out that the town had set up a stabilization fund to establish a firm financial position for the town and added that, starting this year, $15,000 has been put away in a conservation fund as well.

"We're surviving, we're living," Saraco said, "but what about the folks on Social Security, those whose saving days are over — let's give 'em a break."

The board of health director noted that of $600,000 set aside last year to cover contract negotiations, $400,000 was used, leaving $200,000. Another $107,000 went from the school department's personal services budget back to surplus funds, according to Saraco. He also listed a number of balances left over from old accounts which have yet to be transferred to the general surplus fund.

"We're taking out $300,000 we should have taken out last year," Saraco argued. To bolster his argument, he questioned the town manager's forecast that all of the money budgeted last year would be spent by June 30.

"We know that isn't true," Saraco said. The final argument in favor of transferring the $400,000 was offered by Saraco: that putting money aside for future negotiations may encourage employees to hold out for a higher settlement.

Treading the middle path, Selectmen Chairman Barbara Hankins insisted that the town should keep money on hand to account for future employee negotiations. Town Manager Thomas Groux backed her up.

saying that the $280,000 figure would strike an appropriate balance between putting some money away for next year and returning some to the taxpayers.

FinCom member Sally Kincaid commented after the meeting that the $400,000 transfer, adopted by a voice vote, "puts the pressure on revaluation." She estimated the town is well below full valuation at present.

The Mystic School portable classrooms may now remain open for the next few years due to a zoning change voted at Thursday's meeting.

The change excludes "existing temporary school structures" from the 40 foot minimum front yard requirement under SC1 (conservancy-institutional) zoning.

Support for this measure came from some Wyman parents, who argued that closing the portables would only "further disrupt" the educational process by forcing the school administration to redistrict some of the children at Mystic to the Lincoln School.

"The school committee sees no educational value to closing the portables at this time," stated Constance Pappas of the school board.

Though she agreed with the board, Wyman parent Marion Crandall, alluding to the closing of the Wyman School, noted, "It makes little sense to hold onto a temporary structure and eliminate a permanent one."

A more forceful statement was read by Jean Wyleman, another Wyman parent. She said, "The portables stand guarding the concept of the neighborhood school," adding that she was "against moving Winchester's children across town like pawns on a chessboard." She urged the school board to seek a more permanent solution to the districting problems at the Mystic School.

Another vote of the meeting rezoned the Winchester Theater property to a Center Business District (CBD). This change will allow the Winchester Savings Bank to go ahead with plans to renovate the building.

The property was previously within a CBD but had been rezoned to a residential district for apartments at the request of an earlier owner. Because the apartments were never built, the status of the property was in limbo.

The bank's renovation plans call for enlarging the building and turning it into a mini-mall, with space for new bank offices and two dozen or more retail stores. The project also calls for at least 100 parking spaces and additional greenery on the property. The bank must now go back to the zoning administrator to resolve problems of parking capacity requirements.

Bank board chairman James F. Dwinell Jr. estimated an annual tax return to the town from the property of between $60-70,000, versus roughly $10,000 received now by the town.

"We hope this project may serve as a rallying point, as a catalyst for the revitalization of Winchester Center," Dwinell concluded.

The zoning change was adopted unanimously.

Two parcels of land located between Main street and the Boston and Maine Railroad to the north and south of Skillings road were rezoned from Light Industrial (IL) to General Business District. Joseph F. Geary Jr. of the planning board said his board felt that having IL zoning so close to the center was inadvisable. He also noted that there were few, if any, lots within the areas which could meet the space requirements of an IL zone.

A zoning change permitting barber or beauty shops, shoe repair shops, self-service dry-cleaning or laundries within an IL zone was voted unanimously. The motion was brought in a citizen's petition by Ralph Marchesi.

The change would allow Marchesi to rent out the first floor of a residence on Swanton street to a beauty parlor (or similar use). The property had been so used in the past as a "legal, non-conforming" use, and the designation had expired when Marchesi was unable to rent out the facility. He now had a prospective tenant.

The property on which stands the vacated New Hope Baptist Church on Cross street was rezoned to allow for residential use. Proponents noted that such a use was consistent with the surrounding area.

A sum of $28,663 was appropriated for highway repairs and improvements. The money is to be matched with any state and county funds available for that purpose.

Opposition to this article focused on the fact that a $42,000 remains in the Wellesley Club donates funds, hears speakers

The Winchester Wellesley Club voted an increase in their gift to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation at their recent annual meeting. Club donations were also voted for the Wellesley Students Aid Society and the college's development fund.

The increased gift to the scholarship fund was made possible by the success of the club's Green Day event.

The Wellesley group also heard a pair of speakers. In the morning, Jonathan Fairbanks, curator of the department of American Decorative Arts at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, spoke on historic and fashionable trends in the decorative arts. The talk was accompanied by slides and an exhibit of decorative art.

The afternoon speaker was Carol LeBrun Danikian, art editor for the Christian Science Monitor. She spoke about trends in American painting.

Club members adopted a resolution to aid individual students through such events as the American Arts Forum, a preview of which is planned for September. Nancy Hudson, coordinator of the forum, told the gathering about the preview, for which members will be selling tickets.

The group also took a vote to adopt a new constitution and by-laws. The new rules represent a year's work by the committee consisting of Ann McGovern, Margie McIndoe, Gloria Swanson and Alice Mirak.

A new category of honorary life membership for those who have been Wellesley College graduates for 50 years or more was adopted, and the following members were elected: Hannah Tilton Abbe, Bertha Kelley Blanchard, Molly Arrowsmith Davis, Vera Hemenway, Dorothy Dey Howard, Elizabeth Fotte Hoxie, Nina A. Richardson, E. Doris Garret Shanklin, Dorothy DeLand Stone, Dorothy Bullard Worthen, and Marian Kendall Wright.

Club President Alice Mirak welcomed Theo Green and Alice Schell, mothers of Wellesley students, and introduced Carolyn Elliott, who is director of the Center for Research on Women in Higher Education and the Professions at the college.

In her talk, Ms. Elliott suggested that all women work, whether in paid or volunteer positions. She described the initiation of research, conferences and publications by the center concerning the extended life work of all men and women.

account for road repairs on Lake and Palmer streets. A motion to take the matching funds out of the $42,000 was defeated.

Town meeting passed an insurance budget (for several different types of coverage) of $92,691. Approval of this item had been held due to rate increases which came about in mid-May.

The meeting approved a motion to direct the committee on government regulations to look into possible revisions to the town charter. The committee will hold at least two public hearings on the issue.

The Winchester Center Study Committee, which has been meeting since last spring, gave a report to the meeting outlining possible modes of action to improve the retail business climate in the center. The committee concluded in its report that there were no "major" problems in the center, merely what they termed "a series of manageable problems."

Action on the options outlined by the committee was deferred to the fall town meeting so that TMMs might better acquaint themselves with the options.

The report noted that the total valuation of the downtown properties has declined from $4.6 million in 1968 to $4 million in 1975. "The current tax contribution from the center of town amounts to approximately $1.50-1.75 on the tax rate."

shall use the crib. There is no longer a pen-like structure in the water for young children. Other regulations were changed to recognize the advent of mopeds and skateboards. Still others were deleted because of language problems which clouded the intent of the rule.

The question of whether to allow mopeds (motorized bikes) on sidewalks and bicycle paths will be turned over to the bicycle study committee for its evaluation. Skateboarding was added to the list of prohibitions in parks and playgrounds so that now the rule, if accepted by the board and the town manager, would read: No person shall use roller skates or skateboards, or coast, skate, or slide in any park or playground except at such times and at such places as may be designated therefore.

The prohibition against the use of dice on the beaches was changed to allow for board games which require dice as part of the playing, like Monopoly, and the word "gambling" was substituted where appropriate.

Other interesting possibilities would allow the playing of musical instruments, which is now prohibited except with written consent from the DPW director. Selectmen Chairman Barbara S. Hankins, the mother of a flute-playing daughter, quipped, "I think it would be very nice on a summer day to hear a flute in the park."

The question of limiting access to beaches and tennis courts to residents only will be further clarified by Town Counsel Douglas A. Randall. He expressed concern over the constitutionality of such a restriction, although Selectman Harry E. Chelafalo said he preferred to see the limitation enforced.

In other action before the board Monday, John M. Ryan, 102 Hillcrest pkwy., was appointed to the third vacancy on the Council on Aging. Ryan joins new appointees Ruth Thompson and Clarence Borggaard for a three-year term ending March 31, 1980.

A public hearing is scheduled for discussion on re-laying two gas lines, one each on Buschcliff terrace and Sheridan circle. Chairman Barbara S. Hankins noted the large number of signs indicating garage and yard sales, despite restrictions against the posting of such signs. Police will be asked to remove them.

Selectman Arthur E. Dunbar volunteered to serve on the Rothberg Study Review Committee looking into restructuring county government. A request came from the Middlesex County Advisory Board for a designee to that committee.

Pets steal show at Washington

The Washington School Mothers' Association recently sponsored a pet show for children in the school.

Each child had to write about the responsibilities of pet ownership and submit a picture of their pet. Special prizes went to several of the children on the thought, effort and presentation that went into their essay.

Nick Molea, George Flynn, Harvey Kornicks and Robert O'Brien judged the entries. The first prize winners were the following: most well groomed dog, Brian Bolstridge; most well groomed cat, Stephen Hall; most well groomed other, Anthony Johnson; pet with the biggest feet and largest, Cybelle Parsignault; pet with the smallest ears, Jennifer and Chris Thorne; pet with the shortest tail, David Banks; most unusual and smallest pet, Jay Stewart; most obedient pet, Kathy Shao; most talented pet, Jill Lundin; dog with the longest tail and largest, Shawn Bonner; dog with the longest ears, Mike Donahey; smallest dog, Jennie McNutt.

Nine local troops participated under the direction of Mrs. Betty Vanderbilt, camping consultant for the Winchester GSA. Mrs. Carolyn Johnson, president of the local GSA, and Sue Friberg.

The patrols took part in various demonstrations and skill contests in knot-tying and lashing, first aid, and fire building. Troop 482 won the camping skills competition and Troop 544 won the award for the best set up campsite. Other activities included a campfire with a flag-burning ceremony conducted by Troop 495.

The nine troops and their leaders who went on the campout were Lincoln 482, led by Mrs. Lorna Tsekares; Muraco 497, with Ruth Maillari; Mystic 502, Janet Kohr; Mystic 509, Mrs. Barbara Welch; Parkhurst 544, Mrs. Jane Twitchell; St. Mary's 484, Mrs. Veronica Fiorillo; Vinson-Owen 470, Mrs. Mary Hackett; Vinson-Owen 475, Mrs. Barbara Gray; and Washington 495, Mrs. Mary Lou Chebook.

Ms. Abbott B.A.

Laurel Anne Abbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Abbott of 10 Norwood st., was graduated from Williams College on June 5. She received a B.A. in American civilization. Among her college activities, Ms. Abbott was co-captain of women's crew.

Home & Garden members donate for conservancy

Members of the Winchester Home and Garden Club have donated more than $400 toward a land preservation project at Halfway Pond Island in Plymouth County.

The conservancy project at Halfway Pond Island is Massachusetts' part of a nationwide land preservation effort being coordinated by the American Land Trust.

Former Gov. Francis W. Sargent spoke on the subject at the 50th annual meeting of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts, held recently in Sturbridge. Mrs. Walter L. Dignam, Mrs. Wilbur F. Lewis, and Mrs. Paul W. Nelson were among the more than 300 members representing garden clubs throughout the state, participating in the two day, golden anniversary meeting.

Mrs. William R. Thurston of Harvard was elected to the office of president and Mrs. Everett Schwartz Jr. of Weston was elected to a second year as East Middlesex district director.

LWV's Simpson named to post on state board

Diane Simpson, former president of the Winchester League of Women Voters, has been named to the state board as director for fiscal policy.

Mrs. Simpson was appointed at the 43rd convention of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts held recently at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel.

The delegates at the convention voted to support the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment in other states; and, as part of a state program, voted to include a study on financing government.

Six hundred delegates from 110 local leagues attended the convention. Representing the Winchester League were the following delegates: Marcia Wood, president; Dianne Simpson, Fran McClintock, Vicki Wiedwald and Jeanne Duffy. Observers were Meri Jordan and Cynthia Turnquist.

"STOP! DON'T SWEAT IT. SIMPLY MOVE A FEW INCHES LEFT OR RIGHT TO GET A NEW VIEWPOINT. Look... Reality is greater than the sum of its parts, also a damn sight holier. And the lives of such stuff as dreams are made of may be rounded with a sleep but they are not tied neatly with a red bow. Truth doesn't run on time like a commuter train, though time may run on truth. And the Scenes Gone By and the Scenes to Come flow blending together in the sea-green deep while Now spreads in circles on the surface. So don't sweat it. For focus simply move a few inches back or forward. And once more...look."

Ken Kesey
"Sometimes a Great Notion"

Are you ready? The Age of Isolation is over.

Through 13 years the Winchester school system has been grading you through grades until you have finally reached graduation.

Some may breathe a sigh of relief. Good thing summer's here (how well they plan), so there's a chance for a momentary mental pause. Then again, some of you graduates may feel like you've just been shot through a cannon. Launched, as it were. Float for a minute up there, because life offers few opportunities for such an uncluttered view.

For 13 years you've been learning how to operate in and around this system, gauging the reactions of parents, teachers and friends, measuring out a space for yourselves. And just when you were beginning to get comfortable, they let you loose to see if you can fly.

It's not always pleasant to talk about stages, especially to someone younger than yourself. It seems so condescending. Like when you're just a little squirt, and you refuse to come out of the closet to see your Aunt Ethel. You sit there in the dark and you can hear your mother standing outside the door, saying, "Oh she's just in her shy stage."

You can hear her clear as a bell, and you know she knows you can hear her, and still she goes on when you know you don't want to see your Aunt Ethel not because you're shy but because she always smells like Ben-Gay and talks to you in gobblede-gook language.

Speaking of languages...back in the Wonder Years of English, say around the 9th-10th Centuries, people began to throw an odd phrase here and there into their Anglo-Saxon, things like, "The man mounted his horse and rode to the drinking hall, as he intended."

"Well of course he intended to do that," would be an appropriate reaction today. But back in old King Arthur's day, folks were just beginning to understand that they could INTEND to do anything at all. (Goes to show you what happens when you start mixing Christianity with good ol' pagan fatalism.)

That's a stage of consciousness: being conscious of one's intentions. We fooled around with that one for a few hundred years (the Middle Ages) until a sizeable proportion of the population began to catch on to another stage: the Age of Reason, when folks figured out they could reason out their intentions.

Man was so delighted with himself for figuring that one out, he began to paint pictures of himself instead of his duties (cf. the Renaissance).

What, you may ask, does all this nonsense have to do with graduation? Well, graduation is one of life's stages, and life's stages are not unrelated to the stages in the progress of man's consciousness.

It's up to you to figure out just what stage you're at. For some time now, of course, there have been a few living in a state you or I may never reach; and there will always be those of us who continue to chip spearheads out of flint.

Step aside again and look at it this way: life is like an incredibly complicated organism, a super-organized amoeba constantly pushing and probing at its outer edges.

And let's be immodest while we're at it: we humans are the DNA the instruction booklets and the rangefinders inside this undulating amoeba, trying to direct the mass into some form or organized behavior.

What we have that DNA may not have is consciousness—the ability to step aside and look upon the entire mass of life even while we work at it from within. This is the most valuable tool we have.

There are a lot of things wrong in the world (though Winchester has been particularly lucky in this respect), and now that you're out in it, it's as much your responsibility as anyone's to do something about it.

After 18 years of giving, the system is asking you for something in return—a little guidance, compassion, humor, perseverance. Congratulations. And good luck. —DKF

"Yes, they grew even as millions of young Americans under social pressure and upon the instruction of their elders, struggled to cease growing; which is to say, struggled to 'grow up,' an excruciatingly difficult goal since it runs contrary to the most central laws of nature—the laws of change and renewal—yet a goal miraculously attained by everyone in our culture except for a few misfits."

Letters from readers

Letters to the editor on any subject of interest to Winchester residents are welcome. They should be typed and not exceed 250 words. All letters must be signed with name and address; names will be withheld on request. The deadline for letters, as for other news copy, is 5 p.m. Monday.

Facts of life

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I wish to respectfully suggest to the Citizens of Winchester that the irresponsibility of the June 2 Town Meeting (acting to artificially suppress the tax rate to an increase of less than 1 per cent) condemns the Town to a built-in increase next year well in excess of $5.00.

After the euphoria wears off, tomorrow's morning-after will be there to haunt. The economic facts of life cannot be bypassed; with expenditures rising at 5 per cent per year, and the tax base expanding at only 1 per cent, a yearly tax increase of approximately 4 per cent can be postponed, but not avoided. EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Winchester's Memorial Day program began on Sunday, May 29th with our Memorial Day Sunday Service which was held at the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church at 10:45 a.m. and officiated by Rev. Leon S. Hatch. Commanders Warren Bolivar of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and William Stevenson of the American Legion led in the group of veterans. The welcome was given by Howard Chase, Director of Veterans' Services.

The Memorial Day Committee would sincerely like to thank all those who participated in making the Memorial Day observance such a fine success.

Our board of selectmen gave the committee the utmost in cooperation in carrying out our plans. All the members of the board of selectmen marched in our parade this year: Mrs. Barbara S. Hanks, chairman, Harry E. Chafalo, Arthur Dunbar, Edward F. O'Connell and Richard Wilsack. Also participating were Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr., our state representative, Samuel Rotondi, state senator, John Sullivan former selectman and town moderator.

Our deepest appreciation is extended to Rev. Arthur Reardon, pastor of St. Mary's Church and Rev. Leon S. Hatch of the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church for delivering the prayer and meditation at Calvary and Wildwood Cemeteries. Rev. William J. Cummings of the Immaculate Conception Church was also in attendance.

Our thanks, too, to the Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Warren T. Bolivar, and William Stevenson, Commander of the American Legion.

* In the music department, we had our fine senior high school and elementary school band directed by John F. Beyrent. This year the elementary school band marched the whole length of the parade and the children should be commended for showing such spirit.

Mark Hammond and Robert Noel, members of the senior high school band assisted by playing taps at the honor roll at the Town Hall and the war memorial at the parkway and Main street.

We would like to also thank Tony Barrie of the Saugus D.A.V. Bank; Robert Cook and Edward Mitchell of the Boston Firemen's Band; St. Patrick's Girls' Drill Team of Stoneham; and the Immaculate Conception Drum and Bugle Corps under the direction of Father William J. Cummings. These units added much to the music and color of the parade.

Many thanks, too, for such a large turnout of police and firemen. The Police were led by Chief John McHugh, Lt. James Cogan and Lt. Andrew Crawford and the new Police Color Guard. The Fire Department was led by Chief Robert McElhinney and Acting Captain Bill O'Leary, Lt. Joseph Faga, Lt. Robert Swynner and Captain Charles McNutt and their new color guard.

Military units which participated included the Woburn National Guard Firing Squad, Co. D. 101st Eng. Bn., the 24th Yankee Infantry Division of the Massachusetts National Guard, Camp Curtis Guild, Reading, Co. B., 101st Eng. Bn., Mass. National Guard, Chelsea which was led by First Lt. Carlton P. Graham and Second Lt. James Wells. The 94th Division Color Guard of the U.S.A.R. Command, Boston, was led by Master Sergeant Ernest P. Reardon. The 1172nd Outpost Detachment of the U.S.A.R. Command, Boston was led by Col. Arthur P. Carr, who was instrumental in getting the unit to appear in Winchester's Memorial Day Program.

We would like to express appreciation to the Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts for the largest turnout of scouts. Their troop leaders should be commended. Also there was the Winchester Lodge of Elks.

The parade was highlighted this year by its military units and by 12 color guard units which added much color to the parade.

I would like to thank members of the auxiliary police and their Chief Robert Elliott, and members of the auxiliary fire department their Chief John Baldwin, for their turnout and for their assistance in keeping order during the parade.

To Walter J. Tonasuck, William Conlon, Harold Moran of the Department of Public Works and Town Manager Thomas Groux, thank you for your cooperation.

To all units which participated, a final thanks for a job well done. It is not our intention to slight anyone; yet, we feel that we should try to single out those organizations and individuals who contributed to the success of the parade.

A special thanks to the members of the Memorial Day Committee who devoted and contributed to the success of the day: Warren T. Bolivar, Ralph Fiore, William J. Carroll, Richard Horn and Bernard Boyle.

John T. Horn, Chairman
Memorial Day Committee

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It was my pleasure recently to accept the invitation of the Winchester High School Class of 1977 to attend their graduation ceremony. While the whole affair was impressive and enjoyable, I was particularly pleased with the recognition accorded several students who have attended both Winchester High School and Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational-Technical School over the past three years.

Mrs. Connolly and I were pleased with the well deserved recognition and proud of the accomplishments of these young people.

We wish to commend Mr. Gerard P. Donahoe for his part in the ceremony. He represented the Northeast District Committee and the Town of Winchester admirably.

Thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am writing this letter to thank you and your staff for the excellent news coverage and editorial support that you gave the Conservation Commission in the recent attempt to acquire open land on the West Side.

Additionally, I would like to publicly thank all those other concerned persons who supported the Commission by giving of their time and talents.

"In its wisdom" the Town chose not to acquire the two designated properties. As might be expected, the Conservation Commissioners are disappointed, but we still believe that time will vindicate our position and our statement that "open land is only available once." Without question the next owners will aggressively develop the area.

Again, on behalf of the Conservation Commission and all conservationists, we wish to thank those persons who came forward and outwardly supported conservation.

Life begins in the Fells

By The Observer

You never know what you might find on a Winchester Trails nature walk.

Last Thursday morning, Mrs. Marybeth Orr's fourth grade class from the Wyman School came across a rare sight in the Middlesex Fells: a snapping turtle in the process of laying her eggs. Marjorie Moore, a Winchester Trails guide, offers this description: "The creature, which had a shell a foot long overgrown with waterweed, had dug a hole in a slope of soft earth with a southern exposure at the summit of a hill, up above Long Pond in the Fells. . . . Some of the children with sharp eyes found that from a vantage point downhill of the turtle, it was actually possible to see the white eggs falling out of the turtle into the hole beneath it. She was so preoccupied that she paid no attention at all to the activity around her while she continued on about her business."

Several townspeople have commented in the last week about the police department's new color guard.

Practice for the Memorial Day parade was carried out in the early hours of Sundays and without the new uniforms so that their appearance leading off the parade was a surprise.

The color guard, which numbers ten men, has taken on responsibility for funds itself. They are talking of expanding to 15 men and including a firing squad next year.

One man, the father of one of the officers, was heard to say, "Who are those men?" as his son's buddies marched right by him.

Winchester can be proud of the police and fire departments for putting together their respective color guards. The parade this year had a bit more spazz than in previous years.

Here's a freebie worth taking advantage of: "Where's Boston," the acclaimed multimedia show running at the Prudential Center, will be free from June 13-16 for the 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10 o'clock shows. The free performances are to celebrate the show's second year of operation and to help kickoff this year's Summerthing.

The Mystic River Watershed Association (MRWA) is asking us to keep our eyes peeled for sources of pollution, in particular, discharges of raw sewage into the ponds and streams of the Mystic River Basin.

Any such sightings should be reported immediately to the local municipal department of public works or to the MDC if you suspect their pipes are involved. Other pollution sources should be reported to the MRWA office (36 Crawford St., Arlington) or directly to the Division of Water Pollution Control.

In the mood ...

Eventually...is now

By Karen Whittlesey-First

The sudden rush into summer has begun with some force, catching a certain household ill-prepared indeed.

There are some persons, who shall remain nameless, who always get the kids clothes for the season coming up so that when the April showers come, for example, Susie has her bright new yellow slicker with matching boots and umbrella; so that that first invitation to a friend's pool doesn't necessitate a wild run out for a bathing suit that covers what needs to be covered; so that snowboots are this year's size and sleeves on jackets don't stop at the elbow.

There are some persons, I've been told, who have their gardens planted before June 1, who know what the ferny green growth pushing up out the properly fertilized soil foretells, who, in fact, know which is the weed and which is the squash. These same persons thin the seedlings, make collars to keep rodents from young plants, and know which flowers go with which vegetables harmoniously.

There are some persons who do spring cleaning in spring and winterize their cars in winter.

Then there is that certain household in which everything eventually gets done. Underscore "eventually."

The garden will be planted, just as soon as the fall leaves are raked. The bathing suits will be bought, right after the winter boots get packed back into their box in the closet.

The picnic baskets will be dusted off and the fishing poles brought up from the cellar just as soon as a certain person can find them under the pile of Christmas wrapping paper saved from last year's celebration. Eventually it all comes together and the tomatoes do come up and the squash spreads all over the backyard. The shorts and sneakers find their way to the proper closets and the picnic baskets get lugged to the beach or the park. Eventually. But what's the rush? Suddenly there's a graduation and that little toddler has to make it on his own. Suddenly there's not enough time for bedtime stories and snuggles and teddy bears. Suddenly the scrapes on his chin come from shaving, not falling off tricycles. To those parents who saw their children graduate Sunday, "eventually" has come. To those who graduated, "eventually" has come. Best wishes to you all.

Winchester High School's first doubles tennis team of Dipak Khaund and Nick Julian are number one in Eastern Massachusetts. The two, both juniors, won the EMass doubles championship by defeating Mike McGuill and David Kalif of Bishop Connolly in straight sets.

Khaund and Julian went undefeated in eight league matches this year. They went into the first round of the state team championships yesterday and will enter the state individual competition June 15. Not that they seem to need it, but good luck to them.

The Observer sends along good wishes for a winning race as Jan Oehm gets ready to compete in the national two-mile race in California on Tuesday.

Jan has already made top place in the state competition and we know this high school junior can run circles around the other runners.

Very best of luck, Jan! Winchester is rooting for you!

Nick says that the 20-hour a week job will be posted, but that he's going to miss working with Doug. We know Doug will do a fine job for Reading.

"dealing with love" — how much nicer it sounds in Italian. He was 81.

For 58 years the men of Winchester found an old-world oasis at the corner of Harvard and Florence streets where they could go for a haircut and some talk and for something else. Amoroso Capone held the only billiards license in Winchester and it was at his single pool table in the room next to his barber chair, that many of this town's billiards players got their start.

He led a quiet life and the talk about him now is quiet, too, but full of love and respect for the little man who cut hair into his 81st year.

Although his eyesight started to fail him in his later years, his hearing was acute and accurate. He used to charge a small amount for a rack of pool and while he was cutting someone's hair, he could hear in the next room how many racks had been played by the sounds of victory or defeat. When he finished the haircut and went in to the pool room, the correct amount due him was always in place on the table.

The Italian men who came to him would go no where else and they sometimes brought their young sons so they too could know what it was like in the old country. The bambino, if they were lucky, would sometimes go into the pool room and learn the basic shots and scoring. Some fine players came out of those long ago visits to Amoroso's.

There were stories of the exploits and extraordinary talent of some of them and generations discussed the merits of a single pool player who might have been in his prime forty years before.

Amoroso Capone, who leaves numerous grandchildren and grandnieces and nephews, was full of love. He received love during his life many times over and now those who knew best the meaning of his name have paid tribute to him.

Among those attending the funeral yesterday at St. Mary's Church were members of the Sons of Italy, a group which also showed the meaning of "amoroso" on Saturday when they put on a spaghetti dinner for the seniors at the Swanton street hall.

There was wine and meatballs, platters of spaghetti and salad. The best part of the lunch, though, was the presentation of a check for $1000 to the seniors building fund. Somehow it seemed fitting that the check would come from the proceeds of the bingo nights at the Sons. Sometimes more than 200 people show up for bingo Wednesday night. The reaction from the seniors when the check was announced was applause and thanks that came from the heart.

Amoroso. He would understand.

Guest column

To the class of '77

By Robert S. Frank Jr.

What follows is the text of the speech given by Winchester School Committee Chairman Robert Frank to the 1977 graduating class of Winchester High School at the commencement ceremonies Sunday.

We decided to run it here because his remarks seem relevant not only to those just graduated from high school, but to those still in school and those who left the classroom behind a long time ago.

I want to talk for a moment or two about the things that I believe are really important in a Winchester education. I want to speak of values which School Committee members address all too infrequently. And, I want to talk about attributes which, at a time when we seek to measure and quantify success, cannot be accurately measured or intelligently quantified.

As you — the members of the Class of 1977 — reflect upon your time in school in Winchester, ask yourself a few questions:

- Was I taught to receive and perceive accurately the ideas of others?

- Did I learn to analyze ideas and issues carefully, dispassionately and on their individual merits?

- In so doing, did I learn that most ideas of consequence are not subject to categorical analysis, that they frequently contain a number of constituent parts, and that there are considerations and nuances and sub-issues within each of those parts?

- Did I also learn that ideas are espoused by people and are often accompanied by emotion, but that the proponent of an idea and the emotion which surrounds it, while not irrelevant, must be separated from the orderly and rational consideration of that idea?

- Have I learned to formulate my own ideas and — closely related — have I developed the independence and courage to state, and to act on, those ideas even when they may not be readily accepted?

- Was I taught to articulate my thoughts clearly and cogently?

- Have I learned to value people, rather like ideas, fairly and on their individual merits, with an appreciation of their complexity and with knowledge of their strengths and weaknesses? But have I learned to deal with people, rather unlike ideas, with tolerance for their shortcomings, awareness of their needs and sensitivity to their feelings?

- Have I learned to use my abilities to the limit of their potential and to expand that potential whenever and wherever possible?

- Have I developed a degree of appreciation for great literature, music and art as well as an understanding of, and critical respect for, the institutions of our society?

If you can respond affirmatively to those questions — now and 25 years from now — then, at bottom, your education here in Winchester has been a success and it has been a success whether or not you received twin 700's on your College Boards, mastered Bernoulli's principal, received a 5 on the AP French exam, learned about Metternich or Rutherford B. Hayes, or scored a goal or made a basket. I hope that you, and we, have succeeded. Time will tell.

Enough said. This is a happy and a proud day for the Town and for the Class of 1977. We thank you for your constructive leadership. We admire your many and diverse skills. We applaud your successes. We recognize the singularity of each of your members.

On behalf of the School Committee, the School Department, and, if I may presume to speak for it, on behalf of the Town as a whole, I congratulate you as a class and as individuals. Thank you for working so hard and doing so well.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Chapman's History of Winchester says that the John T. Wilson Camp, Sons of Veterans, was organized in Winchester in 1915 and for many years led a sturdy and useful existence. The camp was dormant by 1936.

Recently the Archival Center was given a seal embosser by the library. It is the seal of this Camp, and bears the date 1881, over thirty years before Chapman says it was formed.

The center would be interested in anything pertaining to the John T. Wilson Camp and puts a call out to townspeople who might have knowledge of the organization.

Meeting house seeds

by Elizabeth Mahoney
Correspondent

Dill is a hardy aromatic annual herb which produces a leaf and a seed, both valuable in cookery.

Dill leaves are feathery and fernlike and when chopped have a rare affinity for sour cream, cucumbers, eggs, light cream cheese poached salmon and other fish.

Sprigs of fresh dill are a frequent garnish for the open-faced sandwiches served in Scandinavian countries. In fact, the name originated with an old Norse word "dilla" meaning "to lull." It was a favorite herb of the ancient Greeks and Romans, who wove fragrant garlands for crowns for heroes and to freshen the air of banquet halls.

The seeds were called "meeting house seeds" a few generations ago in this country because they were taken to church to munch on during day-long services. Now the seeds are best known as an ingredient in dill pickles.

Dill is grown easily from seeds and requires a sunny location and light, well-drained soil. Germination takes 10 to 12 days. It does not transplant easily so sow it thickly and thin out so that the plants are six to eight inches apart. When the plants, which grow to a height of about three feet, reach 18 inches, they need to be staked because they are easily wind-shipped or blown over, according to some herb growers. One gardener I know does not thin her plants but lets the spindly stalks lean upon one another for support.

The dried seeds are the primary crop, but the chopped green leaves have many uses. To keep a continuous supply of young leaves, you can resow every three weeks.

The fresh leaves must be used sparingly because the taste is somewhat sharp. Add to potato salad, mixed greens, cole slaw. Sprinkle over steaks or chops when almost broiled and add to pot roast of veal or lamb. Add to the cooking water for squash, cauliflower, green beans and even the water for boiling shrimp. Add to French dressing and melted butter for vegetables or baked potatoes.

From Craig Claiborne's "An Herb and Spice Cookbook" comes the following recipe.

Grilled Dill Chicken

4 large chicken breasts
Salt, fresh ground pepper
6 tablespoons butter, softened
1/4 cup chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped fresh dill
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup fine soft bread crumbs.

Halve the chicken breasts and remove bone. Cut through thickest part of each half and form a pocket. Lightly season with salt and pepper. Cream the butter. Add parsley, dill, onion, lemon juice. Mix well and stir in bread crumbs. Fill pockets and skewer to close. Brush with melted butter and grill over hot coals or broil turning to brown all sides total cooking time about 20 minutes. Eight servings.

High school update

by Jack Nolan

"How does it feel to graduate from High school?" my aunt Mabel asked with a big smile on her face last Sunday afternoon.

It just happened to be the 52nd time someone had asked me that question in the previous half hour. So, I politely answered her with my usual reply, a reply that was now beginning to sound like a recording, "Oh, very good. Very good indeed. It's a great feeling!" I mean, what else can you say? It's just like the question "How does it feel to be eighteen" or "How does it feel to be a teenager?" But then again it is not.

When you think about it, the cliché-ish question, "How does it feel to graduate?" is a very difficult one to answer. How DOES it feel to graduate? Being one who did graduate from Winchester High School this past Sunday afternoon, the feeling is still fairly fresh in my mind. And it is indeed a very good feeling, but graduation is also a time of mixed feelings.

Graduation is the culmination of a lot of hard work. It is a milestone, a turning point in a young person's life. It means that a period in your life is coming to an end, that very soon it will be time to break your present ties, to say goodbye to many of your friends and venture off to create new ties and make new friends. It is a feeling of excitement and expectation on what college or work will bring, while at the same time it is a feeling of sadness on leaving the place where you spent your entire life, the place where you grew up, the place you call home.

Personally, graduation leaves me with a feeling of accomplishment as I look over the things I have done in the last few years, while at the same time leaving a feeling of regret about the things I failed to do. I'm going to miss Winchester, my friends, the high school, all the things I have grown accustomed to doing in my life here. But I am also looking forward to leaving, to going to school, to living in a different part of the country, to making new friends and having new experiences, to being on my own. Yes, when you think about it, graduation is, indeed, a very good feeling.

This is the final high school update to come from the desk of Jack Nolan. I hope that you enjoyed reading this column and looking at the photos during the past six months. I know that I enjoyed doing the work involved in them. I'd like to thank The Winchester Star - Bob Sherman, Karen Whittlesey-First and Dave Funkhouser for giving me the opportunity to be published and for taking the time to teach me the basics of journalism. Hopefully somewhere, someplace, you'll be hearing from me again. So long!

Exhibit on herbs at public library through end of June

A display of herbs is on exhibit at the Winchester Public Library through the month of June. Of interest to both gardeners and gourmets today, herbs were also widely used in early New England for medicinal purposes and for making dyes.

"There's rosemary...that's for remembrance," and there are samples of savory, which was rubbed on the skin to relieve the pain of a bee sting. Rue is not only a symbol of repentance, but was used medicinally as a strong anti-poison. Angelica was considered effective against the plague, agues, and asthma. Sage was the herb of wisdom.

Ruth McDowell, who arranged the exhibit, is the author of "Herbs of the Seventeenth Century New England Garden at the Iron Master's House, Saugus Iron Works," a pamphlet sold at the garden. She is also a member of the Herb Society of America and is currently involved in designing their National Herb Garden in Washington, D.C.

Music and dances are as ingrained as art in Colombian life. Dance rhythms vary as one moves around the country. Melodious African-style porros and merecumbes on the Northern coast are part of the Caribbean tradition. In the Andes to the South, music descends from the airs of the Incas, but it, too, has a Colombian quality, flavoured by a Spanish spice. Most popular of all Afro-Colombian music and dances is the cumbia, in which the girl holds a lighted candle while she dances. Stop and think—how long has it been since you have had a little rhythm in your life?

Get up to date in information from the agents at MCGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE, 14 Eaton Avenue, Woburn. Stop imagining and make reservations for an unforgettable trip to Colombia. There you can slide down giant sand dunes, swim in clear water and lounge on unspoiled beaches. It's an ideal spot for water sports. Call 935-0600. Flower communion at Unitarian Sun.

This Sunday marks the conclusion of the regular worship services at the Winchester Unitarian Church. Next Sunday, June 19, summer union services begin at the First Congregational Church. As a concluding celebration before the change to the summer schedule, the Unitarian Church will share in Flower Communion.

Members and friends, young and old are requested to bring a flower to place in the baskets in the vestibule before entering the sanctuary. The flowers will be brought forward to the altar table during the early part of the service. The Flower Communion service following the sermon centers upon the symbolic meaning of receiving a flower different from the one you brought, representing the sharing of each other's best individuality.

This service was originated with Dr. Norbert Capek, a Unitarian minister in Czechoslovakia who suffered martyrdom at the hands of the Nazis during World War II. It is a symbol of the heroism of religious prophets who believed in human dignity and freedom and is a symbolic act in which members of the Church reaffirm self-acceptance and acceptance of each other.

Lorain MacLeod to become rector

Lorain R. MacLeod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Heindl, received a master of divinity degree cum laude from Andover Newton Theological School on May 23. She will be ordained on June 26 and will be pastor of the First Congregational Church, UCC, of Shelburne.

Twelve confirmed at First Congreg.

On Sunday, June 5, at the First Congregational Church 12 ninth graders were confirmed after a year of preparation and interviews with the pastor, the Rev. Walter B. Davis. The Rev. Paul Rahmeier, their advisor-instructor, assisted in the preparation process, and the parents of the young people cooperated in helping them to be ready for the interviews.

The 12 who were confirmed are Charles Bemis, Susan Gunby, Laurie Hanchett, Gregory Hanes, Stephanie Johnson, Lisa Oliver, Alice Poduska, Wendy Rae, Laurie Redmond, Pamela Russell, Cynthia Schell, Alison Sherlley. Most of them also took part in the worship service on June 5. This confirmation fellowship, extending over a year, has been in operation at First Church for a decade or so. The group goes under the title of Nonagon, a nine-sided geometric figure which is quite uncommon. It is recognized that this fellowship is a special space somewhere between Junior High and Senior High, and every effort is made to adapt the program to their special needs and concerns.

How Arm & Hammer Baking Soda helps maintain your pool's ideal pH and helps keep your water crystal clear.

The 2 most important rules for easy pool care.

The most important rule to remember about pool care is to use a chlorinating product.

Recommended usage: Maintain a minimum chlorine level of 1.0 ppm Free Residual (Available) Chlorine. The second most important rule to remember is to maintain the proper pH. And here's where Baking Soda goes to work. Baking Soda is a natural acid neutralizer and buffering agent which helps maintain pool pH at an ideal range of 7.8 to 8.2. This helps keep eyes from burning. And Baking Soda even helps improve water clarity - keeping your pool water crystal clear.

Recommended usage: Add 1 lb. of Baking Soda per 10,000 gallons of water each week during active pool season. Add a chlorinating product as needed.

If pH reaches 8.2, you can discontinue weekly use of Baking Soda and use only as necessary to maintain a pH within 7.8 to 8.2. Do not use Acid. If cloudiness occurs, run filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep the water clear

Your pool water is filled with tiny particles too small for your filter to remove. Some of these particles make the water cloudy. Baking Soda causes the smallest particles to become attached to larger ones which are then easily filtered out of the water. The result is crystal clear water. If cloudiness occurs when you add Baking Soda, run the filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep eyes from burning

When eyes sting or burn and chlorine odors can be detected from the pool water, the problem is usually one of low pH. A low pH promotes the formation of irritating chlorine-nitrogen by-products. The best way to minimize the formation of these irritating by-products is to control the pH of your pool water.

"Arm & Hammer Baking Soda is a pool owner's best friend!"

By maintaining your pool's pH with Baking Soda, you automatically adjust the pH of your pool water into the ideal range of 7.8 to 8.2. As a result, eye irritation is kept to a minimum.

6 Rules for Pool Maintenance

1. Test water daily.
2. Daily chlorine measurements should be taken to assure proper germicidal activity. Free Residual (Available) Chlorine should be 1.0 ppm or above.
3. Maintain pH between 7.8 and 8.2. Once every week during active pool season use 1 lb. of Arm & Hammer Baking Soda for every 10,000 gallons of water.
4. Check filter regularly. Clean when necessary.
5. Check water hardness monthly, particularly in hard water areas. High water hardness may cause scaling. If total water hardness (as calcium carbonate) is above 300 ppm, do not use Baking Soda until pool has been drained and refilled.
6. If heater is used, operate filter at least 15 minutes after heater is turned off.

Note: On occasion, particularly in a new pool or in pools being opened for the season, additional steps are required to bring the pool into balance more rapidly or to clear up problems such as algae growth or mineral accumulation. When these problems arise consult a pool expert in your area.

Test Kits

An accurate Test Kit is very important to avoid inaccurate readings which can cause problems in proper pool maintenance. Testing solutions should be replaced at least once every year.

How to estimate your pool's capacity

The average swimming pool contains approximately 20,000 gallons. However, an accurate record of the pool's water capacity in gallons is necessary since this measurement is often used to calculate amounts of chemicals for treating the pool water.

The following formulas can be used to approximate the total gallons of water a pool will hold.

Type Pool	Dimensions in feet	Gallon Capacity
Rectangular	Length x Width x Avg. Depth x 7.5 =
Circular	Diameter x Dia x Avg. Depth x 4.7 =
Oval	Length x Width x Avg. Depth x 4.7 =

'77 Tumblettes picked at WHS

by Kelly Gately

Tryouts for the 1977 Tumblette squad were held at the High School field last Monday.

In spite of unusually cold weather, a great display of talent and coordination was given by all. The number of girls trying out was only 17, this total being very small compared to past years. Of the 17 who tried out, 12 made it with two alternates. The squad is coached by Pam Rufo, Martha Cresse, Renee Shattuck and Marie Patti.

The 1977 squad's seniors will be captain Maureen McCabe, Carrie Hosmer and Laurie Vincent. The juniors will include Liz Fudge, Lisa Tyson, Peggy McCabe, Beth Walters, Mary Donlan, Teri Allard, Robin Getson, Marybeth Reinhardt and second alternate Terry Burns. The sophomores will include Joyce Fryklund and first alternate Eileen McCabe.

Mr. & Mrs. Dennis J. Marasca

Elaine Cionti May bride of Mr. Marasca

Elaine Marie Cionti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cionti of Stoneham, became the bride of Dennis Joseph Marasca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marasca of 4 Old Village dr., on May 4 at St. Patrick's Church in Stoneham.

Officiating at the nuptial mass were Rev. John Crowley and Rev. Arthur Dobie of Concord.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white, floor-length gown fashioned of imported chiffonette, featuring a mandarin collar and long fitted sleeves. Re-embroidered Alencon lace with seed pearls accented the bodice and cuffs. From her waist fell a flared skirt which swept into a built-in chapel train. Lace appliques accented the skirt.

She wore a walking-length mantilla trimmed in matching lace. The bride's flowers were a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Alberta Marasca of Winchester, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Maureen Vaughn and Barbara Iovine, both of Stoneham, and Debbie Houghton of Wakefield. Lisa Marasca of Stoneham was a junior bridesmaid.

The bridesmaids wore matte jersey, floor-length dresses of tropical pink and jackets of matching fabric with attached hoods. They carried bouquets of aqua and pink carnations.

The maid of honor was similarly attired in aqua.

Barry Lombardo of Winchester was best man. Ushers were Vincent DePiero of Stoneham, James Hourahan of Norwood, and Kenneth Houghton of Wakefield. Jackie Pianowski of Chelmsford was a junior usher.

Kimberly Murphy of Tewksbury was the flower girl and Christopher Pianowski of Chelmsford was the ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a knitted, floor-length chiffon gown in apricot and lemon, with a matching cape. She carried a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother wore a turquoise chiffon, floor-length gown, trimmed with silver, and wore a corsage of white orchids.

A reception for 350 persons was held at the Loyal Order of Moose hall in Malden, where Elizabeth Murphy of Tewksbury and Scott Pianowski of Chelmsford were in charge of the guest book.

Winchester High's outstanding athletes for Spring 1977

By Rick Pearl

The long season of sports at Winchester High School has run its course in this 1967-78 season. Starting in the fall with football, cross-country, girls' swimming, soccer and field hockey, continuing through the winter with both basketballs (boys and girls), hockey, track, wrestling, boys swimming, and girl's and boy's gymnastics, and ending with the just concluded spring sports, there have been many outstanding athletes in the uniform of the Sachem.

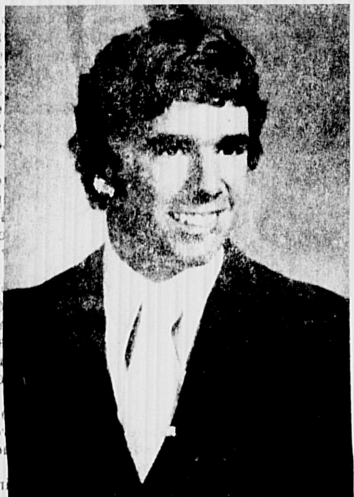

In March we honored ten student-athletes for their outstanding achievements in their individual winter sports. Now, in mid-June, with the Class of '77 already happily graduated we seek to honor eight more sportspeople of the spring.

All eight of our selections were carefully chosen, and the final decision of our staff met with the approval of every coach. Thus, it is with great pride that we present to you The Winchester Star's First Annual Outstanding Spring Sports Performers for 1977.

The individual OSSP's and their affiliation follows: Baseball (Record 6-12) - Jon Pettee, senior; Softball (4-15) - Kelly Gately, sophomore; Boy's Tennis (13-0) - Rhys Thomas, junior; Girl's Tennis (8-5) - Patricia Welch and Helen Sanford, both seniors; Golf (1-8) - Paul Haley, senior; Track (7-2) - Charlie Larkin, junior; and Lacrosse (6-9) - Chris Gill, senior.

Before commencing with a roundup on our athletes' accomplishments let us extend our warmest and deepest congratulations to all of them. In each case the honor has been well deserved.

Jon Pettee

The name itself should tip you off: Jonathan Starr Pettee. With a middle name like that people sort of expect you to excel in everything you touch. Captain Jon Pettee never has let them down.

As well as an outstanding baseball player, Jon was the captain of hockey team and is one of the top students graduating from the high school. However, it is baseball he is being honored for, and thus it is his prowess in that endeavor that we will look at.

Probably the only thing that need be said is that on a 6-12 team, the Middlesex League coaches still saw fit to name Jon to their first-team All-League team. What makes that even more impressive is that they selected him for an outfield position - he had played catcher all season long. But when your competition (in this case Woburn's fine receiver, Tom Masterson) is on a club with a winning record, the nod usually goes in that direction. Pettee ended up with a .434 batting average, the third best in the league. He led the Sachems in RBI's with 14 and hit one home run. He had an 11 game hitting streak from game two to game 12 and finished the year by hitting safely in his last four. At the beginning of the season he knocked in at least one run in Winchester's first six games.

Behind the plate he was take-charge guy with a powerful arm and the ability to block most of the wild pitches served up by the Sachem's beleaguered pitching staff. When he switched to the outfield for the final five games of the year he twice threw out runners trying to advance on base hits and shagged fly balls as though he'd been doing it the whole year.

Jon wasn't so much a power hitter as he was a percentage hitter. His line drives and grounders up the middle or down the lines weren't hit far but they were certainly hit hard. There weren't too many "cheapies" among Pettee's 23 hits.

All in all he had four extra-base hits, a big homer against Melrose, two doubles and a triple. The balls that he did get all of went places.

The opening game, against Lexington, not only was a disappointment for the team, but Jon as well. He went hitless in three trips to the plate although driving in a run with a walk. Winchester fell 5-3.

The next contest, against Melrose, was the highlight of an otherwise disastrous season.

After the Red Raiders jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first, Pettee tied the game up with a two-run roundtripper over the fence at Skillings Field. Sparked by the captain's blast the Sachems went on to win 6-5 in the bottom of the seventh.

Pettee continued his power spree with a triple and single against Stoneham. Jon's three-bagger brought in a run and his singleton set the stage for a four-run rally in the sixth, but Winchester wound up on the short end anyway, 10-6.

It was Pettee's sacrifice fly to left which brought home the winning run against Watertown in Reilly Atkinson's 2-1 masterpiece. Jon was on the receiving end of the junior righthander's four-hitter.

Against Belmont the Sachem pitching fell apart, walking 17 batters, but the hitters, especially Pettee, had a field day. Jon went two for two, with two RBI's in a discouraging 14-9 loss.

The powerful Burlington Red Devils were next on the slate, and, against the very-tough Jay Bramanti, Pettee rapped a two-run double. That was about all Winchester could muster, however, in a 19-3 shellacking.

Jon hit in his sixth straight game against Reading. He went 2-4 against Joe Prev but failed for the first time all year to drive in a run.

Winchester finally won again, after three straight losses, and once again Jon played a major role. He extended his hitting streak with a single and, after reaching on errors, scored twice in a sloppy 9-6 triumph over the pitiful Wakefield Warriors.

Pettee went 1-3 in a 6-5 loss to cross-town rival Woburn and scored during the Sachem's last-inning comeback. Then he had one of his better days in a satisfying 11-5 win over Lexington.

Phil Sartori, the righthander that had held Jon hitless in the opener, was on the mound for the Minutemen. The captain solved him this time, whacking two base hits and blasting a long sacrifice fly for three runs batted in. Once burned is enough for the Winchester All-Star.

Jon collected three hits in four official times up in two losses (by identical 4-3 scores) to Stoneham and Melrose. In the Melrose contest he also drove in another run with a sacrifice fly.

Then finally, the hitting streak ended. Everybody's did for a day Watertown sophomore Steve Kherdian mixed up an assortment of off-speed stuff and completely baffled the Sachem batters, throwing the League's first no-hitter of the season.

Jon then went for the second straight game without a hit, against Belmont. But, by reaching on an error, walking, and getting hit by a pitch, Pettee contributed to a 10-4 victory by scoring three times.

He picked up where he left off with a fantastic effort against Burlington. Jon went three for three with a ground-rule RBI double over the short fence in left at Simonds Park. It was to be Winchester's only score in a well-played 4-1 setback.

Over the final three games Pettee had four hits in nine at bats, and, during a 4-3 extra inning win over Wakefield, he went back to his catching position after sophomore receiver Randy Pearl collected too many foul-ball tips in unprotected areas. Jon made a big out on a foul ball in the ninth to help nail down the win.

So, the saga of Jon Pettee has been told. Some may think his parents misspelled that middle name, but they knew what they were doing. There are two "r's" in Starr to accentuate the fact. Their son hasn't let them down yet.

Honorable Mention: Bill Murphy

Kelly Gately

Perhaps you should know first of all that Kelly Gately was given by her team mates the highest honor possible. That of being named captain for the 1978 softball team. Secondly, you should know that she was only a sophomore this year. As her brother has said, "It looks like the Donny Allard story all over again."

Top male athletes

SENIOR: Chris Gill - Varsity football, hockey, and lacrosse. Perhaps the greatest testimony to Chris's athletic ability was his selection as captain on the football and lacrosse teams. Chris was a fine runner for Coach Manny Marshall's gridiron squad, played a tough brand of defense for the hockey team, and led the lacrosse team in scoring.
Honorable mention: Jon Pettee.

JUNIORS: Mark McGoldrick & Don Allard Two of the best athletes to ever come out of the school. Donald was a three-letterman in Varsity football, basketball and baseball, while Mark did likewise in Varsity soccer, hockey and baseball. Don is one of the main reasons that the football and basketball teams are looking ahead to fine seasons next year. He was an all-star in both basketball (first team) and baseball (second team). Mark was the second leading scorer for the soccer team and made the all-star team in hockey. Both Don and Mark pitch for the baseball team and should lead that club to bigger and better success next year.

Honorable mention: Charlie Larkin and Peter MacDonnell.

SOPHOMORE: Jimmy Willing - Varsity Tennis. Jimmy was by far the biggest surprise on the WHS sports scene this year. A left-hander, Jim stunned junior Dipak Khaund and senior captain Lloyd Thomas in a pair of challenge matches to grab the third singles position late in the year. Teaming with junior Paul Simmons, Jim went to the EMass individual doubles quarterfinals at Brockton.

In Reading's 6-5 win, Kelly singled, stole a base, drove in a run, and made a great over-the-shoulder catch to no avail. Lexington got revenge for their earlier embarrassment, but Winchester's star made amends for an 0-3 performance against Hoffman the first time around, by smacking out two more hits.

In two straight games Kelly got two hits and scored a run before finally ending the season on a disappointing note. Her ten-game batting barrage on the rest of the League came to an end when Woburn's infield defense speared every one of her line drives. She hit the ball hard on three occasions but each time a Tannette made the play.

So, with a season like that, what can you say against her? If she isn't selected as the Middlesex League's All-Star centerfielder something's wrong. No other middle gardener has put together the all-around great year that this young star has.

But that's to be expected - in the year of the KAG.
Honorable Mention: Pat Harrington.

Rhys Thomas

"Rhys Thomas," said tennis coach Paul Mulloy, "plays just as well as he has to to win." For an old cliché this one sure hits home.

Sachem first singles player Rhys Thomas wins in any and every way possible. He can make a lousy opponent look great and make a great opponent look lousy. He can turn it on and off as he likes. But always and without a doubt, he is in command of the situation.

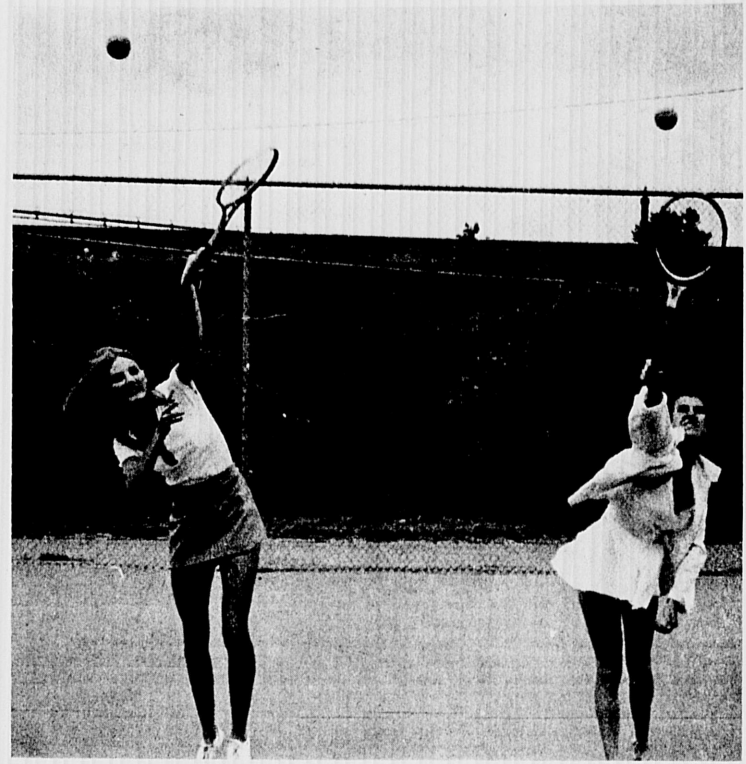

Rhys breezed throughout the regular and second-half Middlesex League seasons with a perfect 13-0 record, the same as the team. When you have a number one player who never loses, as has been the case in Winchester for the past few years, the rest just falls into place.

So far in the EMass playoffs Thomas and the Sachems have yet to be beaten (as of last Friday's match with Framingham North). Those matches are indicative of Rhys's ability to pace himself.

Last Tuesday in the playoff opener against Braintree, Rhys was up against Karl Brown, a fairly solid tennis player but nothing to write home about. Well, knowing that Brown wouldn't give him too much trouble the Winchester ace laxed up and promptly fell behind in the first set 3-0.

But Thomas obviously getting tired of Brown's peskiness came back to tie the match 4-4, broke Brown's serve for the fifth point and wiped out Karl in the final game for a 6-4 first set win.

The next set, still playing "just well enough," Rhys let the Braintree player get close before sweeping both sets with a 7-5 triumph. It was more of the same against Lexington and David Wright in the quarterfinals.

Wright, the diminutive Minuteman ace, had no right to even be on the same court with Rhys Thomas, uncharacteristically, started out strong against the overmatched Wright and blew him out 6-2. Then, however, perhaps not wanting to make a mockery out of it, Rhys suddenly took a vacation from the match. He could do nothing right, Wright nothing wrong, and the Lexington player had taken a 6-4 win in the second set.

Still not convinced that Wright was serious about the whole thing, Thomas fell behind in the third and deciding set by 3-0. Then things righted themselves as Wright didn't know what to do with his lead and Rhys knew exactly how to get it back.

He won the next four points and finally wound up winning 7-5. Two toughies against two anything-but's, Framingham North and Ricky Hassler were next, in the semifinals last Friday.

Hassler only had a 49-1 record in three years of play at FNHS. At the age of 16 he already is giving lessons at rather high rates. Thomas knew things would be a little tougher and thus he pulled his chameleon act once again.

He began by falling behind 3-1 in the first set before engaging in a ferocious battle with the Framingham North star. By forcing Hassler to run ragged chasing his well-placed volleys, Rhys came back to capture a 6-4 win. From then on out it was all downhill.

Thomas made short work of his highly touted opponent 6-3 to win in straight sets and clinch the match for his team. Both players showed some excellent ability, but in the end Thomas was just too tough.

During the regular season Rhys was 9-0 at first singles and 4-0 at second singles. He began the year in the number one slot, moved down one when Jim Ferrera returned to action for a couple games, and then beat Ferrera in a challenge match to take over once again.

In the opener versus Watertown, Rhys smashed Karnich Benjamin 6-1, 6-1. He then experienced some difficulty with Belmont's Peter Lewis before knocking him off 2-6, 6-1, 6-3. He then capped an impressive week by beating Lexington's Mike McCarty 6-3, 1-6, 6-0.

Thomas led the Sachems to three more wins in the next week. In order he beat Steve Kerkorian (Reading) 6-2, 6-1; Barry Curley (Wakefield) 6-2, 6-2; and Dave Kelley (Melrose) in his first second singles match 6-0, 6-1.

Winchester then clinched their Middlesex League championship with three more wins over Stoneham, Woburn, and Burlington. Rhys (at number two) bombed Bill Barbo of the Spartans 6-1, 6-0 and Alex Yunquez of the Tanners 6-4, 6-3 before closing out the regular season with a 6-1, 6-1 wipeout of Red Devil George Lang.

The team then advanced to a second season, paired off against the other four teams in the top five. Rhys returned to his number one slot after knocking off Ferrera in a challenge match and picked up where he left off.

He smashed McCarty of Lexington 6-1, 6-0 for Winchester's 10th straight win. Second-place Wakefield was next and Curley put up a tougher fight but when Rhys decided to turn it on he did so with little difficulty 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Reading's Matt O'Brien fell next by 6-2, 6-0 scores and then Lewis of Belmont got show down 6-2, 6-4. As easy as all that the junior star had concluded his second straight undefeated season in Middlesex League play. In the State Individual Championships Rhys made it to the semifinals before losing to Chris Brady of Xaverian 4-6, 4-6. The eventual winner, Robbie Pease of Weston, has lost four of his last five matches against Thomas. Included among those victories were the ones in the EMass and New England Team Championship Final Rounds.

So, it is clear to see that Winchester's Rhys Thomas has deserved our selection of the Outstanding Boy Tennis Player. If things keep going as they are he may win a similar honor for the whole of New England.

Honorable Mention: Dipak Khaund and Nick Julian.

Patricia Welch and Helen Sanford

If you want to know the story behind the success of the Winchester girl's tennis team turn to page 31 of last Tuesday's Boston Globe. Down at the very bottom of the page, in the small, agate type you will find that the fourth and fifth leading singles players in the Middlesex League were both from Winchester. Their names - Tricia Welch and Helen Sanford.

When it got around to picking this spring's Outstanding Girl Tennis Player we had a tough time trying to decide between the two. Naturally we thought we should ask the coach, Margie Sexton, who made up our minds for us by saying that "There's no way that I could choose between them. They both had super seasons and just did so much for our team."

Our obvious selection, then, was, both of them. Captain Tricia Welch, who played second singles, and fellow senior Helen Sanford, who played at number three all year, are THE choice.

"Helen was extremely determined and a very spirited tennis player," described Coach Sexton. "Tricia, our captain, was a quieter but equally leader-type person, and was a very strong player throughout the season."

In other words, the Captain and the Kid, Welch being the super-calm leader, and Sanford the exuberant, take-charge, never stopping hustler. It was like Ruth and Gehrig all over again.

Tricia, a hard-hitting southpaw, had the fifth best record in the Middlesex League. Battling in the extremely competitive number two bracket she chalked up a 10-3 log. Tricia was the only returning singles player from last season's Middlesex League champions, when she played third singles. After a series of tough challenge matches between her and sophomore Beth Noble, Trish wound up at number two.

Of Tricia's three losses, she was able to avenge two. In the newly instituted second round of play among the top five teams in the league, the captain got back at both Wakefield's Chris Testa and Belmont's Mary Ready.

Welch and the team matched each other stride for stride in the first two meets of the season. Against Watertown, Trish romped 6-0, 6-0 over Andrea Conly and her team also had an easy time of it in a 5-0 whitewash.

But the reverse effect of that can happen, too. Belmont's Ready topped Tricia 5-7, 6-2, 6-7 and the rest of the Winchester players didn't fare so well, either, losing 4-1.

Tricia Welch

Tricia picked up her team's only win in another 4-1 setback, this time to Lexington. Miss Welch fought off Jody Jackson to emerge with a 7-5, 6-3 conquest.

Reading's Joan Marchinko was the next in line for a beating, falling in straight sets to the local girl 6-0, 6-2. Winchester won that meet 4-1 to even their record at 2-2.

Next, however was Wakefield, and Testa, who had been taught how to play the game by...you guessed it, Tricia Welch, rose up and bit the hand that once fed her. She took off a rather big chunk, too, winning 6-1, 6-2. Sparked by this upset the Wakefield girls defeated Winchester for the first time ever.

Three straight 5-0 wins came next and Trish was at the forefront in leading the routs. She whipped Melrose's Nancy Mulrenan 6-0, 6-1. Stoneham's Lorene Mobilia was the next to bite the dust 6-0, 6-2 and finally Terrie Murphy of Woburn got toppled 6-0, 6-3.

In the final meet of the season, both Noble and Tricia lost, Welch to Burlington's Paula Natale 6-3, 4-6, 2-6; but the team hung on for a tight 3-2 victory. The team then went into the second season with full knowledge of the fact that they couldn't afford to lose any more meets if they were to make the playoffs.

Neither Welch nor Sandford let their team down. Each won all four of their individual matches, but, unfortunately, against Belmont and Lexington those were the only two games that Winchester won.

Tricia avenged her loss to Ready with a 6-3, 6-4 triumph and Sandford beat Ginny McNamara again 6-3, 6-3. The rest of the team, however, couldn't match their leaders' success and thus the Sachems were eliminated from post-season play.

Both Welch and Sandford won in the next meet, another 3-2 loss, this time to Lexington. Tricia beat Anne Kannel 6-0, 6-4 while Helen bested Lynn McCarthy 6-3, 6-4.

The team then closed out their season a high note, beating both Reading (4-1) and Wakefield (3-2) for a final record of 8-5. Tricia taught her student, Testa, a lesson, whipping her 6-1, 6-3, and then beat Reading's Paula Kennedy 6-1, 6-1. Helen won her second straight match from Wakefield's Cindy deGaravilla in an exciting match 3-6, 6-1, 7-6, and ended her season with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Kay Boisvert.

Helen Sandford's season began in much the same way as Tricia did with a convincing victory over Watertown. Helen checked Denise Barry 6-1, 6-2 in the opening day win.

Helen Sandford

She made it two for two in the win column by bombing McNamara for the first time 6-1, 6-2. It was Winchester's only win in an otherwise disastrous loss. Helen then dropped her only two matches of the year in two successive meets against Lexington and Reading. Kannel (then playing third singles) took a hardfought victory 2-6, 6-4, 0-6, and then Reading's Anne Sweeney tipped the Sachem sparkplug 6-2, 4-6, 4-6. If Miss Sandford could only have played a little better against the "Anne's" in the Middlesex League she might've had a perfect record.

She resumed her winning ways by outlasting Wakefield's deGaravilla 7-5, 7-5 for the second Sachem victory in a 3-2 downer. Melrose's Linda Lowery got completely demolished by Helen 6-0, 6-0, as the entire team perked up against the lowly Red-Raidettes.

Stoneham's Sally Prescott fell in straight sets 6-1, 6-4. Robin Gangi of Woburn (6-3, 6-3) and Valerie Swaine of Burlington (6-4, 6-0) both were no match for the tireless Sandford, and then for four straight wins in the second season added up to the fourth best record in the league, 11-2.

At the beginning of the season Helen had been in a neck and neck battle with fellow seniors Chris Guarnaccia and Liz Patrick for the final singles position. After a slew of challenge matches between the three had been completed, Helen emerged victorious. By the end of the year she was playing so well that she probably would have given both Tricia and Beth Noble a run for their money.

So, there you have it: two girls whose combined record in the second and third doubles spot was 21-5. There wasn't a meet that went by in which at least one of them didn't come up with a victory. There are very few sure things in any sport, especially girl's tennis. But when you have two singles players the calibre of Tricia Welch and Helen Sandford, it's the next best thing.

Just ask Margie Sexton - she'd love to have both of them back next year. Wouldn't any coach?

Honorable Mention: Beth Noble.

Paul Haley

As golf seasons go this one wasn't too far out of the ordinary. And for captain Paul Haley it was a frustrating experience.

As the only senior on a team with a 1-8 record, it was Haley's job to lead by example. His examples were exemplary enough, but, up against some of the top young golfers in the state, Paul could manage only one win in his final year.

Golf coach Joe Aversa described his captain as a "great little golfer." (I wonder where he ever got the idea that Paul was little?) "You can look at Paul's record two ways," said Coach Aversa. "To the ordinary person on the street a one-win season does not look that impressive. But to me I know that Paul was extremely close to winning a lot more of those matches than he did. When you consider that from our league we have some of the top golfing talent around, you know that Paul has done a fine job."

"He's been a good captain for me," continued Aversa. "When we first began the season he was our only player who had played on our home course. He helped a lot of our kids by getting better acquainted with it, giving them little tips and so forth. I have nothing but praise for Paul Haley."

On a team with only one other upperclassman, junior Jim Gebhard, one can't expect many wins. Aversa said at the very beginning of the year that this was to be a rebuilding year and that he would sacrifice victories for experience. For a senior like Paul Haley, giving up wins doesn't make him look any better.

As the only senior on the team, golf in Winchester came to be synonymous with Paul. If the team lost then "Haley lost." Thus, when they finally won, against Wakefield, Haley won, although in actuality, he lost his individual match.

His only victory came in the very first game against Woburn. Paul eagled the first hole, but the Tanner captain Paul Loughnane came back to tie him on the final hole. Haley's partner, John McPhee lost 3-2, but the pair won their match overall to pick up Winchester's only points (1½) of the afternoon.

In golf, one point is given a team for winning the front set of holes, one for the back set, and one for winning the overall match. Haley took the first set by a bigger margin than Loughnane did for the team point.

The season progressed with losses to Melrose (9-0), Stoneham (7-5-1-5), Watertown (9-0), and Burlington (5-5-3-5) before the only win. In that Burlington encounter Haley shot a fine score only to be beaten by a fantastic effort by the Red Devil's Dave Bellis.

Haley and his partner, Joe McIsaac halved their match, with McIsaac winning his individual round. Jimmy Albani and Richard Boland picked up 2.5 valuable points when both of them won individually and the team halved. McPhee and Jim Gebhard picked up one point on McPhee's win.

Next year with all the young golfers Coach Aversa has groomed this year, things should be a lot better for the Winchester golf team. It's unfortunate that the best of the lot, Captain Paul Haley, won't be around to reap the benefits.

Honorable Mention: Jimmy Albani.

Charlie Larkin

Top female athletes

SENIOR: Patricia Welch - Varsity field hockey, basketball, and tennis. The left-hand Tricia did it all her senior year. She captained the fine girls tennis team while playing second singles and won almost all of her matches. As a field hockey and basketball player Tricia was a key member, lending her natural athletic ability towards a winning effort. Honorable mention: Denise Driscoll and Audrey Leach.

JUNIOR: Bitser Dexter - Varsity Swimming, softball, JV Basketball. Bitser WAS the girls' swimming team at WHS this past fall. She is a truly exceptional swimmer and usually won her events. In softball she was a leading hitter and RBI-person and fielded flawlessly at first base. Next year Bitser should help out Coach Barb Hollis's basketball team, as she was one of the better JV's.

Honorable mention: Jan Oehm.

SOPHOMORE: Kelly Gately - Varsity basketball, softball. Out of the best group of sophomore girl athletes to come into WHS, Kelly is one of the most multi-talented. Recognized by her peers as a natural athlete and a standout in every sport she plays, Kelly was an integral part of both the basketball and softball teams. In the winter sport she boasted one of the better outside shots on the team. In softball she led the team in hitting and RBI's.

Honorable mention: Beth Noble, Linda Pierce, and Kathleen Driscoll.

Charlie Larkin

Success comes sporadically for the Winchester High track program. Oh, sure once in a while you'll have one or two good runners, but usually the rest of the team just can't live up to their standards. This year was different.

The spring track team of Manny Marshall and Tom Kline posted their best record since 1965. In doing so they boasted one of the finest all-around groups of athletes the school has seen in quite some time. They were loaded and wound up tying for second with perennial powerhouse Lexington with a 7-2 record.

And the leader of this team, the one that by far stood out as the man whom the team could depend on, was junior Charles Larkin. If the entire track season were to be made into a movie they could do worse than to call it "Run Charlie, Run." Some of the footage would be sure to win an Academy Award.

Larkin is our only repeater from the winter award winners, when he had a 7-1 record during the indoor season. In the spring Charlie blossomed and went undefeated, winning all nine Middlesex League dual meets and then posting the league standard in his specialty, the 400 (quarter mile) with a 50.0 second time league meet at Stoneham.

Charlie also took part in both of the relay teams on occasion, with his most famous race coming as a member of the mile-team against Stoneham. The Spartan runner had a huge lead on Larkin (estimates say it was about 60 yards) before the Sachem trackster overtook him on the final turn to pull out the victory.

In the state finals Larkin came in fifth overall, although he wasn't personally pleased with his performance since he had timed much better before. His best time was in that league meet.

Coach Marshall said that he had Charlie done for under 50 seconds, but the other judges had him at 50-flat which stood as his official time. No one except for Charlie ever came close to that mark during the season.

His closest competitor, Jim Ward of Lexington (who beat him in head to head competition in the winter) lost to Charles in their dual meet 50.8 seconds to 51.1. Larkin's time was especially good when you consider that the track surface in Lexington is one of the worst around.

Some have already called him better than the previous Winchester track superstar, Rick Mauger (Class of '76). Rick ran the same events as Charlie, and Larkin came extremely close to breaking Mauger's school record in winter track. One must remember that our selection has one more year to go.

Charlie is by nature a natural runner. His free, easy strides make his work look almost effortless. He looks the part of a runner also - tall, lithe and wiry.

His season opened with a 51.1 in the first meet of the year, against Watertown. The team also won 80-85 as Larkin began his string of perfection.

Next came a big win against Burlington, 83-62, which should have tipped a lot of people off right then that this was to be a very special season. Like clockwork, Charlie finished first in the quarter mile with his best time of the regular season, 50.3.

The Sachems then hit a snag, namely the best team in the league, in their next meet. The Reading Rockets (if ever a nickname was apt, that has to be the one) blew out the Winchester team 105-40. Larkin, however, refused to be dragged down with his mates, and, despite his worst time of the season, took first in the 440 in 52.6 seconds.

The Stoneham meet was next, and Charlie won his specialty with ease in 50.9 seconds. His team was holding on to a slim 73-67 lead going into the final event, the mile relay, which, as has been said before, Larkin singlehandedly pulled out of the fire.

The team as a whole disappointed Coaches Marshall and Kline during the next meet with Lexington. Many of the athletes failed to even come close to their previous norms and the Sachems lost their second 90-55. Larkin, however, did his job, whipping Ward in an exciting race.

Perhaps the biggest one or two meets of the season came against Belmont. Sparked by a spectacular high-jump performance by Jim Burns the Sachems picked up a key 83.5 - 61.5 victory. Larkin just rolled along on his merry way, streaking home first in 50.9 seconds, and running the third leg of the mile - relay team's victory.

If the entire team was disappointed against Wakefield, they all went above expectations in that encounter. For the first time in a long while a Winchester track team exceeded 100 points (something that they'd do one more time before the season ended), piling up a 107.5 - 37.5 win. Charlie made it seven in a row with his pace-setting time of 50.8.

The other big meet of the year came against Melrose at Skillings Field. With the final meet of the year against Woburn, the Red-Raiders appeared to be the only obstacle standing in the way of a second place finish. They weren't much of a deterrent.

All three javeliners won, the 440-relay team won, and...yes, Virginia, Charlie Larkin won, wouldn't you know? Charles snapped off a 51.6 for five big points in a 83-62 triumph. After the league meet at Stoneham, where Larkin posted the best time of the year, the Winchester team traveled to Woburn to face their archrivals in a must-win situation. The Tanners never had a chance.

Charlie started the meet by running in the 440-relay to help protect their unbeaten mark. Needless to say he did. Then it was his turn, and with the meet (which ended 111-34, Winchester) already over, he did a 51.8 to maintain his perfect record.

Thus, another chapter in the continuing saga and successes of Charles Larkin ended. When the whole thing is over the glossary of records should take up a whole book. Charlie Larkin: track excellence.

Honorable Mention: Peter MacDonnell, Anthony Macinanti, and Andy MacDonnell (pole-vaulters all).

Chris Gill

Have you ever met a person who just never gives up? A guy that always looks on the bright side of things and always thinks there's a chance to salvage something out of a lost cause? A person who could go to a baseball game, see his team fall behind by 14 runs in the top of the ninth and say "The game's not over until the last out?" Have you ever met Chris Gill?

Christopher James Gill has perhaps the best attitude of any athlete in the high school. When his team, the Sachem lacrosse men, dropped their first five games of the season, there was no doubt in his mind but that they'd make a comeback. There is some power in positive thinking after all - Coach Gene Bouley's stickmen came back to even their record at 6-6 before falling in the last three games to perennial powers.

And Chris was at the forefront of that comeback. By the end of the season he had taken over the team scoring lead with 30 points. Of the 20 goals he scored, a good number of them came at clutch times. He is what you expect in a captain.

In the six wins Gill usually had a hand in things; in the losses he tried his all to bring the Sachems back. As Winchester's first midfielder, his size and aggressiveness helped to protect his smaller team mates from the other team's hatchet men. In short, if one man could do it all it was Chris Gill.

As was mentioned, the stickmen got off to a rather poor start. Their season opened up sooner than any other high school team and perhaps they could have used those one or two extra weeks of practice. Needham invaded Skillings Field way back on April 7 and came away with a 10-3 victory. As the score indicates, it wasn't even close.

The following game wasn't much better, with Newton South handing the Sachems another loss by an identical 10-3 score. In this one, however, Winchester was close at the start. With the score 3-1, Chris scored a goal at 1:17 of the second period to close the gap to 3-2, but that was to be the locals' last gasp.

The Lincoln-Sudbury game was next, and out of respect to the team we'll just mention that the final score was 20-4. (Those 20 weren't scored by Winchester, either!)

Finally there was a real, honest-to-God contest. Framingham North came to town and got a rude greeting. The Sachems broke out of their lethargy by jumping to a 5-2 lead. Gill scored the first goal of the game, assisted on the fourth tally, and collected his second goal on the fifth.

Framingham came back to tie it with a strong third period and then forged ahead. But captain Chris blasted one by the North goalie for the tie. Unfortunately the visitors managed to sneak one by Sachem goalie Steve Barrett with 17 seconds left and, despite their best performance to that point, Winchester was 0-4.

Loss five came at Billerica, 13-9, before things finally broke the way of the Red and Black. Typically, Gill had a big game to mark the occurrence.

He opened the scoring and then collected two more goals while assisting on two others in an 11-3 win over Ipswich. His second goal made it 4-1, and his third, 11-3.

The Sachems then had a laugh at Lexington, although Gill didn't score. He was looking for "his turn" all day, but with Coach Bouley substituting freely, never got his chance in a 12-5 cakewalk.

A very tough Brookline team was next on tap and, after two straight wins, Winchester made them work for everything they got. Gill and his fellow tri-captain John Roche gave the Sachems a 2-1 lead but four straight goals by Brookline gave them the game. Gill scored once more in the affair, a 9-6 setback.

Then came perhaps the biggest game of the year - a shocking 7-5 victory over previously unbeaten Governor Dummer. Who do you suppose had a hat trick and an assist?

With Dummer ahead 2-0, Gill broke the ice for Winchester. Two more tallies by the preppies gave them a 4-1 lead when Chris scored once more to shave it to 4-2. Chad Doe made it 4-3 and Jack McInnis tied it.

G.D. took the command for the last time to start the second half. But a Gill pass set up John Roche for the equalizer and then at 2:44 of the fourth quarter Doe scored the game-winner. Chris clinched things less than two minutes later for the final 7-5 margin.

Sparked by that big win the Sachems took three straight wins to even their log at 6-6. Beverly was the first to fall, 7-3. Next was Medford, 5-2, with Gill scoring the clincher at 1:09 of the final frame. Burlington was the final victim, 7-2, as Chris scored two more, including the first of the game.

The season ended up against three of the top four teams in the state. Gill scored two goals but Winchester still bowed to the number four team, Framingham South.

No one in particular had a good game in the next contest, a 13-2 shellacking at the hands of Newton North. North was the number two team in the state at the time.

In the finale, against Concord-Carlisle (which beat Lincoln-Sudbury in the State Semifinals), Winchester dropped a tough 11-8 decision. Once again, Gill was one of the reasons that the Patriots had such a hard time nailing down the pesky Sachems.

Chris opened up the scoring at 0:46 to give Winchester a 1-0 lead. He closed a once huge C-C lead to one, 6-5, with a second period score. At 10:43 of the third quarter, his third goal began yet another Sachem comeback, making it 9-6. And finally, at 6:57 of the fourth frame he pulled Winchester to within one, 9-8. That was to be the last try, though.

So, as you can see, to the very end of the season, Chris Gill gave it his all, even under the most trying of circumstances. When the pressure was on, and the money was on the table, he did best.

That's called clutch. That's also called being a real captain. That's called Chris Gill. Honorable Mention: Jack McInnis and Steve D'Onofrio.

On to the state tourney

Tennis squad aces three rounds, falls to Weston in finals

by Kelly Gately

So close, yet so far. The boys' tennis team's drive for the Eastern Mass. championship fell short, as they ran into some trouble and lost to Weston in the finals, 2-3. Before that game however, Winchester played its best tennis of the season downing Braintree 4-1, Lexington 4-1 and Framingham North 4-1.

BRAintree

This Match left something to be desired...mainly competition for the Winchester team. It might have been a match if they'd played left handed, but that wasn't the case and Winchester dominated, winning 4-1. Winchester's Rhys Thomas, after a slow start (0-3), came back strong to defeat Braintree's Karl Brown. Although having serving problems at first, he regained control and aces his opponent on several occasions. "Rhys is a steady player," commented Sachem Coach Mulloy. "He keeps his head together and plays as well as he has to."

Braintree Coach Dick Carson remarked about first singles player Karl Brown, "He's a heady player, but he's not powerful. He has a good ground game and he won't beat himself."

In the second singles match Sachem Jim Ferrera played brilliantly as he upended Braintree's Dan Ford. After being tied at 4-4 in the first set, he played practically flawless tennis to defeat Ford 6-4, 6-3. Coach Mulloy was especially pleased with Ferrera's performance.

"He played a very strong match. He seemed all the way back, but that could change at any time. Today though, I thought his serve was especially strong. He's a real team player and rose to the occasion."

Braintree's Ford wasn't bad himself, as he boasted a 16-2 record in the season. Coach Carson commented, "Dan's a fairly good player, he's ultra-consistent."

Third singles player Jim Willing also had a good day, downing his opponent Dan Fleming 6-4, 6-3.

Nothing need to be said about the play of the first doubles team of Nick Julian and Dipak Khound. "They're untouchable, just too much for anyone in New England," was the response given by Coach Mulloy.

They totally outplayed their opponents in every aspect to crush Joe McParland and Jeff Jensen 6-2, 6-0.

Winchester's only loss of the day came in the second doubles match with Lloyd Thomas and Paul Simmons losing to Joe McNeil and Ken Aicardi 6-0, 6-7, 4-6. The score and result of this match is misleading, as Winchester seemed to give it away. After winning the first set easily 6-0, they suffered a tough loss in the second set 6-7, with the tie breaker ending 0-5. From then on, Winchester seemed to play as if they really didn't care and handed Braintree the match.

"They just weren't concentrating," was the explanation given by Mulloy.

LEXINGTON

Another day, another opponent, another win. It seems as easy as that for the Winchester team as Lexington was just another obstacle that Winchester brushed away, 4-1.

Rhys Thomas defeated David Wright, but not without a struggle, as it came down to three sets. Rhys started strong to win the first set 6-2. He then ran into some serving problems in the second and lost 4-6. Down 0-3 in the third and final set, Rhys' play turned around as he came back to win 7-5.

Sachem Jim Ferrera surpassed Lexington's Mike McCarty 6-4, 6-1. He had some trouble at the net in the first set, but afterwards played very well.

Winchester's Jim Willing played almost flawlessly to down Hugh Kent 6-2, 6-1. He continued his good consistent play, capturing Winchester's third victory.

The doubles teams were mixed up a little, but it didn't make that great a difference as Dipak Khound and Lloyd Thomas defeated Lexington's Tom Uhrig and John Levine 6-4, 6-0. After being down 2-4, Winchester won 10 straight games.

The change of the doubles teams was done with the intention of strengthening the second group, but it was to no avail, as Nick Julian and Paul Simmons lost to Lexington's Doug Shaw and Alan Kushinsky 6-4, 6-7, 4-6 in a tough loss.

FRAMINGHAM NORTH

"Everyone played well," was Coach Mulloy's summary of their semi-final victory over Framingham North 4-1. It was a real team effort. Framingham North is a strong team that finished 17-1 in League play, and 18-1 overall.

In a match that was played brilliantly by both players, Rhys Thomas continued his winning style by downing Ricky Hassler 6-4, 6-3. Hassler had lost only one match in two years of tennis play.

Jim Ferrera played infallibly as he routed Paul Brown 6-1, 6-3.

"I think I played one of my best matches of the year today," was Ferrera's comment on the match.

Jim Willing slipped by Jeff Brodie 6-3, 3-6, 7-5 in a match played well by both. The first singles team of Dipak Khound and Lloyd Thomas defeated Rick Schaefer and Dave Sodekson 6-2, 7-5 with a strong finish.

Nick Julian and Paul Simmons improved, but fell to North's Neil Schneider and Dave Schaefer 5-7, 5-7 in a tough loss. They played excellently, but had problems with the serve.

WESTON

The excitement built up, the pressure was on, but the scores weren't there, as Winchester bowed to Weston in the championship round Monday, 2-3. From the start, it looked as if it would be a long day.

Rhys Thomas lost his match to Michael Leach, last year's state individual champion, 1-6, 4-6. Rhys seemed to lose his concentration after a very controversial call. After a fine shot by Rhys, Leach claimed that the ball went through a hole in the net. There was a hole, but it wasn't located anywhere near his shot. At this point Leach was leading 2-1 in games. The point was given to Leach, since there are no official linesmen and the players call their own game. This aggravated Rhys and proved to be a turning point.

Jim Ferrera was also defeated by this year's state individual champion Rob Pease 0-6, 1-6.

"It was one of the worst matches I've ever played in, in a pressure situation," said Ferrera.

All wasn't lost though, as Jim Willing beat John Tuttle 6-4, 3-6, 6-2 in an excellently played match by the sophomore lefthander. Lloyd Thomas and Dipak Khound completely destroyed Tom Keller and Doug Marden 6-2, 6-2.

The most exciting match of the day came in the second doubles match. Nick Julian and Paul Simmons (who played his best all season) played very well and had the lead 5-4 in the first set. The pressure must have gotten to them however, as they lost the set 5-7. The about it. We played well, because we really had to play well to beat them. Winchester's got a fine system and we respect them. Maybe things will turn around if we play them again."

Winchester will now play the Western, Mass. champions for the right to play the winner of the Weston vs. the Central Mass. champions for the state title. If they beat their opponents, another showdown with Weston will occur. If you want to see a championship brand of tennis make it a point to jaunt over to that one. The game has never been as exciting.

Allards win family tennis tourney in see-saw struggle

by James R. Stewart Jr.

Don and Donny Allard became the 1977 Winchester Family Doubles Champions, last Memorial Day with a thrilling 3-set victory over Peggy and Jack Wiseman in the final event of the Spring Draw Tournament. The scores were 6-4, 1-6, 6-1, in a see-saw struggle that pitted the top seeds against each other. The Wisemans came from behind in the semi-finals to eke out a win against Stella and Bob Gallant, 2-6, 7-6, 6-3, while the Allards bested Leslie and Vandy French to gain their spot in the finals.

The largest number of entries in this annual tournament was the Mixed Doubles event, 59 teams being placed in the first round. Seedings held form in the finals as Doris Miller, no. 1 seed romped over unseeded Peterman and Fuller, 6-2, 6-0. The ultimate winners were extended only in their first match, which went to three sets against Pinky Samoiloff and Pete Hennenberg. Otherwise, Miller and Elio won in straight sets. On the other hand, Peterman and Fuller and two three-set matches and three two-setters to earn their way into the finals.

In the Men's Doubles competition, Fuller had better luck, drawing Bruce Stevens as a partner, and with whom he bested Vandy French and Ken D'Arcy, the first seeds in a classic three-setter. After losing the first set in a tie-breaker (5-3), the Fuller-Stevens team turned on the power and blasted their way through the deciding sets, 6-2; 6-2. Fuller and Stevens had upset the no. 2 seeds, Carmen Elio and A. Ungaretti in the semi-finals, while French and D'Arcy had relatively easier sailing as they knocked off the 7th seeds, Samoiloff and Weintraub in the quarter finals, to post eight winning sets in their match against only one loss.

The Women's Doubles battles, the unseeded and unheralded team of Deedee Cunningham and Barbara Fischer bested the first seeded Sue Cowen and Joan Miller in an exciting three-set match 6-2; 2-6; 7-5 to win the coveted crown. The ultimate champions had struggled through another three-setter in the semi-finals to defeat the no. 2 seeds, Pinky Samoiloff and C. Keaveney, 1-6; 6-4; 6-4, while their final opponents had struggled to beat out the strong team of Judy Wien and M.G. Slater, 6-7; 6-4; 7-5.

Co-Chairmen Pat and Hank Skehan enthused over the fine cooperation they received from the contestants throughout the tournament, and the consensus of the participants was that the committee did an excellent job of preparing and running the five events in such a smooth and efficient manner.

Dr. Albert Dietz honored by National Academy

Dr. Albert G.H. Dietz, of Winchester, professor of building engineering emeritus and senior lecturer in the Department of Architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a world authority on the use of plastics in construction, has been named Man of the Quarter Century by the Building Research Advisory Board of the National Academy of Sciences-National Academy of Engineering-National Research Council.

Presentation of Man of the Quarter Century Award to Professor Dietz was the highlight of a recent BRAB Awards Dinner held in Washington, D.C., at the conclusion of a day-long Building Futures Forum sponsored by BRAB.

Sixty other leaders in the building industry were given quarter century citations at the dinner in recognition of their contributions and, of those, six were M.I.T. alumni, including one other M.I.T. faculty member, and a seventh is a former member of the teaching staff at M.I.T. BRAB was established by NAS in 1950 and in 1975, on the occasion of BRAB's 25th anniversary, the Board decided to select—through nominations and balloting—quarter century award recipients from among the nation's leaders in the building industry. The principal award was for the Man of the Quarter Century. Professor Dietz has been a member of M.I.T.'s teaching staff since 1936. He received the Sc. D. degree from M.I.T. in 1941 and has been a full professor since 1946. He was director of M.I.T.'s plastics research laboratory from 1946 to 1962. Professor Dietz also was a member of the M.I.T. Committee for Space Heating with Solar Energy sponsored by the Cabot Fund, which conducted solar house heating experiments in the 1940s and 1950s. He is a former chairman of BRAB, as was the late M.I.T. Professor Walter Voss.

Real Estate

REALTOR

Don't Underestimate Buyer

In the arena of real estate transactions — there are two parties to every transaction — a buyer and seller. Some sellers have the mistaken impression that they are at a financial advantage when negotiating directly with a prospective buyer. Unfortunately, they couldn't be more mistaken!

Never underestimate the hard financial bargaining ability of the average buyer. Spend one day in the field with any Realtor, negotiating and handling offers and counter-offers and you'll appreciate what I'm saying. Frankly, if the typical buyer knows you are not selling through a Realtor, right off the bat he'll expect you to deduct the commission for his benefit before you even start serious negotiations. Then you're on your own, possibly at a great disadvantage, in the intricate areas of financing, negotiating, and protecting yourself from all sorts of do-it-yourself pitfalls. You've got a lot invested in your home. It makes sense to list it with a Realtor. He'll sell it for you — without hitches, for the best price and in the shortest amount of time. If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester. Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

Wyman building leased to Bartlett School for $6000

The Wyman School building and grounds have been leased to the Bartlett School of Arlington for one year at a cost of $6000.

Selectmen have signed the contract with owner Norine Casey and Atty. Robert Graves which gives the school, the largest private school in Arlington, use of Wyman beginning August 15. The school committee set that date as the final closing for the school.

The contract, signed at the regular Monday night meeting of the board of selectmen, gives Bartlett normal maintenance responsibilities: utilities, gas, heat, interior painting, keeping the building in order. The town will have responsibility for the heating plant and for roofing and other landlord duties.

One of the important provisions of the contract, according to Town Manager Thomas J. Groux, is the one which requires negotiations for continued use of the building to start before January 1, 1978, and be completed before the end of March. He emphasized that the lease is for one year only and is not self-perpetuating.

After an hour of discussion in executive session, Town Counsel Douglas A. Randall told Robert Graves, Miss Casey's attorney, that minor changes would have to be made in some of the wording of the document which Graves brought to the meeting Monday night. It was the first time Randall had seen the written proposal. Selectmen Chairman Barbara Hankins alluded at town meeting to a verbal proposal which selectmen at that time found unacceptable.

Wyman, closed by a school committee vote of 3-2 on April 19, was declared surplus and turned over to selectmen for disposition. Bartlett, currently enrolling 120 pupils in six grades, has been interested in expanding and moving into Winchester. Miss Casey has expressed a desire to add two more grades to the school.

As Wyman officially ends the school year next Wednesday, Bartlett held its sixth grade graduation in the building last night.

Fourteen pupils received diplomas and congratulation as Miss Casey said that this was the first graduation to be held in the school which is to be the new home of Bartlett.

Police seize pot, arrest two in raid

Acting on a tip and armed with a search warrant, police raided the residence at 20 Pond St. Saturday and found four and a half pounds of marijuana on the dining room table.

They arrested Richard Parker, 20, of that address, and Carl D'Agostino, 19, of Melrose, as those two men fled out the back door of the house. They were charged with possession and intent to sell, among other drug-related charges.

According to Police Chief John P. McHugh, Inspector Sergeant Roland Roy, assisted by Inspector Richard W. Beaton, Off. Kevin P. Mawn and an officer from the Drug Enforcement Administration entered the house after an expected shipment of marijuana arrived. When they went into the house, Parker and D'Agostino fled out the back. They were apprehended by Sgt. Angelo P. Amico and another DEA agent who were staked out behind the house.

Apparently the men were in the process of dividing the marijuana, valued at more than $2000, when the raid occurred. In addition to the drug itself, police found scales, glassine bags, and other instruments. Chief McHugh also reports that marijuana was being grown in the house and in the backyard.

He believes the shipment came out of country, possibly from Jamaica.

The case has been continued in Woburn District Court until June 30. There have been several drug violation charges brought against Parker and D'Agostino.

The next morning, police made two more arrests when they apprehended Dorchester men stealing a truck and motor cycle from the Parkview Apartments parking lot.

At 5:15 a.m. on June 12, police received a call that there was suspicious activity in the parking lot. Officers Theodore Yeancopolis and Lawrence Hill, assisted by Officers

Francis Manzie, Charles Culhane, and Sgt. Joseph Perritano, responded. They stopped a van on Swanton street and, noticing the grease and dirt on the men's hands and clothes, detained the two and returned with them to the parking lot.

There they found a brown pickup truck in the middle of the lot, with the engine running, and a Kawasaki motorcycle lying on its side in the rear of the truck.

The truck's ignition had been tampered with and it appears that it had been taken from its place in the parking area to be used in stealing the motorcycle.

The van the men had been driving at the time they were stopped for questioning had been stolen in Stoneham on March 25 and contained credit cards stolen from a car in Boston on March 22 and from a house in Newtonville on March 29.

Kirk Morrison, 22, and Michael Harrison, 23, both of Dorchester, were arrested and charged with two counts of larceny of motor vehicles, receiving stolen property, possession of burglarious tools, and other charges. Inspector William E. Nash is working on the investigation.

Making an arrest for the third day in a row, the Winchester Police Department - apprehended Robert Forte, 22, of 31 Willowdale ave., and cited him on five motor vehicle violations. Forte, wanted by Medford for two hit and run accidents in that city on June 13, was turned over to the MPD.

When Officer James Gallant heard a car making excessive noise as it rounded the rotary in the square, he ordered the driver to stop. Forte did not stop and Gallant radioed the automobile information to Officers Francis Manzie and Franklin Bartlett. Those two policemen stopped Forte on Highland and Main streets.

There was one other set of arrests last week when Off. Thomas Faulkner apprehended two young people for a break at the Vinson-Owen School on June 12.

Off. Faulkner, while patrolling in the area of the V-O at approximately 5:57 p.m. that date, observed two youths inside the school. He secreted himself nearby so he could watch the activity and when the two came out he arrested them.

The two, ages 14 and 15, were hauling out cassette systems, watches, a paper cutter, and a letter opener.

In addition to the several arrests, police were kept busy responding to other calls during the week. On June 6 there was an accident at 4:15 a.m. at Highland avenue and Highland terrace.

Apparently the car, a 1977 Plymouth, went out of control, struck a tree, veered to the other side of the road, and struck another tree. When officers responded they found no sign of witnesses or of the operator of the car.

Sometime between 7 and 9 p.m. on June 7, a housebreak occurred at an Allen road residence. Police report that the house was ransacked and several valuable Hummel figurines and some jewelry were taken.

On June 11 two cars on Washington street were broken into sometime after 2 a.m. From one thieves took 40 tapes and a CB radio and from the other a leather jacket and a case of liquor. The backyard was also entered and four snow tires and rims taken from there.

A break was reported at the Cumberland Farms store, 282 Washington st., while the store was open. Police say between $400 and $500 was taken. Apparently the store was opened in the rear and the money taken from a storage area. Entry a and exit were both through the rear door, which was secured and could only have been opened from the inside.

The case of John Decato of Everett was completed in superior court where Decato was on trial for his part in the Oriental rug thefts last year. Decato, 25, changed his plea from not guilty to guilty and was sentenced to 18 months in the Billerica House of Correction for larceny of rugs and breaking and entering a Lloyd street residence.

Students trash Lynch buses; board agrees to help pay

A few of the students at the Lynch Junior High School have been causing up to $300 damage a week to the school buses operating there, it was revealed to the school committee Monday night.

Representing the Bertini Motor Lines, the company contracted to carry Winchester's school children, Al Cincotta told a tale of destruction which moved the school board to take strong measures to combat the vandalism.

Cincotta said his company had suffered nearly $4000 in damages this year from knife-torn seats and broken windows. In two instances, fires were set in the back of the buses.

The vandalism, which has been occurring primarily on the buses assigned to routes one and five, is coming from both inside and outside the vehicles. Inside, seats are being ripped out and the interiors damaged by those riding the buses; outside, students have regularly gathered by the brook next to Lynch and pelted the buses with rocks.

In one incident last year, a woman bus driver had to be taken to the hospital when a rock crashed through the windshield and struck her in the chest, Cincotta reported.

Cincotta said his company has to regularly take the buses off the road for repairs. He cited one bus which had 18 seats replaced May 21; by May 28, the company had to put in 23 more.

Similar problems had been experienced on the late bus leaving the high school. However, efforts by the high school administration to remove unauthorized passengers from the buses solved that problem.

Reaction from the school committee was strong: they discussed responses ranging from calling on Lynch parents to help monitor the buses to stopping the bus service altogether.

What they finally decided was to kick those suspected of doing the damage off the buses. Other riders on the buses have identified in

Winchester Cab halts service, may lose license

James T. Sullivan, owner of Winchester Cab Company, has suspended operations pending a public hearing before the board of selectmen to show cause why he should not lose his hackney licenses.

The problem as selectmen see it is that they issued hackney licenses for four taxis to Sullivan, but he is not now covered by cab insurance. In addition, he has transferred ownership of the company, without the board's approval, to his sister, Janet C. Sullivan.

Selectmen, who called both Sullivans to their meeting Monday night, must hold the public hearing in order to revoke the licenses.

Sullivan explained to the board that he had been unable to meet the insurance premiums to operate cabs. Instead, on advice of his own counsel, he changed to a private livery business. He has been running two vehicles as a private livery since his insurance as a cab owner was revoked May 31.

Private livery is not under the jurisdiction of selectmen in Winchester. Insurance rates for this type of business are also less than for cabs.

Sullivan said that he had been unable to find another insurance carrier after the dispute with his own, which he declined to name. He does have private livery insurance.

Town Counsel Douglas A. Randall maintained Winchester Cab Company "holds itself out to be public" — one of the criteria for a public hackney license. He further said that private livery service is by law available only by the day or hour and only for specified kinds of activity, like funerals or shopping trips. There are also other stipulations.

Sullivan has four vehicles. Two of them had been used for private livery until Tuesday

Evans found not guilty in assault trial

Nine months to the day after he was arrested and charged for the assault of 17-year-old Lisa S. McGovern, David Evans, 27, of 4 Winchester terr., was found not guilty by a 12-man jury in Middlesex Superior Court.

The finding May 16 ended a lengthy series of court orders and appeals which cleared Evans on the August 16 assault on Ms. McGovern, made as she was walking to her home at 12 Dartmouth st.

Evans was originally found guilty by Judge Francis Cullen in Woburn District Court on September 24. Evans's attorney, Joseph Day of Curran and Day, Woburn, then started a series of appeals.

Evans was arrested August 16 when he was picked up by Winchester police on Church street following the assault on Ms. McGovern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lane McGovern. He was arraigned the next day and his case continued to September 3. It was further continued to September 23.

At that point Judge Cullen heard the case and after two days found Evans guilty. He set October 14 as the date for disposition. When Judge Cullen sentenced him to Metropolitan State Hospital for a term of not longer than 40 days, Evans's attorney appealed both the guilty finding and the sentence.

Day's appeal was heard in Middlesex Superior Court on October 22. Evans had been in Met State since the October 14 date. The appeal was successful and Evans - was discharged from the facility.

Day explained that under Mass. Chapter 123 a judge can sentence a defendant to Met State as a further aid in sentencing, which Judge Cullen did in this case. After Evans was released, his case went back to district court for disposition. He was sentenced to two and a half years in the house of correction.

Day again appealed the finding in superior court. This time a 12-man jury found Evans not guilty, reversing Judge Cullen's finding.

Day based his case on the statement that Evans was not at the scene of the assault when it happened. The Commonwealth in the person of the Winchester police department, argued that Lisa McGovern's testimony itself placed him at Warren and Wildwood streets, where the incident occurred, and that she identified him.

There was no motive, weapon, or positive identification of his client, Day maintained.

SPEDY jobs begin June 27

The Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth (SPEDY) ages 14 to 21 begins on June 27 with jobs provided through the cooperation of various town departments.

Youths who are or will be full-time students in September, and who meet eligibility requirements, will be offered a maximum of 25 hours a week working in Winchester with the recreation, highway, water and sewer, board of health, school, comptroller, and other departments. The kinds of jobs include clerical and general office work, building maintenance, lawn care, and playground assistance.

The pay is $2.30 an hour and the program

Federal gov't. grants town public works funds for jobs

Winchester has been allocated $432,000 in Federal public works jobs funds as part of a national public works program.

The money is Winchester's share of a $4 billion allotment nationwide. The money is the maximum amount against which Winchester may apply for money for specific projects. It does not constitute automatic funding.

Specific projects have to be approved by the Economic Development Administration, an arm of the Department of Commerce. The major goal of the project, according to Rep. Edward J. Markey of the Seventh District, is to "put the idle back to work."

Town officials had not been notified of the allocation as of Tuesday. Asked about possible projects, Town Manager Thomas Groux said, "I would like to see us go after funding for the public works garage, which we could use very badly."

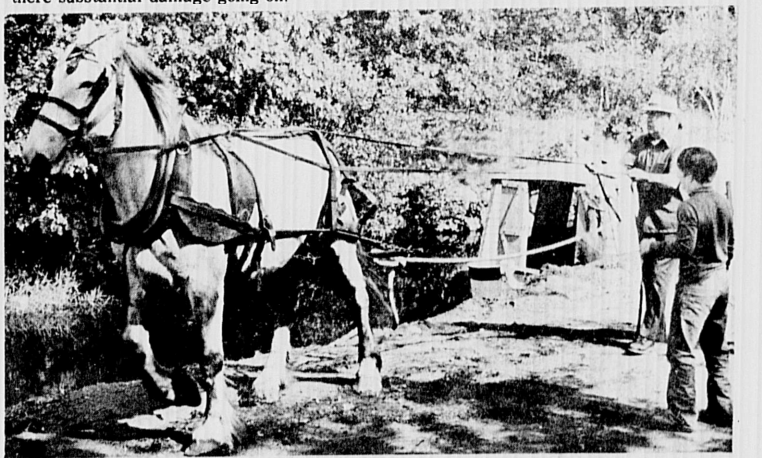

Another goal of the program is to aid cities and towns in "building recreation centers and other public buildings, repairing roads, erecting new streetlights and performing other capital improvements," according to Rep. Markey's office.

Groux said one problem with this type of Federal allotment is the timetable built into the law: if the town gets approval for a specific project, construction must begin within 90 days. Of the garage, Groux said, "We don't have plans on the table so we're not quite ready."

Town meeting recently voted funding for planning the garage, and Groux said once plans are underway the town would probably start preparing a grant application for some of the Federal money.

Winchester was funded under this program, on the basis of the comparative severity in the rates and number of unemployed. Rep. Markey's office estimates the town's 12 month average for March, 1976 to February, 1977 was 697 unemployed and a rate of 7.1 percent of the town's labor force unemployed.

Michael Dukakis takes a careful step onto the Col. Baldwin's bow. He and other officials boarded the boat recently for a ride down the canal by the Colonel Baldwin Mansion in Woburn. Local legislators hope to create a commission to restore much of the canal to its original state. (The horse ended up breaking the yoke, so three men had to pull the boat down the canal.) Staffing problems

Budget priorities present dilemma for school board

The Winchester School Committee is facing some difficult decisions about educational priorities.

Dealing with a declining enrollment and what they consider to be a tight budget, the board discussed a number of staffing problems at their regular meeting Monday night.

Parents from the Parkhurst School presented the board with a petition to freeze the staffing level at their school until a system-wide plan for responding to declining enrollments can be developed.

There are more than twice as many children in the third grade at Parkhurst as there are in the fourth grade, with 58 students altogether, which presents a problem in dividing up the classes. Parents and the administration agree that the present staff is insufficient.

"It would not be in the best standards of Winchester education" to divide the classes among the present number of teachers, said Principal Andrew Allen. The administration proposed having Allen teach in the afternoons to provide better coverage.

The Parents went even further and asked for another teacher. They argued that using Allen as a teaching principal was only a temporary solution to a long-range problem.

With enrollments declining, and staffing levels with them, the school board's options in dealing with split classes and odd-sized classes have become limited. The board has, however, stated a desire to keep as much flexibility as possible.

"This is the time when the school committee should show that flexibility," said one parent. Another, Geoffrey Wyler, said that if the board was weighing priorities, the assignment of teachers to the earlier elementary grades "should be the first order of priorities."

Board Chairman Robert Frank noted that similar requests have come in from other schools, including Ambrose, Mystic, Noonan and Lincoln.

Assistant Superintendent Henry Perry brought up another area of staffing problems: kindergarten at Parkhurst and Noonan. Increases in enrollment in some schools, along with decreases in others, have led to problems in assigning available teachers between the various schools.

Perry recommended that one teacher position be split between Noonan and Parkhurst, while an extra kindergarten teacher be sent to cover a staffing need in the Mystic first grade. Mystic Principal Dr. Martha Grenzsbach noted that the size of the classrooms at Mystic presented a further limit on the school's ability to adapt to enrollment changes.

The committee has scheduled another meeting Monday to deal with budget priorities and determine where the school department should spend what funds are available to it.

The open enrollment program has also tied in with staffing problems and enrollment decline. Superintendent of Schools William MacDonald stated that "this is the toughest year we've faced" in deciding how to allot open enrollment spots. He added, however, that he felt the next two years would be easier for granting open enrollment requests.

English department head Frances Russell reported that new writing programs at the secondary level had proved effective: teachers and parents have given her a lot of positive feedback about the 10th grade writing labs, and she said, "the scores show we're up in English usage."

However she too, is faced with staffing limitations. She pointed out that English is the only subject students must take and pass for their four final years in school. And she added that the development of English skills reflects in numerous other subjects.

There is need for more work in speech and drama, she said, and for more coordination of writing programs at the elementary level.

Board members questioned the need for 31 different English literature courses at the high school when there were pressing needs at the level of basic skills such as reading and writing.

"We have to accommodate different abilities as well as different interests," came Mrs. Russell's reply. She was asked to come up with a more definitive memo for the school committee explaining why the program could not get along with fewer courses.

In one area staffing has proven not to be a problem: High School Principal Vincent Larocco commended the dozen women who had have put in about 500 hours of volunteer work at the high school library this year. One result of their work is a central card catalog which will facilitate student research projects.

Criticism from finance committee member Alice Mirak of a salary raise granted Assistant Superintendent Jack Fallon drew strong reaction from the committee. She questioned an additional $1400 recently granted Fallon.

The administration explained that, due to town meetings disapproval of the creation of an administrative assistant to handle certain chores in the central office, those duties were distributed among the existing staff.

Asst. Supt. Fallon, in addition to preparing the school budget, has been given the task of handling teacher negotiations. MacDonald said Fallon would be taking on "substantially greater duties." He added that Fallon's past performance was also a factor in granting the raise.

Henry Perry, who is retiring this year, commented that Winchester administrative salaries were "not equitable" when compared to similar communities.

Chairman Frank was more adamant: "I don't think that we or they have to apologize for what they get," he said, adding that Winchester's principals and administrators work "well beyond" the minimum required of them.

Report cards will be going out soon, and this term there will be some additions: the administration will send out comparative scores with each child's individual grades.

In grades 1-3, parents will receive Winchester averages for each test taken; for the intermediate grades, information will include percentiles and local and national averages.

The question of school closing was also resolved: Wednesday, June 22 will be the last day of school. Monday and Tuesday will be full days for elementary students, instead of the originally scheduled half-days.

Concert held for house residents

On Wednesday afternoon, May 4, the residents of the Mt. Vernon House gathered together to hear a short concert.

Suzanne Farman, violinist, played the First Movement of Concert No. 4 K. 218, by Mozart, accompanied by pianist, Linda Feldmann. Linda then played Ballade in G Minor (Opus 118 No. 3) by Brahms. Suzanne's second selection, Romanze (Opus 50) by Beethoven, was accompanied by pianist Alice Wilkinson.

It is hoped that private music students will continue to perform at the Mt. Vernon House where sharing their talents is a benefit to both student and listener. Mrs. Doris Thomas has been instrumental in setting-up the programs.

Like pioneers who settled the old West, experts tell us, the first Hawaiians found themselves in a wilderness. Their only tools were what they had brought with them and their only food was what they fished from the sea or planted themselves. Probably the coconut was the most valuable resource the Hawaiians brought with them. They ate the meat of the nut for food and drank the milk, burned wood for fuel, and wove leaves into baskets and twine. And from this wilderness they have created an island paradise that must be seen to be believed.

private who is doing the damage, says Assistant Superintendent Jack Fallon, but they are reluctant to put the finger on anyone in public. The school board, at first reluctant to take action against anyone without positive proof, decided that immediate action had to be taken.

"I'm embarrassed and ashamed that our kids are causing this damage and financial hardship to the bus company," said school board member Constance Papas.

Cincotta presented the school board with a bill for $843 in damages, and the board voted unanimously to honor the bill. Under the present contract, the school department is not liable for damages; however, Cincotta's argument that the damages "have gone far beyond what the average expected damage is," was convincing.

Asst. Supt. Fallon assured the school committee that Lynch Principal Robert Fitzgerald "has done everything he physically could," from talking to the students to going out into the woods himself to try to catch those throwing rocks. "We have wiring inspector were incorporated in the building commissioner's job description. The personnel board has reviewed the new position description and classified the wiring inspector position in the professional-technical schedule at the grade of P-T 9. At the May annual town meeting, it was voted under article 4 to delete the position title of assistant wiring inspector from the town compensation plan and incorporate the title wiring inspector in the proper schedule."

Groux commended Reid, saying, "Mr. Reid's prior experience will be an asset to both the department and to the citizens of the town."

Selectmen also received a memo from Police Chief John P. McHugh regarding garage sales. The chief reported that "problems regarding unauthorized sales have failed to generate."

The only difficulty appears to be that of posting of advertising signs on electric and telephone poles. Police have been instructed to remove such signs.

Garage (yard) sales must be licensed by the selectmen. Applications in writing should be made two weeks before the sale and sent to Town Hall. The fee for the license is five dollars.

In a previous meeting, selectmen granted a request for a No Parking sign in front of the driveway at Russo's Cleaners on Washington street. They also reassigned members of the board for collective bargaining sessions, with Edward O'Connell and Richard Wilsack assigned to police negotiations and Arthur Dunbar and Harry Chefalo handling fire sessions.

Lt. O'Leary named fire department captain

Lieutenant William J. O'Leary is promoted to the rank of captain in the Winchester Fire Department effective Sunday.

Lieutenant O'Leary was appointed to the fire department on August 8, 1956, and appointed a lieutenant October 21, 1973.

Lieutenant O'Leary has been very active in the department over the past 20 years. Bill has held office in the Firefighters Relief Association and Local 1564 International Association of Firefighters. Lieutenant O'Leary has been very active with the Firefighters. Lieutenant O'Leary has been very active with the Max Ed High School Fire Science program as a coordinator and an instructor. Lieutenant O'Leary is a registered emergency medical technician having satisfactorily passed the National Registry Examination in 1974.

Lieutenant O'Leary was born in Winchester, attended Saint Mary's School, and graduated from Winchester High School in 1947. Music club honors Mrs. Doris Thomas

In appreciation of Mrs. Doris Thomas' many years of musical scholarship and her untiring efforts for the Winchester Music Club which she started several years ago, three of Mrs. Edith Bolster's most talented piano pupils and a former violin pupil of Mrs. Thomas participated in a tribute to her at the Mt. Vernon House recently.

Those taking part were Susan Doron, Adam Goodman, Eve Goodman and Christopher Wilde. Mr. Norman Goodman accompanied his daughter for her violin selection. Mrs. Bolster also showed her admiration for Mrs. Thomas by playing two pieces.

The Winchester Garden Club recently presented a check for $2300 to the seniors for use in landscaping the new senior center. The group, founded in 1930, has also contributed to landscaping projects at the Winchester Hospital, the Continuing Care Unit, the planting by the path along the Mill Pond, and most recently the flower boxes on the Mt. Meanwhile, the rotating schedule drawn up by the Winchester Taxi Owners Association and presented to selectmen Monday will have to be scratched. Winchester Cab was listed as the on-call cab three nights a week and as back-up once.

Several other matters came before selectmen at their regular meeting. Town Manager Thomas J. Groux has appointed Frederick Reid to the position of wiring inspector. In his memo to the board Groux wrote:

THE WINCHESTER STAR

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

Need for a council

An interesting communication arrived at the selectmen's office last week and it certainly bears looking into.

The Local Officials Human Services Council (LOHSC) is conducting its annual membership drive this summer from among elected officials within the Massachusetts League of Cities and Towns.

Although the memo does not have very much information about this council, and selectmen indicated they were not aware of its existence, the potential value to the community is very much apparent.

The LOHSC is made up of representatives from local human services offices, community development staffs, mayors' and selectmen's assistants (or selectmen themselves in Winchester's case), or anyone else designated as a representative of municipal human services interests.

The LOHSC claims to have played "an important role in many critical issues" during the past year in matters of state human services issues.

Specifically, the group has been instrumental in suggesting ways the state can bring in federal funds and significantly reduce the financial burden Chapter 766 (special education) now places on the local property tax.

Winchester alone has a budget of $930,308 for Chapter 766 implementation.

LOHSC was also represented on a select department of public welfare "donated funds" advisory committee which resulted in the commissioner's accepting recommendations that would make more money available to local governments.

This organization has also been monitoring the effort of the state to coordinate its various categorical agencies through something called "area strategy."

Winchester should be particularly interested in learning more about the human service council because it appears we may be headed for more direct involvement with groups like the Minuteman Home Care Corporation.

Town meeting this spring authorized an expenditure of $1628 for services to the needy elderly in town by the Minuteman Home Care Corp. While this is not a large sum, the concept of an appropriation for services by a non-profit organization was a new one for town meeting members.

Home Care serves the elderly in 16 towns northwest of Boston with state and federal funds administered through the Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs.

Two local elderly persons were already being served here. The council on aging will probably incorporate Winchester's assessment into its budget for next year.

The LOHSC says that during the coming year its impact on state policy and human services issues will continue to grow.

One of its merits is that it will provide technical assistance to local governments interested in developing a human services capacity. This may be accomplished in part by coordinating existing services or discovering ways to make better use of local dollars currently spent by combining them with other fiscal resources.

Selectmen will be looking into this group to see just how it works. Membership may have an impact on this town's human services.

Bartlett arrives

We will tax your patience just once more regarding the Wyman School.

As Wyman closes Wednesday morning, it does so perhaps permanently as a Winchester school. Its doors will, however, open again this fall to admit the pupils of the Bartlett School, making the move from Arlington to Winchester.

The contract leasing the school to Bartlett has been signed and Miss Norine Casey, director, is most eager to begin the move into larger quarters.

We wish her luck as she begins a new adventure. We know Winchester will welcome her and her young pupils.

Youth support

Another adventure just getting started here is the youth job clearing house for youngsters 12 to 18. The seniors have offered to staff their service line to bring young people together with potential employers for jobs ranging from yard work to cooking meals to running errands.

To help the project get started, the Winchester Fire Fighters' Union, Local 1564 IAFF, has donated two hundred dollars. The contribution was made to CONCERN president Ann Smith, with an accompanying letter of best wishes.

"Our union membership enthusiastically endorses this youth activity and will cooperate in any way possible to assure its success. This is a means by which a positive step can be taken to help our young people in a realistic way," the letter from Local President Joseph Riga said.

The Star can only second that sentiment as Fire Fighter Ken Duffy and his committee get the project going.

Pictorial editorial

High school senior Simon Donovan, with the help of students David Mood and Susan Stackpole, has put the Sachem spirit out there for all to see. The relief sculpture is Donovan's senior art project.

Letters from readers

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This letter is written in response to a letter which appeared in the Star on June 9th, under the caption "Facts of Life," which was submitted by James B.L. Lane relative to the (what he terms as) irresponsible action of the June 2 Town Meeting, which voted the sum of $400,000, from General Surplus Revenue (E&D) to reduce the proposed tax increase by approximately $2.00.

I have known Mr. Lane for many years and even though I may not agree with his opinions from time to time, I have always had the greatest respect for him.

However, I must now take issue and strongly object to his statement that the Town Meeting action on June 2nd was irresponsible. Let's look at the "Facts":

Fact: The Board of Selectmen did amend the Finance Committee motion to Transfer from General Surplus Revenue (E&D) $47,000, by increasing the amount to $280,000. My amendment increased the Selectmen's amendment to $400,000, which is only $120,000 more.

FACT: Fiscal Year 1976, The Finance Committee recommended that $600,000 be put into the so-called "Cookie Jar" for wage settlements.

FACT: Only $400,000 of the $600,000 was expended from the "Cookie Jar." This leaves $200,000 available from F.Y. 76.

FACT: Fiscal Year 1976, The School Department reverted $107,000 from personal services that was not anticipated by the Finance Committee or Town Manager.

FACT: In 1975, $114,652 was appropriated for work on Palmer Street, of which $42,000, is unexpended and available in the "Cookie Jar."

FACT: The Finance Committee proposed budget figures (as prepared for each town meeting member) do not reflect the correct forecast expenditures since they are identical in many cases including the Finance Committee reserve fund with a budget of $100,000, with a "0" forecast. QUESTION: How much will be reverted from this account?

FACT: Both the Finance Committee and Board of Selectmen stated under article 15 (conservation property) that we can well afford an expenditure of over $500,000, but recommended unfavorable action because they felt the land was not worth that price.

FACT: The above monies that I have referred to, were appropriated in prior years and were included in the tax rate for those years. In view of the above "FACTS", I feel that my amendment was "IN FACT" very conservative and I congratulate the town meeting members for the action that they took.

Not many like him

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Such a nice requiem written in today's Star by Ms. Whittlesey-First on the passing of Amoroso Capone on Saturday last.

Ambrose, we some of us shortened his name to, and I were almost exactly two months apart in age, and I often kicked him as "Junior" while having my sparse locks shorn by what we usually termed as an old-fashioned barber. He had little patience with what he called the modern "male hairdresser."

It is to my everlasting regret that in my 40 years in Winchester I never knew him until a bit more than three years ago. He made the hair-cutting operation a thing of great interest—you always knew where Ambrose stood on issues, and especially on the follies of government, and bureaucracy in general, and long-haired youth in particular.

There are not many around like him, and I shall miss him greatly.

Tribute

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I wish to express my heartfelt thanks for the lovely tribute given my dad, Amoroso Capone, on last week's editorial page.

He was a rather quiet man but the lesson he taught us was in his ability to carry on for 81 years never complaining and never shirking his responsibilities.

Yes, many a Winchesterite will remember him for his pool table and the fun in learning how to play the game as only he could.

He has left behind many fond memories and traditions that will be carried on from generation to generation.

Social Security?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In July anyone on SSI was supposed to have a cost of living increase in their checks, but because of a small increase in SS, the government will see fit to take away not only the cost of living increase, but $6 or $7 of what folks were getting before the increase in Social Security Insurance.

Now if you were getting a $5 or $6 increase in your Social Security, and they not only took your cost of living increase from SSI, but $6 or $7 besides, what good is the cost of living increase in the first place.

Does anyone know why the government keeps the old folks on edge all the time? All the other countries take care of their elderly with dignity but ours.

Everyone, including the elderly, have to pay more each year for everything, including rent. The elderly cannot live on $80 per week anymore than anyone else and pay their bills. Someone should do something in regard to this mess (SSI).

If you need it you have to plead poverty.

P.S. Some people have a large Social Security check, others have lowest because they or their mate did not work under SS.

By The Observer

Winchester taxpayers will watch another slice peel off the top next year, thanks to a $3.3 million suit settled in favor of the Middlesex County Courthouse contractors in May.

The case dates from 1970, when the original contractor was fired after pulling its workers off the job because of a pay dispute with the county. The construction firm filed suit, the county counter-sued. Subcontractors issued their own claims.

Now, after three years of arbitration hearings, the issue is settled. The county is to pay the contractor the $3.3 million, just about what the county owed the contractor when the work stopped back in 1970.

The county commissioners are requesting state approval to borrow through short-term bank loans to make the pay-off. If the loan is spread over the next 20 years, it will add about $200,000 to the annual county budget.

The county commissioners are requesting state approval to borrow short-term notes to cover the pay-off. The next likely step would be a 20-year bond issue to cover the loan, a move requiring state approval.

The cost of all this? Over 20 years, an additional $200,000 in the county budget (keep your eye on next year's cherry sheet). By the time it's paid off, the courthouse will have cost taxpayers more than $47 million, about three times the original cost of the project.

Prizes were handed out to 23 children at last week's Kiwanis Fish Derby, with the prize for the largest fish caught going to Joey Peluso and the prize for the most fish caught going to Kent Matseuda.

Others who had a lucky day and won prizes in the various categories of sunfish, bass, perch, eels, horn pout and miscellaneous were:

Sports writing isn't by nature as straight-laced as the rest of the news is supposed to be: the drama and the heroics—and the bad news as well—end up spun into tales of near-mythical proportions. So now and then you run into an exaggeration.

We had one last week which was slightly more, however: an inappropriate comment, really, in the special, two-page spread on the high school's outstanding athletes for this spring. At one point the article claims that one person alone WAS the team. No. She WAS outstanding and deserves all the credit she received. Leave her out of it: the issue is that no one person IS the team, and it takes more than superstars to make one.

And the day bionic athletes start replacing teams, it's time to head south for spring training.

Winchester's Jan Oehm knows how to go the distance: she placed 10th this week in the 3000 meter event at the National AAU Women's Junior Championships, held in California. She also made her best time for the two-mile equivalent to date: 10:43.

Jan, a junior at Winchester High School, has also been selected for the Globe's All-Scholastic Girls Track Team for her performances in the two-mile event. She won the race at the state meet by 200 yards with an all-state record time of 11:06.6. Her best time up to the California race was 10:49.

by implementing the state model and overall cost will be minimized.

Alternative plans must be developed to better meet the needs for prevention, education and treatment of alcoholism. Although our state has recognized alcoholism as an illness when it decriminalized alcoholism, it has not yet provided sufficient facilities to meet the needs. Your effective leadership at this time will provide the necessary remedy for this area.

Thank you for your consideration of our message.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Dear Mr. Penta,

On behalf of the Seniors of Winchester, who accepted your kind invitation to the spaghetti luncheon on Saturday, I wish to express sincere appreciation for your gracious hospitality.

Special thanks should go to the chefs who prepared the delicious meal, to Mr. Michael Saraco, chairman of the luncheon committee, and to the men and women who worked so hard to make possible such a pleasant occasion for us.

In particular we want to thank you for your very generous check for our building fund, in addition to the proceeds from the sale of tickets for the luncheon.

Lady in blue

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

With the school year coming to a close, I feel it would be a good time to say a special thank-you to our children's friend, the police lady.

As many would say, she is well paid for her job. Why then is there need for a special thanks?

If you were to stand there on any street corner during the school year, you would be amazed at how she conducts herself and our children. She is always dressed in proper uniform so the children recognize her easily. She is never late for her job and she always manages to keep a cheerful smile on her face.

As many of us do, she has her own problems in life to cope with, however, she always makes herself available when our children have "catastrophes" in their lives. "I lost my nickel," "I need a tissue, my nose is dripping," are a few of the many things which the children tell her. She also laughs with them about the good news, such as, "I had a baby brother," or "I passed my test and mom said I'm her special girl."

There is a special relationship between our children and this special lady. Our children are eager every morning to share a part of their lives with this woman. It is truly a comforting thought to know that our children turn to her for support and advice instead of someone else. Every child knows that he/she is an individual to her, and because of this they feel special and warm. This is what makes her so unique.

On behalf of myself and many other grateful parents, please accept this letter of appreciation. Throughout the school year, we do not usually get a chance to congratulate you on the fine job you do, and now is as good a time as any other. It is good to know that when we kiss our children good-bye, your face will be the next one they will encounter.

I hope that as you read this letter you realize that this special person is you. May God watch over you and good things come to you, for in my mind, you deserve it. I wish you a happy, and tranquil summer, because you will need it for when September comes. Our children will be looking for you because they love you and we love you too.

Just another mother.

Raise the age?

Drinking and our youth

The following article was submitted by representatives of the Massachusetts Police Association. The cover letter accompanying the article, signed by Kenneth Ellis, president of the association, and George L. Sacco, the group's legal counsel, reads in part:

"We are writing to you in the interest of the public safety of the people of our state. After careful and extensive research, we present to you what we believe to be a convincing argument in favor of increasing the drinking age from 18 to 20 years."

The article was prepared by Counsel Sacco.

Far too many Americans, young and old alike, drink too much. To take a different position would be to ignore the incredible statistics drawn on national and local scales over many years which document the alarming toll that excessive drinking takes in terms of human life and well being, human creativity and productivity. The problem drinkers not only become their own worst enemy, but they also leave in their wake many innocent victims. It is this latter group — the innocent victims of the excessive drinker — for whom we must show equal if not greater concern.

Clearly, alcohol is America's No. 1 drug problem — it is not pills or pot but rather just plain booze. Alcoholism takes more lives in America than any other cause with the exception of cancer and heart attacks. While it obviously then is a major public health problem, it must be recognized as a social problem of enormous magnitude as well. Broken homes, lost jobs, destroyed relationships, abused and stranded husbands, wives and children are merely some of the byproducts of the family afflicted with drinking problems.

Massachusetts can take no pride in statistics which indicate that it takes a leadership position in the field of alcohol abuse. For example, Massachusetts leads most states in the sale of alcoholic beverages. Boston is second only to San Francisco in the consumption of hard liquor; and the Department of Mental Health recently reported to me that we have over 265,000 admitted alcoholics in Massachusetts. Needless to say, there are many more citizens who as yet refuse to recognize that they too share an alcoholic problem.

While most Americans concede the ravages which alcohol abuse reaps upon the human condition, the family and the national well-being, there is much confusion and debate as to what steps should be taken not only to protect the alcoholics themselves but also to provide some protection for the rest of us who may well be affected by their abuse. Few, if any, would suggest a second experiment with Prohibition. Such national legislation was a miserable failure the first time, and common sense would not suggest that its repeat would fare any better. On the other hand, legislation in recent years lowering the drinking age to 18 was hardly a step in the right direction.

At the time of its enactment, General Richard McLaughlin called the new law "nothing less than a Magna Carta for murder on the highways of Massachusetts," and unfortunately the record would seem to bear out his grim prophesy. In fact, the latest statistics on point offer clear evidence that lowering the drinking age to 18 has resulted in an appalling number of fatalities and injuries on our highways which are directly related to drinking — injuries to all age groups, but particularly among the 15-19 year old age group. Equally as alarming, however, is the documentation which indicates that much criminal activity such as car thefts, vandalism, house breaks, serious assaults, rape and murders which are committed by our young people often bear a direct relationship to teenage drinking.

Consider, if you will, recent highway statistics alone. In January, 1975, the Department of Public Safety issued reports indicating that the arrest of drunken teenage drivers had increased 166 percent in the 18 months since the effective date of the legislation lowering the drinking age. Tragically, fatal accidents involving young people had risen almost identically — 167 percent during that period. In one year alone, 222 drivers between the ages of 18 and 21 were involved in fatal accidents; and of the total, over 74 percent had been drinking and 89 were killed. There is no compiled data as to how many passengers and others have been injured or killed as a result of drinking and drunken drivers on our highways. Unfortunately, these figures can never be complete.

Prior to the 1973 legislation, however, Massachusetts had consistently, year in and year out, shared with Connecticut and Rhode Island the distinction of having the lowest highway death tolls in the nation, based upon either population or mileage. It is important to note that all three states equally as consistently enforced the 21 year old drinking laws which then existed. The State of New York at that time had legislated an 18 year old drinking age, and New York was approximately 10 percent worse off than Massachusetts in highway fatalities on the population rate basis — and roughly 25 percent worse off if one considered the mileage rate basis.

In view of such convincing evidence, I was proud to co-sponsor, along with former Registrar Richard McLaughlin and the Massachusetts Police Association, the petition now before the General Court to increase the drinking age from 18 to 20 years. We urge adoption of our proposed legislation. The fact that such respected and knowledgeable public officials as Charles Barry, Secretary of Public Safety, and former Registrars of Motor Vehicles Richard McLaughlin and Robert Panora continue to oppose the lowered drinking age should lend convincing support in the eyes of the Governor and all Massachusetts legislators. We urge your support as well.

General McLaughlin, the very capable former Registrar, was an original opponent of the 18 year old drinking law enacted in 1973. I

16-20 Year Old Drivers Involved in Fatal Accidents
YEAR	No. Drivers	Percent of Total All Ages	No. Drivers Drinking	No. Total Drunk Drivers All Ages
1973	321	27	97	42
1974	326	29	106	38
1975	301	28	96	38

concur fully with the following statement he made before the Public Safety Legislative Committee in 1977 when that committee was initially considering our petition to increase the legal drinking age: "The 18 year old may marry badly and leave me, as a taxpayer, with his children to support. They may vote and vote unwisely, and this may or may not hurt me politically. They may carry a weapon and be a hazard in the forest during the hunting season, but for the most part their fellow citizens will not be exposed to them. Yet when they drink in excess and drive on our highways, then they are an immediate death threat to you and to me, to the elderly crossing the streets, to the ambulance driving the sick, and to the children as they leave a playground. Maybe we cannot totally interdict their murderous potential on the highway, but let's not encourage it."

One might argue that we single out one age group in our proposed legislation when men and women of other ages also become a menace on the highways and elsewhere due to excessive use of alcohol. This is, of course, true; and strong legislation must be enacted to protect us from all persons who are not mature enough, whatever their age, to drink in considerable moderation if they intend to exercise the privilege of driving a car on our highways. On the other hand, when one age group compiles the kind of awesome statistics to which we have referred, it would seem that it deserves to be singled out immediately as the subject of corrective legislation. The combination of youth and liquor with two-ton, high-powered motor vehicles appears automatically to sign the death warrant for too many of our citizens, both young and old alike.

We are naturally aware that a 20 or 21 year old drinking law is not an absolute answer to the problem of irresponsible and excessive drinking by young people. It has been a relatively effective deterrent in the past, however, along with some tough and consistent law enforcement. Today such enforcement would be further enhanced by the "tamper-proof" drivers' license, and hopefully, even stricter enforcement of alcoholic beverage and highway safety laws. We concede that there will always be a small segment who will somehow gain illegal possession of liquor particularly if their older friends, relatives or parents are willing to act as their purchasing agents; but in such cases, our laws should provide a penalty as severe as that imposed on the liquor dealer who sells to minors.

For the most part, we have directed our arguments primarily in the interests of highway safety, but let us also consider the broader philosophical issue of how best to enhance the cultural and personal development of our adolescents. Interestingly enough, a 17 year old high school senior and former President of the National Honor Society recently wrote to us as follows: "It takes very simple mathematics to realize that related crimes have also risen sharply since the drinking age has been lowered, highway accidents have increased drastically, and what of our moral obligations to decrease the use of alcohol?"

While alcohol is recognized as one of America's leading public health and social problems, there is significant medical evidence which indicates that in some cases its consumption at a young age will lead to the use of other mindaltering drugs. Addiction to alcohol is a disease which haunts the alcoholics and their families for the rest of their lives. Too many young and old alike are using alcohol as a means of escape from their personal problems or depression. Unwittingly, they soon become dependent upon it. In the case of young people so addicted, they curb their education, it affects their judgment, reflexes and moral values, and deprives them of the opportunity to be useful and productive citizens for the benefit of themselves, their families and society at large.

As a practicing attorney, as a former lawmaker, as a parent and as a private citizen, it is not my intention nor that of my co-sponsors to propose legislation which would serve only to penalize young people. In light of the statistics accumulated since 1973, we prefer to view our petition as urgently needed corrective legislation which also offers our young people a greater opportunity to lead a full and meaningful life by nurturing and developing their individual talents at this stage of their lives to the fullest extent possible.

The fact that the proposed legislation would necessarily postpone their legal introduction to alcoholic beverages would seem no real penalty at all in view of national and local statistics. It simply does not make sense to so blithely continue to encourage our young people to join America's social drinking club and thereby accept alcohol as just one more social trend in our brave new world, a world which shows so many signs of reaping havoc upon us.

We must start somewhere in trying to salvage something from the abundant evidence on the subject of the ill effects of alcohol abuse in the state and nation, and common sense would suggest that we start with our young people. Let us not forget for a moment that we did not simply lower the drinking age to 18 — practically speaking, we effectively lowered it to 17, 16, 15 and under. This fact has been confirmed by numerous people involved with youngsters on a day-to-day basis who indicate that young people of these ages and much younger are drinking in far greater proportions than ever before.

The Massachusetts Police Association considers this proposed legislation to be a most important and vitally needed change in the current law in order to curb needless highway fatalities and community crime. It is also seen as a means of lending positive assistance in creating a better atmosphere and stronger relationship between young people and their parents, their schools and their community. Even more consequential, however, it is seen as legislation which will save lives and reduce instances of crippling injury to the body and mind — save the lives of teenagers so that our youngsters can realize their own aspirations and promise and make their own unique contribution to our society. To this end, they need our help and we need theirs. Let us hope for their sake and ours that the Governor and Legislature show real leadership in dealing with this important proposal.

CETA eligibility revised

Revised CETA Title VI eligibility requirements mean more Massachusetts residents are likely to qualify for over 20,000 public service jobs in Massachusetts funded under the recent Congressional supplemental appropriation.

The revisions increase the maximum income level in most areas and relax some of the rules regarding term of unemployment. Generally, low-income long-term unemployed, veterans and AFDC recipients are eligible.

Income criteria are set by the federal government, based on geographical areas and family size. The new eligibility requirements are less stringent, and more people will qualify under these criteria. Some people who were deemed ineligible previously may now be eligible. Individuals must apply and fill out an application which details their economic condition in order to receive an eligibility determination. In addition, individuals must be long-term unemployed or AFDC recipients to be eligible. Specifically, individuals must meet the above income criteria AND one of the following criteria:

1. currently unemployed and receiving unemployment benefits for 15 of the previous 20 weeks (the rule had been: unemployed and collecting for 15 consecutive weeks), OR

2. Currently unemployed, unemployed and ineligible for any reason for unemployment benefits for 15 of the previous 20 weeks (it had been: only those monetarily ineligible), OR

3. currently unemployed and has exhausted unemployment benefits, whose benefit year is still in effect, OR

4. AFDC recipients, including AFDC-unemployed fathers, OR

5. veterans (or those discharged for a service-connected disability) who have not obtained permanent unsubsidized employment since discharge.

Individuals should apply immediately to their local CETA Office at 22 Forest Street, Medford, Mass. 02155 for a CETA eligibility determination, as public service jobs are available now.

CETA funds available for public projects

Medford CETA announces that additional funds are available for projects which provide public services to the community by employing CETA workers, under the recent extension of Title VI of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. Government and non-profit organizations serving the Medford Consortium are eligible to submit proposals for projects of three to twelve months duration. Organizations serving low income, long-term unemployed and minority groups are encouraged to apply.

This is the third round of funding for Title VI projects. All interested bidders are encouraged to apply; submission of a proposal under Round Three will have no effect on the Round One or Round Two selection process.

Proposal deadline is July 8. Project guidelines, details on submitting proposals and application forms are available through Carol Steele at the Medford CETA office, 22 Forest St.

How Arm & Hammer Baking Soda helps maintain your pool's ideal pH and helps keep your water crystal clear.

The 2 most important rules for easy pool care.

The most important rule to remember about pool care is to use a chlorinating product.

Recommended usage: Maintain a minimum chlorine level of 1.0 ppm Free Residual (Available) Chlorine. The second most important rule to remember is to maintain the proper pH. And here's where Baking Soda goes to work. Baking Soda is a natural acid neutralizer and buffering agent which helps maintain pool pH at an ideal range of 7.8 to 8.2. This helps keep eyes from burning. And Baking Soda even helps improve water clarity—keeping your pool water crystal clear.

Recommended usage: Add 1 lb. of Baking Soda per 10,000 gallons of water each week during active pool season. Add a chlorinating product as needed.

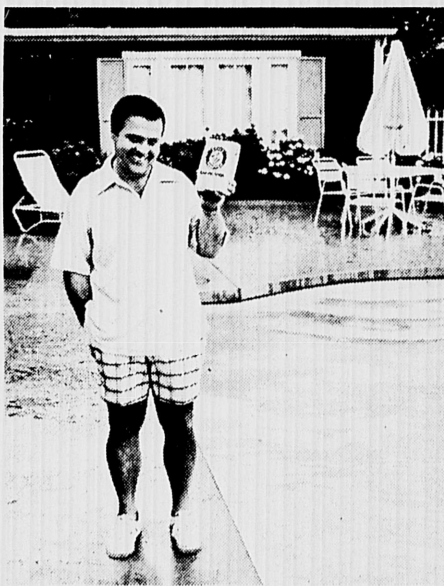

If pH reaches 8.2, you can discontinue weekly use of Baking Soda and use only as necessary to maintain a pH within 7.8 to 8.2. Do not use Acid. If cloudiness occurs, run filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep the water clear

Your pool water is filled with tiny particles too small for your filter to remove. Some of these particles make the water cloudy. Baking Soda causes the smallest particles to become attached to larger ones which are then easily filtered out of the water. The result is crystal clear water. If cloudiness occurs when you add Baking Soda, run the filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep eyes from burning

When eyes sting or burn and chlorine odors can be detected from the pool water, the problem is usually one of low pH. A low pH promotes the formation of irritating chlorine-nitrogen by-products. The best way to minimize the formation of these irritating by-products is to control the pH of your pool water.

"Arm & Hammer Baking Soda is a pool owner's best friend"

By maintaining your pool's pH with Baking Soda, you automatically adjust the pH of your pool water into the ideal range of 7.8 to 8.2. As a result, eye irritation is kept to a minimum.

6 Rules for Pool Maintenance

1. Test water daily.
2. Daily chlorine measurements should be taken to assure proper germicidal activity. Free Residual (Available) Chlorine should be 1.0 ppm or above.
3. Maintain pH between 7.8 and 8.2. Once every week during active pool season use 1 lb. of Arm & Hammer Baking Soda for every 10,000 gallons of water.
4. Check filter regularly. Clean when necessary.
5. Check water hardness monthly, particularly in hard water areas. High water hardness may cause scaling. If total water hardness (as calcium carbonate) is above 300 ppm, do not use Baking Soda until pool has been drained and refilled.
6. If heater is used: Operate filter at least 15 minutes after heater is turned off.

Note: On occasion, particularly in a new pool or in pools being opened for the season, additional steps are required to bring the pool into balance more rapidly or to clear up problems such as algae growth or mineral accumulation. When these problems arise consult a pool expert in your area.

Test Kits

An accurate Test Kit is very important to avoid inaccurate readings which can cause problems in proper pool maintenance. Testing solutions should be replaced at least once every year.

How to estimate your pool's capacity

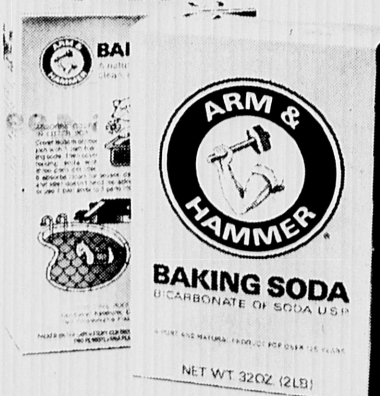

The average swimming pool contains approximately 20,000 gallons. However, an accurate record of the pool's water capacity in gallons is necessary since this measurement is often used to calculate amounts of chemicals for treating the pool water.

The following formulas can be used to approximate the total gallons of water a pool will hold.

Type Pool	Dimensions in feet	Gallon Capacity
Rectangular	Length x Width x Avg. Depth x 7.5 =
Circular	Diameter x Dia x Avg. Depth x 4.7 =
Oval	Length x Width x Avg. Depth x 4.7 =

Class requests for adult ed. sought

The adult education program is currently being planned for the fall semester. In the past, a wide variety of opportunities have been offered from beginning bridge to conversational French.

If you have a request for a particular course that you would like to see included, contact the director of adult education, Evander French Jr. at Winchester High School. There should be at least eight adults who would participate in such a course before you make your request.

Your suggestions on courses or other aspects of the adult education program will be carefully considered as plans are developed for the Fall Session.

Queensmen mark first year with two performances

Memorial Day weekend was a busy one for the Immaculate Conception Queensmen Drum & Bugle Corps of Winchester-Woburn, starting with a special Mass at 9:30 on Sunday, May 29th at the Immaculate Conception Church in Winchester. Celebrant of the Mass was Rev. William J. Cummings, Spiritual Director of the Corps, who coincidentally was celebrating the ninth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood on the same day. His homily for the Feast of Pentecost was geared to the Queensmen Unit and friends gathered there. The reason for the Mass was to kickoff their competitive season which opened on June 3 in Lynn. A successful cake sale was also featured after all the Masses on the weekend by the Queensmen members to pay for the cost of new garment bags.

Earlier this month the Queensmen Unit attended the CYO Music Circuit Mass for Peace held at Holy Cross Cathedral in Boston. Rev. William J. Cummings was the guest homilist at this Mass and the Queensmen, the largest unit in attendance, were seated in choice seats of honor at this affair.

On Monday, Memorial Day, the Queensmen were up for a group picture taken at 8, then on to Leonard Field where they assembled at the starting point of the Winchester parade formation, to Calvary Cemetery, to Wildwood Cemetery and back to Town Hall where they boarded buses to carry them to Burlington for a 1 p.m. parade. There was no time for a lunch break for the Queensmen, so a quick sandwich on the bus was in order.

The Queensmen had made their debut in Burlington just one year ago Memorial Day and did not want to disappoint the Burlington Town Committee who had invited them to return for the Memorial Day exercises.

The Queensmen have been commended for their perseverance and dedication during the past year. They have a new manager Robert Scholl, who capably carried them through the busy weekend. Mr. Scholl, a native of Winchester, has been with the Corps in another capacity since its reorganization in the fall of 1975. The members and committee were delighted that he was appointed new manager.

The Queensmen will participate in many competitive contests during the summer months. They themselves will be sponsoring a contest at Manchester Field on July 31 for corps throughout the Eastern Mass Circuit. This is quite an undertaking for any group as the success depends greatly on the public. The members have been soliciting sponsors and ads for their program book which helps defray the cost of rentals, printing and prizes. Any person interested in being a sponsor should contact Fr. Cummings.

Swim team sign-ups at Wedge Friday

Registration for the Town Swim Team will be held at Wedge Pond on Friday, June 24 from 10 to 2 p.m., and Monday, June 27 at Leonard Pool from 10 am to 2 pm.

Team practices will be held every Monday through Thursday from 9 am to 10 am at Leonard Pool. Weekly meets will be scheduled against area teams including the Boat Club, Swim Club, Sun Valley, Adams Estates, etc.

This year's team will be under the direction of Sally Grant, assisted by John Henriques, Elizabeth Kennedy, and Michael Corf.

St. Mary's holds annual field day

On June 3, St. Mary's held their annual Field Day at Leonard Field. The children from Grade 1 to Grade 8 walked from the school to the field at 10. The events provided for the children's enjoyment included sack races, relay races, wheelbarrow races, potato races, three-legged races, 50-yard dash, tug-of-war, a softball throw contest, and a softball game. Prizes for first, second, and third place were awarded. A free lunch of a hot dog, tonic, chips, and a hoodie was provided with more food and candy available for sale at the Chuck Wagon.

Mrs. Mary Jordan and Mrs. Beverly Bittarelli were co-chairmen for this event.

New books

The N.Y. Times Book of Interior Design and Decoration by Norma Skurka - Primarily a color picture book of photographs with essays on styles, furniture, space planning and color dynamics. A glimpse of how some people live.

Cat Catalog - A book containing more than 100 original articles and 250 photos and other illustrations exploring all aspects of the cat. The cat was once persecuted in Europe. The Black Plague was brought to Europe by the Asiatic black cat during the Crusades. Those homes who had protected their cats had their lives saved—the cats had killed the cats. One of the nice stories in this book.

The sidelines were hopping during the races at the recent St. Mary's field day for grades 1-8, held at Leonard Field. (Staff photo)

"Too often it seems that when businesses fail, so do kids."

"It's no wonder kids today are discouraged.

They look at their future through their parents' eyes and see cutbacks, layoffs and the prospect of more to come.

It shows. Grades suffer. Behavior problems erupt.

And it becomes very hard to motivate a kid to stay in school when the job picture looks so grim.

You know, at one time education was the only way out for the economically deprived.

Today, kids wonder if school is worthwhile, whether all the courses they're forced to take mean anything when there don't seem to be any jobs.

We've got to reestablish trust in business and in our economic system.

We can't run away from problems in this state.

After all, if we want to live here, we have to be able to work here."

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy and a lot of people like her are speaking out on something that's very important to us. And to you.

We're the 17 home-based life companies of the Life Insurance Association of Massachusetts, and our business is protecting families and futures.

But the subject today isn't just our business. It's your business... everybody's business. Because what this state does for business and the business climate affects everyone who lives here.

We know of what we speak.

The home-based life companies employ 21,000 of your friends and neighbors across the state. People just like you. And we're only talking about the life insurance industry, not other kinds of insurance companies.

Those 21,000 people take home $218 million in paychecks annually, much of it finding its way back into the Massachusetts economy. The companies they work for buy $67 million in Massachusetts-produced goods and services every year and have $1.5 billion invested in housing, shopping centers, hotels, industrial parks and dozens of other industries from the Berkshires to the Cape. Those same companies pay $49 million a year in Massachusetts taxes.

So you can see the home-based life companies have a lot at stake here.

That's why we think it's in the best interest of all of us to do everything we can to improve the business climate in Massachusetts.

For all of us.

Kathleen O'Shaughnessy
Teacher, Brookline

Lynch victorious in French contest

Students from Lynch Junior High School were the winners of the first annual Lynch-McCall French competition, held May 25 in the high school language department.

Nearly 30 seventh graders representing the two schools participated in three events covering their knowledge of the aspects of French vocabulary, spelling, and grammar, which are taught in the first year of study.

The students were accompanied by teachers John Grange and Mrs. Cathy LeFever from McCall and Mrs. Leslie Hastings from Lynch. Barbara Holden, coordinator of foreign languages, assisted in the judging. The event was sponsored by the language department and the parents' associations of the two schools.

The winners returned to Lynch with a plaque, which will remain in the school until next year's competition. The victorious Lynch team included Joan Baruffaldi, Paolo Coppi, John Huebl, Kate Japy, Erik Johnson, Valerie Kolligan, Diane Meahl, Adena Schutzberg, Gordon Shaw, Nilufer Taspinar, Lynn VanUmmersen, and Paul Williamson.

The following students from the McCall seventh grade French classes participated in the competition: Kathleen Fitzgerald, Thomas Hanlon, Erica Johansson, Patrick Kennedy, Anton Khablaz, Kathleen Mahoney, Tomislau Marincic, Scott McAdams, Chrysanthos Miliars, Brian Milauskas, Steve Norris, Babette Pelloux, Kathleen Scully, Alison Sughrue, Christopher Wagstram, Debbie Williams.

Nat'l. Guard saves weekend for Troop 507

A telephone call to the National Guard at Camp Edwards Friday night averted what might have been an uncomfortable and disappointing excursion for 44 Winchester Boy Scouts this past weekend. The scouts, all members of Winchester's Troop 507, were on their way to Martha's Vineyard for a weekend of camping and outdoor fun when they arrived at Woods Hole to find their steamship "grounded" by the high seas and winds that accompanied the unexpected nor'easter. They would have had to return to their homes if one of the parents hadn't put in a call to Camp Edwards for "emergency assistance." The Guard personnel at Edwards, commanded by Col. William P. Creamer of Brockton, responded immediately by making a barracks and mess hall available to the young scouts who arrived just in time to cook their evening meal.

On Saturday, as the storm continued, the scouts were given a guided tour of the 26th Aviation Battalion's flight facility by Maj. John Perchard, before heading off to visit various historical sites on the Cape.

As the scouts departed Camp Edwards on Sunday morning, Charles Perenick, the parent who had made the original telephone request, expressed the appreciation of Scoutmaster Joseph Dixon and all of the scouts: "You and your men couldn't have been more hospitable and helpful," he told Col. Creamer. "This turned out to be a delightful weekend that all of the boys will never forget."

Volunteers cited at Rehab meeting

A large number of volunteers at the New England Rehabilitation Hospital turned out for the group's annual luncheon recently. Several local volunteers were cited for their many hours of work at the hospital.

Mrs. Richard Keating, RN, of Winchester, is retiring as president of the volunteer group after two terms. She was presented with a gift for her efforts at the Rehab.

Replacing her as president will be Mrs. Elizabeth Rayner of Weston. Other officers named were Katherine Welch, vice president; Mrs. Albert Maggioni, treasurer; Mrs. Loretta Stillman, recording secretary; Mrs. Audrea Clair, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Ursula Keleher, auditor. All five are from Winchester.

Winchester residents elected to the board include Mrs. Lou Maroney and Mrs. L. Keating, both past presidents, and Catherine Burke.

Also cited at the luncheon was the work of the "Busy Bees," a group of volunteers who meet Monday mornings. Two of the group's three leaders, Mrs. Mary Nunziato and Mrs. Clair, are from Winchester. The "Bees" prepared favors for patients' trays on seven holidays and made 546 gifts to be sold in the gift shop.

Receiving awards for their service were Winchester residents Ms. Burke, for 4000 hours; Mrs. Maggioni, for 2500 hours; and Mrs. Stillman, for 500 hours.

Senior bowlers complete season, present trophies

Winchester's senior bowlers, who never called off a game during the heavy accumulation of last winter's snow, have completed their year's bowling at the Winchester Bowladrome. To celebrate the end of the season, the seniors had cocktails and lunch at the Butcher Boy Steak House in North Andover after the final three strings.

New league officers were chosen for the coming year. They are: Norm Reed, president; Art Fonseca, treasurer; Barbara Leahy, secretary; Ed Sharkey, Mary Flaherty, and Clarence Dunbury, returning members of the bowling committee; Dot Mawn, Mary Robinson, and Arko Amico, new members of the committee.

Trophies were presented to the outstanding seniors for high average, high triple, and high single string of the season.

The seniors bowling league, which started with six teams several years ago, has grown to 14 teams. The average age of the players is now 70. Candlepin bowling is also part of the seniors bowling activities.

For the 1976-77 season the Winchester Senior Citizens Bowling League final statistics are:

Women: High average — E. Campbell 87.6; D. Mawn 87.0; A. O'Melia 85.8; A. Scaturro 84.9; M. Flaherty 82.2; M. Connor 81.4; S. Gilberto 81.0; G. Mitchell 80.4; M. McLaughlin 80.2.

High triple — E. Campbell 303; D. Mawn 297; M. Robinson 297; A. Scaturro 288.

High single — D. Mawn 126; E. Campbell 118; M. Robinson 113; A. Scaturro 111.

Men: High average — E. Sharkey 98.3; V. Scaturro 94.6; A. Amico 89.4; N. Reed 86.0; C. Dunbury 84.3; C. Borggaard 83.7; M. Garry 83.0; D. Adams 82.0; A. Fonseca 81.5; M. Kirkenda 81.0.

High triple — E. Sharkey 316; A. Amico 315; V. Scaturro 309.

High single — V. Scaturro 136; E. Sharkey 116; A. Amico 115; N. Reed 112.

If seniors continue to join the league beyond the present 14 teams, the committee will establish a second session on Fridays or select another day and hour during the week. Bowling starts again in September. Seniors who bowled this year and new bowlers should call the seniors service line - 729-2111 - to have their names recorded.

The Don by William Brashler - Sam Giancana, the Chicago gangster, died in the basement of his home from gunshot wounds inflicted by a trusted friend or associate in 1975. This biography by a former police reporter describes the hostile world the Italian immigrants had to face in Chicago at the beginning of the century, the beginnings of the gang known as the 42's, the contacts Giancana made in prison early in his career, his savvy use of their information and all that happened afterward.

Oriental for Beginners

An unusual cradle rug in our private collection, woven and used by the nomadic Qushgai tribe in north Persia. c. 1900

The first thing to know is that, unlike imitations, a fine Oriental rug grows more, not less, valuable over the years. Making it a most rewarding investment in every way.

If you know what to look for...

Look at the tight weave in our cradle rug, for example, which calls for the finest of yarns and consummate craftsmanship. A tight weave, therefore, generally indicates high quality overall.

But there are exceptions to this as to every rule we could list.

That's why it's wisest to look for an Oriental rug expert you can trust. One who'll show you the wealth of possibilities while explaining the differences between them.

Three generations of Boodakians have built our reputation by doing just that. With one of the largest and finest rug displays in New England to illustrate our points.

So you can take a short course right in our showroom any Monday through Saturday from 9:30 to 5 pm, Thursdays to 9.

Tennis team takes state title, drops New England crown

By Kelly Gately

It was a tough week for the boy's tennis team, as they lost the New England title to (you guessed it) Weston. Winchester beat the Western Mass. Champs, Springfield Cathedral, and Weston by identical scores of 3-2 to win the State title last Friday, but they lost to the Wildcats 2-3, in the New England's after downing Cumberland, R.I. (4-1) and Yarmouth Me. (5-0).

State Championship

What Winchester really wanted was another shot at Weston, but in order to play them again, they had to beat the Western Mass. champs, Springfield Cathedral. Not even Springfield could stop them, as they won 3-2. Springfield's Tim Mayotte, who Winchester considers to be the number one player in the state, played as well as can be expected in defeating Rhys Thomas, 1-6, 3-6. Mayotte didn't take anything off his second serve and played excellently.

"He's tough, but did you see some of the shots I was missing? He was choking at the end, but I kept missing easy passing shots," explained Rhys. Mayotte replied, "I think he had an off day."

Jim Ferrera evened up the score by defeating Matt Modish 3-6, 6-1, 6-1. Modish broke Ferrera in the sixth game of the first set to lead 4-2 and eventually won 6-3. Ferrera seemed to save his best tennis for last as he broke Modish at 3-1 and won the second set 6-1 and also broke him in the first game of the final set, winning 6-1.

Lloyd Thomas, down 2-3, came back strong to defeat Bob Chandler 6-4, 6-3.

The first doubles team of Dipak Khand and Nick Julian were reunited again and proved why they're the Eastern Mass. champs by beating Bill Mayotte and Ned Callaghan 7-5, 6-2. Nick and Dipak will play Mayotte and Callaghan for the state title.

Although they started out slowly, it didn't last as they finished strongly.

While the rest of the team were out to lunch (quite literally), Simmons and Willing played infallibly to down Weston's Steve Colt and Greg Burke 6-1. Weston refused to die, however, as they hung tough for a 7-5 victory in the second set. That set up the all-decisive third stanza.

Along with some excellent play by Winchester, Weston's Colt helped out by double-faulting four times from the right side in the sixth game. With Winchester up 5-1, Simmons held his serve with the coup de grace coming when Willing dropped one at the net and Burke could only get to it on the third bounce. He smashed it into the net in frustration and the set, match, and championship had gone to the Sachems, 6-1.

"It was obvious that Willing's power made the difference," commented an ecstatic Coach Mulloy. "He finished off points Nicky wouldn't have. He was what was missing."

"It was the best game Simmons ever played, under these circumstances," continued the Sachem mentor. "His serve was beautiful and he was consistently getting it in. The whole team was super." That could well be the understatement of the year.

Winchester, down at this point 1-2, was depending on the play of the doubles teams and they came through with shining colors. Tournay champs Nick Julian and Dipak Khand started out slowly and lost the first set 1-6.

Dipak's explanation was, "It's really tough to play these guys because they're our friends." Nick also commented, "After the first set we realized we had a chance of losing the whole thing."

They came out strong in the second to overpower Tom Keller and Doug Marden 6-1, and then 6-2 in the deciding third set. This set the stage for the second doubles match.

With the meet tied 2-2, this one would decide the title. Winchester didn't let it slip out of their hands this time, though, as Paul Simmons and Jim Willing also had no problems in defeating Jeff Leory and Bob Rinaldi 6-0, 6-3. Then came Yarmouth, ME.

Yarmouth was never in this one, as Winchester completely outplayed them, winning 5-0. With the exception of the second singles match, the meet was over in thirty minutes.

Rhys crushed his freshman opponent Carl Winslow 6-2, 6-2. Ferrera had some trouble before finally beating John Gibson 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

After a slow start 2-6, Lloyd came back to defeat David Dealmon in the remaining two sets 6-1, 6-1.

Nick and Dipak totally crushed Tom Dougherty and Jordan Van Voast 6-1, 6-0. Although the score may be deceiving, Jimmy Willing and Paul Simmons wiped out John Mills and Tom Dorr 6-2, 7-5. Then came the big one.

The series with Weston was tied at one apiece. The winner of the match would win the New England Title. It was Weston's turn for revenge this time though, and they edged the Sachems 3-2.

The match that ended first was the third singles game between Winchester's Lloyd Thomas and John Tuttle. Tuttle was no competition for Lloyd, as he easily outplayed his opponent to win 6-1, 6-3. Jim Ferrera had a lot of trouble in the second singles game against Robbie Pease, as he lost badly 0-6, 1-6.

After a slow start (again) Dipak Khand and Nick Julian proved why they're number one, beating Doug Marden and Tom Keller 2-6, 6-4, 6-4. In a disappointing match, the pressure got to Willing and Simmons, and they lost an important 5-7, 5-7 decision to Weston's Steve Colt and Greg Burke. It all came down to the first singles match, which was the last to finish.

Rhys Thomas and Mike Leach played the best high school tennis you'll ever see. It went right down to the last point. Rhys came out storming to take the first set 6-3, with both players playing excellently. Leach wouldn't die though, as he came back to win the second set 3-6.

It all depended on the final set. With all eyes watching, Leach took a 3-1 lead. Both players held serve to leave the score at 2-4.

New England Championships

It was a long day for the Sachems, beginning at 7:15 a.m. and ending at 8:30 p.m. Monday it all began with the Cumberland, RI Clippers, with Winchester dominating and winning 4-1.

Rhys lost his match to Andy Chase, ranked sixth nationally and first in New England, 2-6, 3-6. Chase is an excellent player and Rhys couldn't control him. Jim Ferrera beat Cumberland's Darren Walsh 6-3, 7-6. The score is suspicious though, as Walsh wasn't that good.

Lloyd continued his unbeaten streak by downing Dave Rinaldi 6-4, 6-1. Down 2-3 in the first set, he won the next three and eventually won. As for Nick and Dipak what has to be said? They easily defeated Steve Rinaldi and Ed McCormick 6-3, 6-1.

Paul Simmons and Jim Willing also had no

by James R. Stewart Jr.

The Winchester Tennis Association's B-1 entry in the Men's Suburban Tennis League defeated Lexington last week to increase their margin of victories over the 500 mark.

Under the leadership of Steve Powers, this aggregation opened the season with a 2-1 win over Nashoba Valley, but fell into the doldrums against The Country Club and Westford Tennis Club, losing both matches by 1-2. They recovered their touch against Lincoln, however, blanketing that sextet 3-0 and then conquered a strong Lexington team 2-1 to go into the final match of the year sporting a 3 and 2 record. A victory over Burlington in their final match could lead to a tie for the Division championship, at least, depending upon the results of The Country Club's last two matches.

Playing for the Winchester B-1 squad are Deb Bellows, Parker Gray, Dick Kadesch, Brooke Green, Jack Corf, Bob Pritchard, Peter Svahn and, of course, Captain Steve Powers.

Race is on for top spots in Winchester Softball League

Following six weeks of action in the Winchester Softball League a torrid race is developing for the final playoff positions.

Leading the pack with an undefeated 8-0 record, Theater Mobil led by their peerless shortstop, Skip Crowe, continues to impress.

Two games astern are the Nomads at 7-2, a team with excellent bats and exciting speed. Veteran laden St. Eulalia's follow at 6-2, tied with defending champion, Phil's Cito. Cito, led by speedy John Procopio and the steady influence of veteran shortstop, Dave Detesio, appear ready for their second half surge which always seems to continue into the playoffs.

At 5-3, the Squires, bolstered by the return of hobbiting Tucker Kelly, must increase their hitting in order to crack the top four. One of the biggest surprises of the year has been the poor showing of Bellino's Pizza. Bellino's one of the preseason favorites, have been plagued by inconsistent play and thus stand at 4-6. The Elks despite the return of high salaried Kevin Gannon appear to lack the defense to break into the top five. The Dairy Barn, also at 3-6, play outstanding games such as their 7-1 beating of the Squires, but these efforts are few and far between.

The S.O.I. Continue to improve with the play of Paul Gangi but at 2-6 appear to be mired at the bottom ahead of last place Grampy's (1-8) and tied with Hood, a team with potential but still at 2-6.

The standings in the B division feature a wild scramble for three of the playoff positions.

The top position has been firmly in the grasp of a well-drilled Purity Supreme softball club. Purity has run its record to an impeccable 8-0 with a combination of timely hitting, good defense and fine pitching. At this time they are the class of the league.

Bunched behind Purity, you have several contenders. Maggiore Consti, at 4-2, with their sharp looking uniforms and excellent defense have their eyes set on second position. Challenges come first from Kraft Uniform at 5-3. Kraft seems to have solved its early season pitching problems and led by former Middlesex all-star Mike Suraco should get better as the season progresses.

The Aberjona Aces, behind the pitching of "Bones Pomeroy," are also in the thick of the race at 4-3. The Kiwanis have a 3-4 record and have proven to be the spoilers this season. Bob Joyce despite his obvious lack of speed on the basepaths also has the surprising JCeas at 4-3.

The Kiwanis have a 3-4 record and have proven to be the spoilers this season.

Stone and Webster, faltering a bit after a strong start, still hang tough at 4-4. Dynamic at 3-5 still may have a shot but must improve their defense in order to be a factor. The Sport Shop with their ace pitcher Luis Tiant Lee must put it together in the second half or the Roughriders (3-6) will be out of it.

The K. Of C. after a disastrous start has won two of three. The Knights, aided by the return of Joe Fiumara, need a whirlwind finish, or wait until next year. At the bottom of the standings sit the hapless C.C. club at 0-5.

All makeup games will be scheduled at the end of the season. All teams will be notified.

Purity makes bid for first in league

By Marco Singeralla

The sensational movie, Rocky, has literally swept the country. And, when one comes to think of it, why not? After all, the theme of the diligent underdog rising against overwhelming odds to reach the top is near and dear to the heart of everyone. This brings us to the Purity Supreme softball team.

The first year of the team's creation (1975) was full of controversy and turmoil. Due to the inexperience and lack of authority by the manager, "Howie" Corsaut, many "undesirables" were allowed to participate in games. Players were frequently ejected and suspended from games, and fights were not uncommon (in fact, at one game Purity's second baseman exchanged blows with the commissioner of the softball league). Only at the end of the season were most of these clumsy and ill-qualified players weeded out, after which the true talent of the team was exposed. In the remaining five games Purity won four, including a win against the previously unbeaten Phil's Cito.

But just when Purity seemed to be rolling, disaster struck once again. Due to a lack of communications in the off-season between their manager and the recreation department, the team was never informed of the annual pre-season league meetings. When Purity finally did contact the proper officials, they were told that, due to their lateness, playing this season was definitely out of the question.

Luckily, when next year did roll around the majority of the team was still intact. And, due to the perseverance of "Howie" Corsaut, Purity was included in the 1977 schedule. At last, the team was given a chance to show what it could really do.

The determination and dedication to the game by the players of Purity Supreme is truly remarkable. An example would be their former third baseman who, in the previous summer, had gotten involved in a serious automobile accident which completely incapacitated his right arm for months. Through hours of practice, he has admirably adapted to short field.

Another example is the right fielder who, although he suffers from a frequently painful ganglion in his right wrist, continues to play a superb outfield (he also led his team with a .509 batting average the season before).

But perhaps the prime example of Purity's devotion to the game is shown by Steve Trio. A former infielder, Trio seriously injured his knee playing football the summer before and had to undergo surgery. Yet, in spite of doctor's orders, he continues to play the game (although he must constantly wear a brace around his knee). He now pitches and, quite honestly, he does it very well: after pitching 5 games, the team's record is 5-0, and Trio has an impressive 3.19 ERA.

In the past, Purity has definitely had its share of problems. But now, by all indications, the team seems to be on the right track. Division one, look out.

Merchants baseball

During the first week of Inter-City League Baseball competition, the Winchester Merchants won two out of three in a most optimistic start.

Larry Brown, a hard throwing right hander from Harvard, picked up both victories with shut-outs, a four hit, 2-0 performance over Somerville and a two hit, 1-0 triumph against Arlex from Lexington. Ron Sen pitched a fine six hitter, but lost a tough decision in the last inning against Medford 5-2.

Albie Cordice has been doing a super job as lead-off man. He has picked up four hits for nine at bats along with breaking up a no-hit bid by Hartley from Lexington on June 3 in Winchester. In that ball game a 0-0 tie was broken in the last of the seventh. With one out Mike Lynch walked and Rudie Fiore went to pinch run. Then Dave Boyce doubled to right leaving runners on second and third. Sandy Milley was intentionally walked, loading the bases. On the next pitch to catcher Steve O'Leary a hard hit single up the middle produced a satisfying victory for the Merchants.

The 1977 season is filled with a 35 game schedule. All home games are played at the Skillings road field.

The team of George Cappel and Win Burhoe defeated Dick Biediebert and Art Giquinto to win doubles championship status.

This course is open to the public and is designed for those with no previous shooting experience. NRA-certified instructors from the club will conduct the courses and present the students with NRA certification at completion of the course.

The course will include the functioning of firearms, the procedure for loading and unloading weapons, safe handling and storage, as well as familiarization firing of both rifles and handguns. Prospective students 18 years or over are asked to register by calling Bob Brudnick days until 5 pm in Arlington, Mrs. Peter Parise after 6 pm in Medford, or Bill Cameron in Billerica.

The course will be held in the Woburn Sportsman's Association clubhouse approximately 3.2 miles north of Route No. 128 and the Burlington Mall.

Winchester team leads league

by James R. Stewart Jr.

The Winchester Tennis Association's C-2 team in MM's Suburban Tennis League leads the North Division with an unblemished 5 and 0 record, as the League turns into its last two weeks of play.

Lead by Bud Johnson, 55 Sylvester rd., the members of this doubles team have lost but two encounters while winning 13. Burlington, Belmont, and Pine Brook fell by 3-0 scores, while Lincoln and Lexington were able to take only one match of three against the Winchester aggregation.

With Dr. Philip Richardson and Jack

Gately named to League all-stars

Kelly Gately, the Star's Outstanding Spring Sports Performer for softball, was named the Middlesex League's All Star centerfielder at a meeting of the coach's last Wednesday. Miss Gately was the only sophomore named to the exclusive 13-girl team.

There were ten seniors, including Lexington's All-Scholastic pitcher Laura Hoffman, and two juniors named to the squad.

Kelly led the Sachem softball team in both batting and RBI's and led the school in hits. She sported a final average of .371 while driving in 11 runs with 26 hits.

Miss Gately will be Winchester's co-captain next year, along with junior shortstop Barbara Redmond. She was nominated by her coach, Joan Rosazza, and approved by the nine other league coaches.

-RICK PEARL

Noble playing no. 1, Neil Hurley and Ed Fitzgerald playing no. 2 and Bill Ferry teaming with Captain Bub Johnson at no. 3, the Winchester netmen have only Chelmsford (Russell Mill Club) and Westford Tennis Club to meet and beat to complete a perfect record and the championship. Lexington, with 9 points is in second place, 4 points behind Winchester, so with two matches to play, Winchester will have only one win three doubles to ice the crown. Their first test comes today in Chelmsford, and the final match, a make-up with Westford to be arranged later.

Downes graduates

Deirdre A. Larkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Larkin, of 11 Swan rd., was awarded an associate in arts degree in human services at the 140th commencement exercises at Green Mountain College May 14. While a student at Green Mountain she was a member of the swim team.

Dr. Pharo elected to Masterworks post

Richard Pharo of Winchester was recently elected vice president of the Masterworks Choral.

The chorus, directed by Allen Lannom, is known throughout Eastern Massachusetts for its music festivals, its appearances with the Boston Ballet, and its free concerts of major choral-orchestral works.

Dr. Pharo joined the Choral in 1973 after being recruited by Dr. Richard Kingsbury, a member of the bass section.

The Choral's new vice president received a comprehensive musical education in the public schools of Bethlehem, Penn. He sang with his junior and senior high school glee clubs and performed with the famous Bethlehem Bach Choir as early as his senior year in high school. Later, he was a member of Baltimore's Handel Choir, and served a term of office as president of that organization.

Dr. Pharo earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees in biochemistry from Pennsylvania State University and his D.S. degree, also in Biochemistry, from Johns Hopkins University. He is the administrative director (and assistant to the president for science) of the Eye Research Institute of the Retina Foundation in Boston. The Institute, with a staff of 150, is the largest independent eye research organization in the world.

A resident of Winchester since 1967, Dr. Pharo has served his community as a member of the finance committee and of the school committee. Most recently, he was chairman of the school committee.

Dr. Pharo is engaged in many creative pursuits. Among them are wood-carving, architectural design, photography, and video. His wife, Loretta, is a registered nurse, a highly respected yoga teacher, and president of the Friends of Winchester Hospital.

Mrs. Alice Curran, Washington Mothers' Association president, presents Mrs. Marjorie Berger with a gift from the association and the Dad's Club. Mrs. Berger is retiring after 15 years of teaching in Winchester.

Ms. Tuck to speak on breath sounds at TriComm lecture

Winchester nurses are invited to attend the lecture of Janice Tuck, R.N. of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Tuesday 2:30.

Ms. Tuck will be speaking to the staff at Tri Community Health Services, Inc. at headquarters at 353 Mass. ave., Lexington.

A respiratory clinician who regularly lectures to nurses and to industry, she will focus on the subject of breath sounds.

Tri Community cares for more than fifty patients in the area with a wide variety of respiratory problems.

Marjorie Berger retires after 15 years in Winchester schools

After 15 years in the Winchester schools, Mrs. Marjorie J. Berger is retiring.

The parents, staff and children of the Washington School gathered at the school recently to honor Mrs. Berger with a special show. In honor of her interest in social studies, the theme of the show was, "An Around the World Salute to Mrs. Marjorie Berger."

The show was a collection of skits and acts with an international flavor. According to some, the high point of the evening was a can-can, "Follies Berger," performed by Principal George Flynn and teachers Steve Dixon, Harvey Kornicks, Kevin Chrusz, Mike Marino, and custodian Herb Cabral.

Mrs. Berger, a first and second grade teacher at Washington, did her undergraduate work at Bridgport Normal School and received her bachelor's degree from New Britain Teacher's College. She also studied at Columbia University and New Haven Teacher's College. She earned a master's degree from Boston University.

She taught formerly in Connecticut and North Carolina. She is a member of the honorary society for teachers, Delta Kappa Gamma (Mu Chapter) and has served as chapter president.

She also worked for 10 years on the social studies council, which developed a curriculum for grades 1-12. She helped develop the program for Winchester's primary grades.

A long time resident of Winchester, Mrs. Berger has four children and two grandchildren.

The recent program and reception in her honor was organized under the direction of Mrs. Alice Curran, mothers' association president. Others involved in the event included Mrs. Ruth Tunnicliffe and Alicia Paulson, music and chorus director; Priscilla Miller and John Beyrnt, band director; Mrs. Bee Gonnella and Robert Tufts, choreographers; Mrs. Ann O'Neil and Mrs. Rose Limerick, Brownies' skit and song; Mrs. Limerick, USA parade; Steve Dixon, Tikki Tikki Tombo; Judy Levin, Israeli folk group; Harvey Kornicks and Herbert Cabral, setting; Mrs. Ann Bonner and Mrs. Limerick, costumes; Mr. and Mrs. David Thorne and Mrs. Mary Ann O'Callaghan, props; Mrs. Helen Parsignault, program cover; Mr. Cabral, stage and lighting.

Three WHS seniors win RC camperships

Three Winchester High School graduating seniors — all girls — have won Red Cross scholarships to attend the special Aquatic Camps that the Red Cross operates in June across the country.

With expenses largely paid by the Winchester Red Cross, Mary Melilli and Ellen Harrington will attend the Aquatic School at Camp Teyva in Brookline, N.H., and Carol Minutoli will go to Camp Kiwanee at Hanson, Mass.

These two aquatic camps are part of a nationwide group of schools organized and supported by National Red Cross to give instructor training in water safety, basic swimming and cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) — all skills necessary to be employed as summer lifeguards at beaches and pools.

The Red Cross directors who made the awards were John Waite, John Looney, and Frederick Zappala, chairman of the committee.

WANTED WINCHESTER women with references to care

To be held June 25

Two women coordinators for Women's Issues Conference

Susan Keats of Hillside avenue and Barbara Miliaras of Mt. Pleasant st., members of the Northeast District Coordinating Committee for the National Women's Conference, are in the process of organizing a contingent of women from the Woburn-Winchester area to participate in the day-long district meeting to take place June 25 at Methuen High School from 8:30-5:30 p.m.

The conference is one of a series of meetings on women-oriented issues that will be held throughout the country in order to focus upon issues and choose delegates for the National Women's Conference to be held in Houston, November 18-21.

"The aim of these conferences," states Mrs. Keats, "is to focus upon concerns and problems that are of interest to the broadest spectrum possible of women as well as concerned men. We are particularly interested in reaching women of all ages. The conference is open to women from the ages of 16 and up - as well as women who have yet to participate in a decision-making conference."

The meeting, which will be held in every state and six territories, mark the first time Congress has appropriated money expressly designed for discussion of women's issues. In 1976, Congress appropriated $5 million for the meetings, half of which will be expended for state meetings.

Besides the election of delegates, the conference will feature a series of workshops ranging in topics from Women in the Home to Women in Politics. Transportation will be available locally to the conference in Methuen and will be announced next week. Pre-registration for the conference is necessary and forms for this purpose are available at the public library, the senior citizen's center and the high school. Registration will be available at the conference center in Methuen the day of the conference at 8:30 a.m. Those wishing to vote must bring proof of residency. Child care is available for children 3-10.

Little League flea market a success

The recent Winchester Little League market sponsored by the women's auxiliary was a huge success, despite rainy weather. Lucy Peck, who chaired the event, received assistance from Elaine Binding, Ann Bonner, Nancy Eaton, Pauline Tucci, Marie Paine, Judy Johnson, Elena Bosco and Shield Maryanski, Mary Celi, Pat Coppins, and Day Blasi.

Posters were made by Steven Campo and Matt Maryanski. Assistance was also rendered by the school department, Mr. Forte, principal of McCall, Mr. Detoso and Mr. Bibeau.

Little League drive awards Moped, CB, TV

On June 4 Winchester Little League opened its annual fund drive, when every player on each of the 54 Little League teams in town received books of raffle chances together with instructions for this year's raffle. First prize in the 1977 drawing will be a MOPED, a versatile little motor scooter which has a cruising speed of 25 miles per hour, and gets between 150 and 175 miles per gallon of fuel. Second prize will be a 40 channel CB radio, and third prize a personal size, portable TV set.

These prizes will be displayed at the flea market to be conducted by the Women's Auxiliary at Manchester Field on Saturday from 10 to 2 where chances will be available. Valuable prizes will be awarded to Little Leaguers selling the most tickets, so if chances are purchased at the flea market, be sure to designate which player you would like to receive credit for your purchase.

Winchester Little League is proud to state that every eligible youth in town, from 7 to 15 years of age was given the opportunity to play on a team this year, even though that meant organizing a completely new four-team senior minor league.

Equipping and running 54 baseball teams through schedules of 10 to 20 games is an extremely expensive proposition, and Little League depends on this one and only fund drive for a significant amount of this money.

Ambrose School holds field day

Ambrose School held its annual field day June 2 at the school playground. There were games and races for all, followed by a watermelon and punch treat at the end of the events. Ribbons were awarded the many winners.

Harriet Hootor

Harriet Hootor, former ballerina with the Ziegfeld Follies and founder of the Winchester dance school which bears her name, died in Arlington, Va. June 9 after a long illness.

She danced at Radio City Music Hall, Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe, and numerous other theaters during the 1920's and 30's. She had a featured role in the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers film, "Shall We Dance?"

"Miss Hootor was born into a period when American-trained dancers had no ballet company to which they could turn," relates Mary Bigelow-Vasel, a former pupil and now the director of the Harriet Hootor Winchester Ballet School. "If she was to get ahead in musical comedy and vaudeville, she had to constantly tread a tightrope between the vulgarization expected by the audience and her own attitude toward her art."

In 1945, Miss Hootor opened her own school of dance in Boston. Five years later she moved to Winchester and began teaching at Town Hall twice a week. Nine years ago she closed down the Boston school and devoted herself full-time to her Winchester pupils.

When she retired and moved to Virginia in 1974, Miss Hootor turned her school over to Mrs. Bigelow-Vasel, who had been her pupil and assistant for 12 years. The school, formerly located in the old Knights of Columbus building and the second floor over the former Hanlon's Shoe store, is now settled in at 19 Thompson st.

Miss Hootor leaves no direct family. She was buried Monday in Hoosick Falls, N.Y., where she was born in 1907.

The Winchester Art Association held its annual sidewalk art show down along the fence at Manchester Field last weekend. Local artists hung their work out in the sunshine as potential customers strolled along the sidewalk.

CMARC carnival stirs complaints

The carnival currently under way on Manchester Field under the auspices of the Central Middlesex Association for Retarded Children, Inc., has been the focal point of much discussion and complaint this week, even before the first ride got started.

The four-day length of the carnival, (the longest show Winchester has seen), is the major factor in a discussion which has been going on for several weeks.

CMARC contacted Jack Fallon at the school department regarding the use of Manchester Field for the period June 20 through June 25. Fallon okayed the request. Then in accordance with procedure, CMARC applied to selectmen for a public amusement license for those dates.

Selectmen Chairman Barbara S. Hankins questioned the length of time and the particular dates involved because school would still be session and a carnival then might be disruptive and inappropriate. She checked with School Superintendent William C. MacDonald who verified Fallon's OK.

"I was somewhat surprised, but assumed the school department knew what was going on during the final week of classes," Hankins said.

Because of the uneasy feeling on the part of some board members about the length of the carnival, the board denied the original request for a public amusement license. The vote was Hankins, Dunbar, O'Connell negative; Chelalo abstain.

On May 31, the board met with representatives of CMARC again for a request to reconsider their application.

James Powers, 20 Johnson rd., spoke on behalf of the group. He is a public relations consultant for CMARC, Inc. Powers brought several persons with him to the meeting.

He explained that originally CMARC had anticipated active support from local Rotary Clubs for the carnival. When that support failed to materialize, CMARC went ahead anyway with plans for a carnival, choosing Winchester for three reasons. Powers said that Winchester has residents serviced by CMARC, and that nearby Woburn was discounted because it has had several carnivals recently. Burlington was also discounted because of strict ordinances not favoring such events.

James Flynn, manager of Fiesta Shows of Salisbury Beach, accompanied Powers and explained to the board that his company has managed many carnivals in the past, including Topsfield Fair, Marshfield Fair, Lexington Lions Club, and Woburn Boys Club. He said his rides are inspected, licensed and certified by the state. He assured the board that his employees would clean up the grounds every day of the fair and that he would guarantee that the entire area would be clean within 24 hours after his equipment is removed from the premises.

With approval from MacDonald's office and a positive check by police, selectmen reluctantly went ahead and approved the public amusement license but they cut the hours of operation. The license was also contingent to the conditions and restrictions recommended by the police and fire chiefs. The vote was Hankins, O'Connell, Wilsack affirmative; Dunbar negative; Chelalo abstain.

That approval set off a barrage of phone calls and letters from residents near Manchester Field who have been complaining about the cumulative effect of so many activities at Manchester. Within recent months there have been the En Ka fair, graduation, Little League flea market, and other events. Neighbors and selectmen have emphasized that it is not the company or organization involved which is distressing them, but rather the abundance of activities.

MacDonald, contacted by The Star, called the whole affair "somewhat a comedy of errors." He admitted that he should have checked the situation out more and will do so in the future.

Board grants additional staffing for Mystic, Parkhurst, Ambrose Schools

The school committee voted additional staffing for the Mystic, Parkhurst, and Ambrose Schools Monday night. The new positions will cost about $22,600, with the money coming out of the school budget's unallocated funds.

Also approved was an administrative plan proposed by Superintendent of Schools William C. MacDonald. The plan would distribute the tasks now performed by assistants Henry Perry and Howard Niblock, both of whom are retiring, among existing administrative personnel. The only cost involved would be about $1600 for a head teacher at Vinson-Owen and two phone lines.

At Mystic, the committee agreed to add a full-time teaching position for the first grade. Since an aide had already been budgeted, the net cost amounts to about $11,000.

While Assistant Superintendent for Personnel Henry Perry only recommended that a half-time position be added at Parkhurst, the committee ended by voting a full-time position for grade 3. The cost, again minus an already budgeted aide, totals around $8000. At Ambrose, an aide was added at a cost of $3680. This position is to help out in the primary grades.

Because of enrollment shifts, the administration also recommended assigning one kindergarten teacher to commute between sessions at Noonan and Parkhurst. This allocation involves no cost.

Board Chairman Robert Frank speculated that a half-time position at Mystic might be sufficient. He pointed out that the numbers at the Ambrose School were just about the same. "We can't run this system on the basis of which wheel is squeaking," Frank said.

However, Supt. MacDonald explained that staffing arrangements in different schools vary according to the needs of the students, the physical structure of the school, and the strengths of the teachers. He said Ambrose Principal Robert Forest "feels very definitely he needs exactly the situation he has."

Committee member Jack Noble argued against using a half-time position at Parkhurst as well. The administration had recommended using a half-time teacher in the morning and having Principal Andrew Allen as a teacher in the afternoon.

"I don't feel it's appropriate to use half-time teachers at the elementary level," Noble said, adding that the various half-time proposals were making a "patchwork quilt" out of elementary staffing.

Parents at the meeting also argued for the higher staffing levels. One said the school committee should be prepared to add staff whenever the number of students demands an adjustment.

Asst. Supt. Perry admitted that while the staffing formula normally "works out fine," problems do arise "when we have a 'bulge' at a particular grade level." Perry concluded, "Then it's advisable to add some staff."

Grade 3 at Parkhurst has 37 students; grade 4 has 21. The fourth grade is too large, the administration feels, to combine into a split class with third graders (the formula calls for an average student-teacher ratio of 22:1). Perry argued that the third grade, with an unusually large proportion of boys to girls, called for "richer" staffing than the one teacher and an aide currently budgeted.

The problem is, how far above the "formula" ratio level should the committee allow the situation to go before adding staff. The addition of staff also tends to push the ratio well below the average, and budgetary constrictions demand that staff levels be as close to the 22:1 ratio as possible.

"There is no way in the world we can please all the parents and all the teachers," laments Supt. MacDonald.

The addition of the aide at Ambrose brings the primary staffing level there close to the 22:1 ratio.

Board member Constance Papas criticized the administration for coming in with their recommendations at "such a late date." She complained that the options for dealing with staffing problems at Mystic and Parkhurst were more limited, now that most teaching assignments have been made.

Another Parkhurst parent urged the committee to "treat the children the same" at the different schools and approve the full-time positions. He argued the cost would be small, and that full-time teachers would provide a better environment for children in the lower grades.

Noble moved that Parkhurst be granted the full-time teacher and that Principal Allen remain a full-time principal.

Arguing against the move, Chairman Frank noted that children rarely have the same teacher all day long anyway; that there are schools where the principal has to deal with twice as many children; and that "we may be doing a disservice to the kids to put in a B-3 teacher rather than have Andy Allen teach." (The administration's recommendation calls for a mid-level salaried teacher.)

Noble responded by pointing out that the board has more unallocated funds than originally estimated. He was supported by board member Constance Papas.

"We should be taking some advantage of declining enrollment," Mrs. Papas said, "and let it work in favor of helping the kids." She added that Parkhurst had a "dangerously small" staff, and that, "a little more can't hurt, a little less might."

The full-time position at Parkhurst was approved by a 3-2 vote, with Frank and Committeewoman Catherine Alexander opposed.

When the kindergarten staffing came to a vote, Noonan parent John Hennelly noted that "it looks like a lot of people are moving into the Noonan area," and he asked the board to take that into consideration. Hennelly felt the board should perhaps provide even more staffing for the Noonan kindergarten.

However, Chairman Frank disagreed. He said the figures for now are at the 22:1 ratio and argued that if the committee voted extra staff on the basis of how many children might move into an area, "we would have to end up spending a lot of money system-wide."

Supt. MacDonald's administrative plan was at least partly a reaction to town meeting's disapproval of his attempt to create a mid-level, administrative assistant. With Director of Pupil Services Howard Niblock and Asst. Supt. Perry retiring this year, MacDonald has been searching for a

Khaund, Julian capture Mass. state doubles tennis title

By Kelly Gately

Winchester's All-Scholastic doubles team of Dipak Khaund and Nick Julian finished their season in style by capturing the State Doubles Title with victories against Springfield Cathedral and Framingham North by identical scores of 6-3, 6-4.

In their semi-final match against Bill Mayotte and Ned Callaghan of Springfield Cathedral, Winchester lost the first game, in which there were five deuces. They came back quickly to tie at 1-1, with Nick holding serve. After being tied at 3-3, the Sachems ran away with the set.

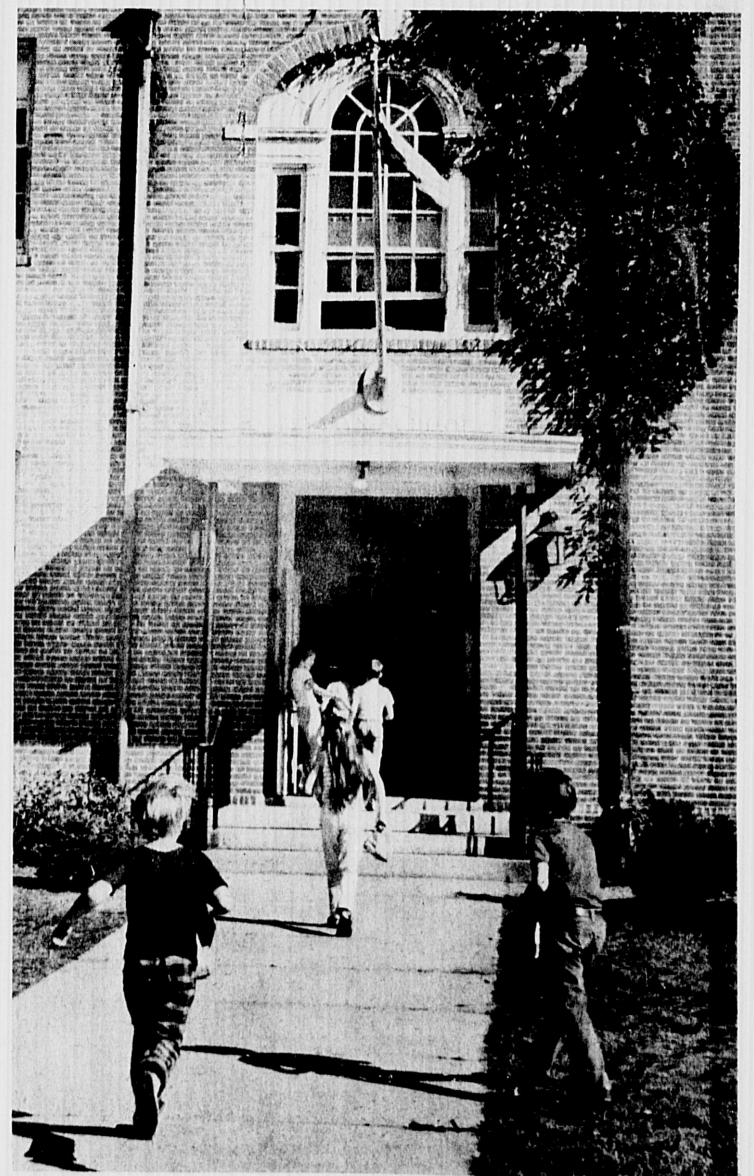

Springfield wouldn't yield though, as they came back strongly to take the first two games of the second set. With both Nick and Dipak holding serve, the Sachems took the lead at 3-2. At 5-4 Winchester leading, Mayotte had the serve. With the score even at 40-all, Callaghan's shot went long and it all broke down to the match point. As Mayotte's shot went into the net, the game, set and match belonged to Winchester.

Framingham North was Winchester's next victim. The Sachems turned things around this time by taking a 3-0 lead over Rick Schafer and Dave Sodekson.

After being tied 3-3, the Sachems never looked back to take three straight with Dipak picking up an ace.

Winchester again took the lead at 2-0, before Framingham got going. In the fourth game, Dipak and Nick leading 2-1, Dipak went spinning around and picked up the first point in an excellent display of tennis. Winchester played brilliantly to up the lead to 5-2, but Framingham started a comeback to take the next two games, 5-4.

Nick held his serve though, as Schafer's shot went wide to give Winchester the game, set, match and State Title. This team deserved it all, as they played excellently all year.

Wednesday was the final day of school in Winchester, and the last day for the Wyman School, closed because of declining elementary school enrollments. The building will be occupied next year by the Bartlett Elementary School, a private school which operated formerly in Arlington.

Elizabeth and Antonette DiLoreto

DiLoretos make law a family affair

If you ever come up against a lawyer named DiLoreto, you'd better watch out. There are three DiLoreto lawyers in town and they're all related.

Emidio has been in private practice here for a number of years. Now his wife, Dr. Antonette, and his daughter, Elizabeth, have received their law degrees.

Mother and daughter worked together over the last three years at Suffolk University — studying together at the library and involving Emidio in some tutoring. "If it weren't for him, I couldn't have done it," says the wife in praise of her husband's support.

Dr. DiLoreto, in addition to attending law school nights, works full-time as chairperson of business and office education at Arlington High School. Her days typically began at 4:15 for study, school at 7:45, work until mid-afternoon, more study and classes until 9:30. She grew up in East Boston, graduating from the high school in 1934. She received a B.A. from Bryant College, an M.Ed. from Rhode Island College and her doctor of education from Boston University in 1956.

It was during the social unrest of the 1960s that Dr. DiLoreto started to turn to law.

"People were up in arms about their rights and it was an ugly era in many ways," she said. "I enrolled in a Saturday law course at Northeastern and later my husband encouraged me to take up the study of law and four years ago I enrolled at Suffolk University Law School."

Daughter Elizabeth, meanwhile, was enrolled at Wellesley College where she graduated in 1974. She has always been interested in law and it was merely coincidental that both women ended up at Suffolk at the same time.

Elizabeth, who took courses during the day at Suffolk, won an appellate brief writing award in Suffolk Moot Court competition. She has served as an intern in the attorney general's office.

Although none of the DiLoretos is making a commitment to practicing as a family firm, Mrs. DiLoreto has already started putting her lawyer's training to use. She instituted a law program at Arlington High School recently which has attracted as many as 350 students.

The Massachusetts bar examination comes up in July. What happens after that, no one is saying yet.

"For the moment, I am more interested in teaching young people about the law," Mrs. DiLoreto said. "We're tracing them criminal law, torts, contracts and other subjects. Imagine what they could know when they get to law school!"

The DiLoretos reside at 93 Thornberry rd

Selectmen discuss summer priorities

At their regular Monday night meeting, selectmen ran over an extensive list of what they hope to accomplish this summer and early fall, with priorities in the areas of the town center, TOPICS, human resources, town meeting, rules and regulations, conservation and recreation space, and interdepartmental communications.

The Winchester Center Study Committee, which will be making a lengthy report to the fall town meeting, will be invited to a selectmen's meeting after the release of the center study. It is expected that that report will run to about 150 pages.

Meanwhile, the selectmen would like to start doing something about the center of town now, without having to wait for town meeting appropriations of money. Offering suggestions which could be started now, Selectman Edward F. O'Connell said, "There is something to be said for beautification. I counted 45 bottles at the train station this morning."

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux said that Walter Tonaszuck, director of public works, has already started intensifying clean-up of the downtown area by putting a man on duty with "walking barrels" to keep streets clean. Some consideration might be given to other sidewalk repairs, especially the Thompson street section, although Groux reminded the board that "this can be tricky because of curb cut requirements."

Selectman Harry E. Chelaflo added his thoughts on immediate improvement to the center area. "The problem I've heard most about is the tacky-looking signs downtown," he said. Chairman Barbara Hankins concurred. "I spend more time explaining the sign by-law to people who wonder why some of the signs are so out of keeping with Winchester," she said. The sign by-law refers to size only and not to the content or color of the sign.

Arthur Dunbar put in his plea that something be done at the train depot. "The railroad station is a disgrace," he said. "I suggested three or four years ago that we close it down if that's the kind of place it's going to be."

Selectman Richard Wilsack asked that a work plan for the coming year be put together so that the board and the town would have an idea of what was going to be taking place when, Tonaszuck, who was in attendance at the meeting Monday night, agreed with that concept.

Still pertaining to the center, Barbara

Hankins suggested looking into the legislative procedure for issuing a single liquor license. She did not elaborate at this time, but did indicate she would like to see some discussion on this matter during the coming weeks.

She also referred to the parking downtown. "The parking situation is a lot tighter now than it was a year ago," she said, mentioning specifically the Thompson street and Main street parking spaces.

Richard Wilsack suggested an update on the revenue turned into the town from parking meters. Dunbar further suggested comparing this year's revenue with income from previous years. He also asked for police evaluation of metered parking.

Another item under "Winchester Center" is the question of construction of luxury apartments. Harry Chelaflo mentioned the "large number" of people he knows who would like to move out of their large, old houses and into apartments in the $400-$600 range. He said he would speak with Sam Perkins, chairman of the Center Study Committee, about incorporating this into the report. Wilsack added that he would like opinions from the planning board as well. Dunbar injected that he thought the planning board favored apartment buildings of eight stories for economic reasons.

Discussion on what will be covered regarding Winchester center this summer, selectmen moved on to TOPICS and human resources, both areas which Hankins feels should be explored in more detail. She said that two sessions would be set up with TOPICS personnel to go into more detail on that traffic light project. New selectmen in particular, she said, would benefit from such meetings.

Selectmen and the finance committee will try to get together this summer to go over last spring's town meeting. The board decided to wait until after the five new members of the FinCom have been appointed before setting up such a meeting.

Several items came up under the broad heading of "Rules, regulations, and policies." Slated for further investigation and possible changes are used car lots, hackney carriages, reservoir, carnivals, sidewalks, parks and playgrounds, and street excavations. Regarding carnivals, the current one at Manchester Field is being watched carefully and complaints and calls are being filed.

One area the board agreed needs more consideration is that of communication with other departments, the press, and the public. The board asked for meetings with the director of public works, the health agent, the building commissioner, police chief, fire chief, comptroller, engineer, and legislators. They also asked for quarterly meetings with the FinCom, school committee, and planning board.

The board also touched on ways of reaching the public better, perhaps through press conferences or releases, and possibly changing the day of their meetings to allow both members of the board and the public to attend other town board meetings. Most of the boards, including the FinCom and school committee, meet on Monday night.

The board requested a complete schedule of CETA employees and where they are being hired and for what jobs and for what cost. Thomas J. Groux, town manager, said that more CETA employees had just been hired. There are 16 regular, on-going employees, mostly in the DPW. In addition, 19 more have been signed at a cost of more than $100,000 to do reclamation work at the reservoir, and 20 more for grounds work in town.

For the fall schedule, selectmen have lined up topics like fee schedules, dissolution of committees which no longer longer function, discussion of Cable TV, comptroller-town manager responsibilities, and the DPW.

way to redistribute their functions among the remaining school staff.

"There's no way I'm going to add or try to find the $18,000 to hire an administrative assistant," MacDonald said, adding, "Town meeting said they didn't want it, and I'm not going to cross them."

The new plan has MacDonald himself in charge of interviewing and Asst. Supt. Jack Fallon taking over teacher negotiations.

Two principals — Clare Corcoran at the elementary level and Robert Fitzgerald at the secondary level — will take over much of Henry Perry's personnel functions. These include processing applications, "monitoring" the contracts, placing student teachers, sitting in on grievance sessions and helping Fallon out with budget preparation.

While Fitzgerald at Lynch Junior High School has an assistant principal to cover for him when he might be out of the school on administrative assignments, Clare Corcoran has no such aide at Vinson-Owen. MacDonald therefore recommended appointing a head teacher for Vinson-Owen to cover when the principal is out. This appointment involves a $1200 stipend.

MacDonald also asked for two "hotline" phone lines so he could be assured of reaching the two principals when he needed them on short notice. Jack Fallon estimated the cost at $400.

The added principal assignments involve no salary increase, and MacDonald assured the committee, "It is not my intention to see these positions expand in the future to an administrative assistant."

Mrs. Alexander commended MacDonald for a "creative, imaginative approach... which is responsive to the town." The board adopted the plan unanimously.

"I apologize to the townspeople if there's any inconvenience," he said. He added that perhaps he was thinking that the carnival this year was the same as the one run by the Kiwanis last year.

Police meanwhile have been called to remove persons sleeping on the field during setting up activity earlier this week. The carnival people have complied, according to Lt. William Haggerty.

CNARC, Inc., which services two Winchester residents, will receive 25 per cent of the gross from rides and $30 per concession, with a minimum guarantee of $1000, according to manager James Flynn.

At the selectmen's meeting Monday night, Town Manager Thomas J. Groux commented that although carnivals in the future should be carefully scrutinized before approval is granted for a public amusement license, he thought it would be "foolhardy" to try to stop this one now.

"I have four children who, if they're typical of the other kids in this town, probably know more about this carnival than anyone else around. I wouldn't want to be the one to tell them the carnival's off," he said.

Barbara Hankins asked the board to keep a record of any complaints, verbal or written, which they might receive. She again emphasized that the company or organization involved were not the source of the problem. "In fact, Fiesta Shows of Salisbury comes to us with very favorable recommendation," she said.

"If the request for the license had been asked for only a day or two," she said, "most likely it would have been granted with no problem."

THE WINCHESTER STAR

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

'Nobody tells me anything'

There seems to be a lack of communication around here.

Between the rush to wind up the spring school term and social season and the urge to let go, relax, and start summer off right, we seem to be leaving a few stones unturned.

For example: The owner of the Bertini Bus Company, which services Winchester's schools, recently appeared before the school committee with a horror story of juvenile destruction on two of the buses that run out of Lynch Junior High every day.

With a plethora of superlatives, the man described $4000 worth of damages to the buses, ranging from rocks thrown through the windows to ripped up seats to campfires lit by the back door. Needless to say, the school committee was aghast, having no prior knowledge of the damages which, according to the owner, were going on every day. By the time the story had been told, everyone's blood was up.

The Star did some checking. Lynch Principal Robert Fitzgerald told us he had been contacted by the Bertini people no more than three or four times over the past year about bus damages. "I'm at sixes and sevens trying to respond to it," says Fitzgerald, who adds that he was unaware that the vandalism had been a continuous problem.

On one occasion, he reports, he was notified of rocks being thrown at the buses. Unmarked police cruisers were brought in to patrol the area, and Fitzgerald himself went out into the woods by Horn Pond Brook for a look. He was contacted once more in connection with seat slashings, and two or three times he spoke with bus drivers about the problems. He has ridden the buses, spoke to both the children and a few parents, and taken students off the bus altogether for "general misbehavior."

Assistant Superintendent Jack Fallon also did some checking. He told the school board Monday that his office had been notified of damages four times: two incidents totalled about $800 each, the others were slightly less severe. Apparently the damages amounted to about $20 worth most days, and the bus company, which by contract assumes the risk, felt that the smaller incidents did not warrant a call to the school department. Fallon said, in effect, that his office was unaware of the continual nature of the destruction until the matter was brought directly before the school committee.

Fortunately, a resolution is at hand. Fitzgerald has told the drivers to turn right around and come back to Lynch if the problems get out of hand. And Fallon says he and the Bertini Company have set up a procedure whereby the school department will be notified whenever "significant" damage takes place.

Still, the school committee has felt obliged to honor an $800 bill for damages, and it never should have gotten this far. Fitzgerald says he has no complaints about bus service and has no argument with the bus company. Al Cincotta of the bus company has stated that he is as concerned with the fact that the destruction is going on as he is with its cost. Yet, how is it we let it go this far?

And again: this time between the Winchester Education Association and the school committee. Complaints had been coming in about the new teacher evaluation forms designed by Assistant Superintendent Walter Gleason, so the committee set up a study group to reevaluate the evaluation forms.

Even though teacher evaluation is solely the responsibility of the school board, the WEA was upset when they discovered two teachers had been named to the study committee without their consent. They asked one of the teachers to resign, which he did, then named two others to sit on the committee as WEA representatives — without talking it over with the school board. In fact, the school board did not even know at first that the original teacher had been asked to resign.

The board said they were looking for professional input, not labor representation, so they turned down the two WEA appointees and picked a new teacher to serve on the study group.

The matter involves no great crime, but again there seems to be a lack of communication which only serves to perpetuate the mistrust which keeps popping up between the two groups.

Here at the paper, we get accused all the time of malicious and devious behavior. One slight error and we're a part of a conspiracy. An article doesn't get in the paper right away and all of a sudden someone calls up and says, "We know why you didn't print that..." And they never tell US why.

Town officials get the same thing. Recently a woman called The Star in reaction to a story about the damage on the Lynch School's buses. She complained that we never told the REAL story behind the "morons" among the town's youth causing all the damage, and the parents behind them who refuse to do anything, and the school committee which refuses to do anything, and again the paper which is so unresponsive to her complaints.

Pleading for a little time, we pointed out that we had never before heard from her on the issue. And upon questioning, we found out she herself had not attended any school board meetings for some time, if at all.

Well perhaps there are stories behind all these gaps in communication. But a bit more inter-relating wouldn't hurt. And when a breakdown does occur, try, at least the first time around, to give the other side the benefit of the doubt. — DKF

Honor the law

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Recently an incident occurred at Winchester High School which makes one wonder about the rhetoric that town leaders always give us when the question of student freedom is brought up.

On the last day of senior classes, more than 50 students spent most of the day in the high school parking lot drinking. Several times during the day, members of the administration went out to the parking lot. At one point the police were called.

In spite of the fact that these people were blatantly breaking the law, no one was arrested for drinking. One student took a swing at the principal and was told that he would not be allowed to attend the prom or graduation. He was subsequently allowed at both events.

Something is very seriously wrong when police and the school administration ignore the law and when imposed penalties are not enforced. The students at the high school have been working very hard over the past year to correct some of our problems. The fact that vandalism costs have been drastically reduced over a one year period is evidence of our success. However, students alone cannot solve the problems; we need help.

If the administration and the town's police either do not respect the law, or think that it should only be selectively enforced, why should students obey the law? Respect for authority must be earned, it cannot be demanded.

In another example, during graduation, many parents, as soon as their son or daughter received their diploma, left. Several parents were even seen listening to the radio during the ceremony.

Whenever there is a problem with the young people in the town, the cry goes out to restrict the freedom of students in the high school. That is too simplistic an answer. Instead, why don't the parents, school officials and police of this town get some guts and give students a decent example to follow? Why don't they start living by the rules and punishing those who break them? Why don't they give us a reason to honor the law? Why don't they try to earn some respect?

Elder power

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I saw on television the other day that our elderly are waking up and are demanding some attention. There are benefits we should have and it wouldn't hurt our government one bit: such as health insurance, a guaranteed wage that would stay put so the elderly shouldn't worry all the time.

I know our young people worry all the time about bills but they, in most cases, have time. We the elderly do not. Why can't we just have a few years free from worry?

A lot of people think the elderly have it wonderful. Some do, but most do not. The second week in the month most are broke. All the big wigs give themselves a raise whenever they want, but the elderly have to rob Peter to pay Paul each month.

Not fair what is today.
Social security gives you a raise with one hand and government takes it away as things go up, which they do each week.

What a center!

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Last week, upon opening a carton, we discovered that our new air conditioner was damaged — although the carton itself showed no signs of damage.

I called the Winchester center merchant where it had been purchased, Winchester Television and Appliance, and asked the salesman to send someone over to look at it. Within ten minutes he arrived with a helper and with a replacement unit! No discussion, no questions — just another new unit.

Interestingly, the whole transaction, including the initial purchase, the exchange, and the installation of the second unit was accomplished in less time than one trip to Sears or Lechmere would have taken.

This experience exemplifies the high business standard practiced by most Winchester center merchants and which we often take for granted. But it reminded me of one of the significant assets of our town, one which helps to make it such a pleasant community, and one for which I wish to express my appreciation.

Enough!

BOARD OF SELECTMEN:

We have had EnKa Fair, the Winchester High School graduation, the Little League Flea Market (which was moved indoors at McCall due to rain), and finally the Winchester Art Association's annual Sidewalk Show — all within the past month. Not to mention the children, who daily walk on our lawns, insult our children and drop their litter on their way to and from school and the center. Cars are parked in our driveways, the streets are almost impassable (though designated one-side-of-the-street parking, drivers park on both sides), and the streets are generally hazardous to our young children.

Do we complain? No — instead we volunteer our time to EnKa, support Little League, enjoy the Winchester Art Show, applaud our graduates, and pick up the litter. But we have had enough. We do not support and bitterly complain that a carnival is being held again in our neighborhood. We do not argue the cause, but we deplore the noise, trash and utter confusion.

Our children attend Lincoln School and use Manchester Field for their recess and lunch periods. This week they are skirting tractor trailers and carnival rides at recess, and must hold their field day at the opposite side of the field.

Reluctantly, you, the Board of Selectmen, issue a permit, and the Superintendent of Schools gave his permission for use of the field. So we in the neighborhood — children and adults alike — must once again pay the price: noise, litter, traffic and confusion, from Sunday to Saturday night.

Enough!

Unjust ordeal

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Regarding your front page story on June 16, concerning the acquittal of David Evans on an assault charge, I would commend you for your accurate reporting. However, there are many unanswered questions surrounding this case which deserve scrutiny or, at least public concern for some of the overzealous tactics used by the Winchester Police and Judge Cullen in the judicial process.

Although informative, your story does not reveal that Judge Cullen initially ordered David to complete extensive psychological tests on an outpatient basis at Mystic Valley Mental Health Center. It was after receiving this report, giving David a clean bill of health, that Cullen ordered David to a 40 day commitment at Bridgewater State Hospital, a maximum security institution. It was only through the effective work of David's attorney, Joseph Day, that this was changed to Metropolitan State Hospital which is a medium security institution and was much closer for visiting purposes. Mr. Day also filed an immediate appeal in Middlesex Superior Court to have this commitment overturned on the grounds that all the tests ordered at Metropolitan had already been completed by the professional staff at the Mystic Valley Clinic. The appeal resulted in David's release, but not before he was subjected to seven days confinement on a locked floor in a mental institution where he did not belong. This was clearly a case of vindictive harassment by Judge Cullen.

Your story does not reveal that David was fully cooperative with the Winchester Police in their investigation of the case and took time off from work when asked to voluntarily answer questions during the investigation.

Your story does not reveal that Winchester Police Officer Culhane changes his testimony in Superior Court in order to corroborate the "police theory" with testimony of other prosecution witnesses. Attorney Day tore apart this testimony in his cross examination

Town watch ...

34 years of service

By The Observer

The closing of school has a certain finality to it, especially this year, which marks the retirement of two dedicated administrators from the system: Howard Niblock, director of pupil services, and Henry Perry, assistant superintendent for personnel.

School committee Chairman Robert Frank saw fit to commend the two at Monday night's board meeting for the work they have done to improve Winchester's schools.

In presenting the two men with plaques from the committee, Frank noted that between them they had offered up 34 years of service to the town. Niblock and Perry, Frank said, often found themselves caught between the school committee and parents or teachers in very difficult positions.

Director Niblock could almost always be seen in the morning, walking up High street to his office on the hill. His briefcase swaying beside him, more often than not he had some youngsters alongside, running to keep up with Niblock's long stride, the two of them talking on their way to school. Chairman Frank thanked him "for one hell of a lot of years." He's been with Winchester schools since 1956.

Of Henry Perry, Frank said: "I am impressed with the concern and the sensitivity he brings to the job." To watch him discussing personnel changes and problems with the school committee, one has to concur. Perry started work in the Winchester system in 1964.

There is an interesting phenomenon which seems to be taking place on the various town boards — women are taking on the top spots.

Witness the FinCom with Alice Mirak newly elected chairperson, the personnel board with its brand new head, Phyllis Williams, and of course Barbara Hankins, former FinCom chairperson and now heading the board of selectmen.

There have been others and will continue to be more. Maybe Winchester will even become an example of non-sexist politics. You think?

The Star staff must have been hit by summer dreams of fishing or something last week. We apologize to David Evans who still lives at 4 Wildwood terr. and not 4 Winchester terr., as erroneously reported on page 1.

We also hang our heads for shame in quoting Ken Macneill as "kicking" not "kidding" his good friend Amoroso Capone. Macneill pointed out that he and Capone were both 81 years old and he often kidded his friend about this and called him Junior.

Sorry. The fishing pole was rusty too.

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux told selectmen this week that Coffin and Richardson, contractors, had already started some work on the Inflow and Infiltration study Winchester needs. The EPA supports the project to the tune of $69,000 and we put in another $23,500.

The figures led one selectman, well-known for his cautious outlook on federal and state interference in the affairs of town, to say, "Eventually this is going to end up costing us an arm and a leg."

Dunbar went on, "There are three ways of doing things — the right way, the wrong way, and the state's way."

Groux gave him more fuel when he said that improvements after the study is complete could cost $430,000. The town is on a priority list for construction funds, but Dunbar is leary.

He said, "I am fearful of the state's intervention. Look at the ambulance law taking effect July 1. We comply with that and now they're talking about requiring a heated garage for the thing. It's like needing to blow your nose but being required to use a white handkerchief with a monogram in the corner."

That's telling them.

Sweet, sweet basil

By Elizabeth Mahoney
Correspondent

Sweet basil rhymes with dazzle and in herbal lore has a long and colorful history. One of the most delicate and fragrant herbs, the plant is native to India and found throughout the Middle East and the Mediterranean.

The name derives from the Greek basilikon meaning "royal" or "king." French chefs sometimes call it "l'herb royale." In India, the Hindus worshipped the herb. It was used to ward against life's misfortunes and as a guide to heaven in death.

Although the ancient Egyptians, Persians and Greeks gave the plant more somber symbolism relating to death, the associations are happier in recent centuries. In Italy the plant signifies love and a sprig was commonly worn by courting young people.

In Elizabethan England it was one of the many aromatic strewing herbs and used in place of rushes on the floor. In Tudor England it was sniffed as a headache remedy. According to old-folk beliefs, basil drives away flies and witches and herbal tea is effective for wasp and hornet stings.

Basil reached North America in the 17th century and was a favorite kitchen herb of the American colonists. The most common variety of this mint family cousin found in today's herb gardens is the tall Ocimum basilicum. The annual grows 18 to 24 inches high. Italian or curly basil (o. crispum) is found also. The hardy plant likes a sunny spot and germination from seed takes six days. The purple-leaved variety makes a very attractive potted plant.

A citizen concerned about town meeting attendance called last week to make sure we were planning to run the town meeting absences.

Absenteeism at town meeting has indeed been a problem in the past. The caller was particularly worried about this spring's meeting, where some of the issues were focused on one district or another. Concern was expressed that many TMMs were attending only the meeting sessions where their "pet" articles came up, ignoring the rest of the town's business.

Of course, the Wyman School closing was one such issue. However, the record of the districts containing Wyman parents showed no unusual rate of absenteeism. District 3 had the second fewest absences overall; District 5 placed fifth in that category; District 7 seventh. And the absences seem to be spread out among the 10 sessions.

Another frantic call came in recently (we get a few). A woman was complaining because she went downtown to go shopping, making what she referred to as a special effort to do her shopping in Winchester, as The Star and local merchants are always urging, and she got nailed with a parking ticket.

She was so burned up, she left the center and went off to a shopping center to finish her buying.

Now, a parking ticket in Winchester Center does not rate too high on the list of expensive habits. But we assumed that the caller had been unjustly accused, and was searching for retribution against an unresponsive system.

No such luck. We dug for clues to some indescribable injustice. Where had she parked? — Behind the police station. How long had she been away from the car? — 15 minutes. How much money had she put in the meter? — None.

What can you say? One doubts whether the police lurk in the bushes waiting to give out tickets. Then, some of us are more inclined to feel persecuted than others. Our only response is: either keep a few pennies in your pocket, or take a little longer walk from the free lots around town. The exercise might do you good.

Of course it's no surprise that people hold the newspaper accountable — they should. But if one believes in something, why not sign a name to it?

What brought all this on was a note from some local citizen concerning The Star's recent pick of high school outstanding athletes for spring 1977. A copy of the article, with certain portions outlined in red, was accompanied by a clipping from the June 14 Boston Globe about the Globe's All-Scholastic Girls Track Team.

The complaint was obviously why hadn't Jan Oehm been picked as the top female athlete for the junior class at the high school (she did earn honorable mention). After all, she made the all-scholastics, won the state meet two mile race, and went on to compete in the national junior meet in California.

The clipping had written across it in arrogant red: "Who did the choosing?" As if the names were pulled out of a hat.

They weren't. The picks for top male and female athletes were made by Star sports writer Rick Pearl after he consulted with the various coaches. The choices weren't always easy.

Of course, there's no use pretending we can please all the people all the time...

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux put on his professor's hat last week when he addressed the annual training seminar for newly elected and veteran selectmen from across the state.

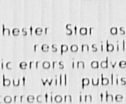

Groux spoke about municipal financial matters. Secretary of State Paul Guzzi was dinner speaker at the Sheraton Sturbridge.

Fact, not rhetoric

Editor's note: The following commentary was submitted by a local parent associated with the Fernald League for Retarded Children, Inc., the original source of the article. The Fernald League is an association of parents and friends of the retarded at the Walter E. Fernald State School, located in Waltham. The organization's headquarters are based at P.O. Box 85, Belmont, 02178.

During recent meetings with Department of Mental Health officials Fernald League Parents have identified approximately $4,135,000 of monies already appropriated to be spent at Fernald. Renovation plans plus furnishing and equipment purchases have been stalled by Department of Mental Health officials in the hope of diverting these and current budget monies into private, for profit, contracted boarding houses and foster home care of the retarded.

Millions of dollars (DMH) are currently expended on salaries of regional and area staff (2.2 million on Directors and Assistants) who rarely see a retarded person but who are totally engrossed in marketing the DMH commodity to unemployed young collegiates seeking to enhance their vitae, via transient job opportunities.

A willing commissioner could long ago, had he desired, placed 144 residents in new beds at the cottages recently constructed at Fernald. While he deplored the lack of toilet seats at Fernald (Ch. 2 on 5-4) when he first came to Mass., he has not remedied that situation to date. Rather, in preparation for Judge Tauro's visit, he embarked on a face lifting, clean up, paint up program even when the impending visit caused accelerated paint schedules impacting adversely on the resident population. Meanwhile, not one nail has been driven in actual renovation while above noted monies were available. A neglected Fernald is an excellent selling point for community oriented empire builders at DMH including many who were formerly employed by the state parent association with funds raised on behalf of retarded citizens.

There are three former employee buildings currently vacant that can comfortably house an additional 100 plus residents on individual room basis. It will require court mandate rather than state initiative to make this happen despite previously available funds plus anticipated 77-78 funding.

Parent interest in proposed regulations for community residential living caused the redrafting of language slanted totally in favor of minimally regulated private contractors and simplified separation of "normalized" clients from DMH responsibility. Because implementation of present modified language would not permit expansion of current quality levels of residential program the DMH has broken off meetings with the Fernald parent group and are instead investing staff time in promoting additional contracts for boarding houses.

Ten years ago the DMH embarked on a program to depopulate the institutions. The primary motivation was to shift the board and room cost from state to federal programs under the guise of a benign philosophy of "normalization" and "least restrictive" setting. Along the way are strewn the tragedies and failures of professional theory, wasted dollars and transient experimenters of contemporary life styles. Their hallmark is old run down properties in depressed areas of metropolitan Boston.

Parents prefer the development of a village type community on 185 acres at Fernald where retarded are not forced to compete with an unwelcoming "normal" society, with currently available professional services and workshops plus freedom to commute to outside communities for adult education, employment and recreation for all who are capable of participating in such activities.

At its inception Fernald parents were supportive of community residential concepts. Ten years of poorly staffed, badly financed, ineptly managed boarding houses has destroyed our confidence in the intent and integrity of our state servants. To the degree that we are not willing to expose our retarded children to calculated levels of failures, i.e., Emotional breakdowns, physical neglect, pregnancies and legal entanglements etc., we may be classified by social service evaluators with 0-5 years experience as "over-protective."

There are 1000 plus beds at Fernald. There are 170,000 retarded in our state. Barring medical miracles, there will always be a need for these beds at Fernald and our parent group will strive to keep them in place with ever improved quality of care.

Going on vacation?

Going on vacation soon? Don't invite a burglary while you are away. Cancel milk and newspaper deliveries, have a friend hold your mail. Leave a light or two connected to an automatic timer to turn lights on and off, giving your home a "lived-in" look. Notify police of your departure and expected return.

CONCERN, the seniors, and the firefighters came together last week for an important check passing — the firefighters union has donated $200 to get the youth job clearing house off the ground. CONCERN's president Ann Smith accepts the check from Fire Captain Michael M. Connolly as Jean Hurley, director of the council on aging, and project chairman Firefighter Ken Duffy look on. The seniors will be staffing their service line to match prospective employers with junior and senior high school students who have applied for a variety of jobs. Other members of Ken Duffy's committee are Police Lt. Donald Pigott, High School Principal Vincent Larocco, and students David Russell and Nick Julian.

Parents urged by school dept. to immunize pre-school kids

Some of Winchester's parents have been getting a warning from the school department: a letter reminding them that, by state law, children entering kindergarten this coming September must be successfully immunized by October 14.

The school department made a survey of medical records and found that some children planning to enter kindergarten this year either have no record of immunization, or have not been fully immunized.

The requirement, outlined in The School Immunization Law, Chapter 76, Section 15 of the Massachusetts General Laws, states that no child shall be admitted to school without being immunized. Parents must either present a certificate listing immunizations given and/or the diseases the child has had (a parent or guardian's statement will do if a physician's record is unavailable); a physician's certificate stating immunization is contraindicated for health reasons; or a parent or guardian's statement that immunization conflicts with religious beliefs.

The law requires immunization against diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis (whooping cough), polio and measles. Immunization against mumps and rubella, although not required, are strongly recommended.

The school department is also encouraging parents of older children to make sure their children are properly immunized.

School board to discuss 766

The year-end report on Chapter 766 programs will be the highlight of the next regular school committee meeting, scheduled for Monday at 7:30. Also on the agenda is a report from the evaluation study committee.

In foster homes

Specialized home care program seeks to place special needs kids

Families from Winchester and nearby towns are being sought to participate in a state-wide, "Specialized Home Care" program designed to build a network of foster homes for special needs children and adults.

West of Boston, the program is being administered by Cambridge Family and Children's Service (CFCS) through its Project Fernald. Under special contract with the state department of mental health, CFCS staff are working in coordination with the Walter E. Fernald School in Waltham and other community agencies to locate "specialized care providers" for special needs youngsters up to 18 years old.

"Providers" may be a family or simply any person over 18, married or single, who is interested in taking a special needs child into their home. Although families and individuals must satisfy general standards of space, health, and other factors, the requirements are flexible and do not require prior experience with special needs children.

Participants go through a series of training sessions which give them information on subjects like child development and retardation. They also receive minimum payments from the state to cover room and board and additional payments for any special training a child may need in the home.

Most of the children selected for the program are from the Fernald Home. A few come from the community where, for a variety of reasons, they are not able to stay in their own homes. All have mental or physical disabilities and therefore need special help once they are placed.

"We are constantly amazed by what a real home will do for the special needs child," comments Jacqueline Stackhouse, supervisor of CFCS-Project Fernald. "Given the love and attention which a family provide, even children described as hopeless begin to grow in ways which defy all medical predictions."

At present, families involved in Specialized Home Care come from a variety of backgrounds. Some live in city apartments, some in the country; some are married, some single or divorced; some have children of their own in the home, others none.

To help families deal with specific situation that arise, a social worker from CFCS-Project Fernald makes regular visit to the home. The worker also assists in locating community resources which will support the parents in caring for a special needs child.

"This is a program which does something for foster parents as well as for children," says Patricia Palmacci, a social worker with the project. "For the first time in their lives, many children have a home of their own. At the same time parents satisfy some of their needs and become part of a professional treatment team, bringing the best help available to the child."

Under its present contract with the state, CFCS-Project Fernald expects to place about two children a month in Specialized Home Care. For more information about the program, contact the Cambridge Family and Children's Service, Project Fernald, 99 Bishop Richard Allen dr., Cambridge, 02139.

Noonan School parents gathered recently for their annual meeting and a picnic lunch on the school grounds.

The Stoneham School of Ballet

Located in Stoneham Square, on Rt. 28

Eight-Week Summer Session Begins July 5th

Register on Thursday, June 30, Noon to 9:30 PM either in person or by calling 438-9829.

Classes will close as they fill up and will be offered on a first-come, first-serve basis.

All classes will be taught by Mr. Ketschke

RIK KETSCHKE

Director of the Stoneham School of Ballet, has studied for many years under some of the finest ballet teachers in the world, including Tatiana Semenova, Margo Marshall, Leon Danielian, Valentina Pereyaslavets, Tatiana Baboushkina, and David and Anna-Marie Holmes. He has danced with ballet companies in the United States and in Europe.

The Stoneham School of Ballet is a professional school of classical ballet which is dedicated to the preparation of young dancers for professional companies, yet offers numerous courses on both adult and child levels for those whose goals are simply self-fulfillment and the self-assurance which results from the ability to move well. Classes are small to provide a maximum of individual attention and run a full 90 minutes. Our tuition schedule is extremely reasonable.

of the witness and later testimony by two other Winchester police officers refuted the testimony of Culhane.

In conclusion, your story did not reveal the emotional stress on David, his family, and his friends caused by this long, unjust ordeal. It has been a very difficult time and it will surely take much longer to heal all the wounds. Our household will be leaving Winchester, with unpleasant memories, to wallow in its own middle class, maternalistic corruption.

Sky traffic

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I have recently become aware of a great increase in air traffic over Winchester. It is constant, noisy, and often low-flying. In addition to myself, several people I know have called about this problem and they have gotten various responses as to the nature of the problem, such as wind conditions and runway reconstruction. During the two years we have lived in Winchester it has been a great relief not to have the constant disturbance of planes overhead, as we have lived in several places where this has been a problem.

I would like to suggest that anyone concerned about this matter to call the following two phone numbers: Air Traffic, 567-2828; Mass Port Authority, 567-3333. Unless a great number of calls are received from concerned residents, I fear that this noise and disturbance will become an established part of our lives.

Carolyn D. Latanision
28 Nassau Dr.

The following letter was sent by Donna Berman, noise management officer for MassPort, to residents of the Nassau drive area who have been upset about flight patterns which bring Logan's planes over Winchester.

You have recently contacted my office to let us know about an increase in aircraft noise in your area. I am writing to provide you with some information which I hope will explain the causes of this occurrence.

As you may know, Logan Airport is currently engaged in a $3 million program of runway renovation and reconstruction. On May 18, Runway 9-27 was closed for repair; it will remain inoperative until July 1. This has unavoidably resulted in increased traffic on our three other major runways.

The runway that affects your community is Runway 33L. When that runway is in use for take-offs airplanes follow a flight path over the Mystic River to Wellington Circle in Medford. At this point, they make turns and follow appropriate routes towards their destination.

Runway 33L is one of the least preferred runways for take-offs; whenever possible an alternate runway is used. Runway 27 is a frequent alternate but it has not been possible to utilize 27 because of construction activities.

Wind direction is a prime determining factor in runway assignment. In the past several weeks, the wind has frequently been from the west and northwest. This condition has also contributed to heavy use of 33L.

On July 1, Runway 27 will re-open and I believe that you will notice a significant improvement in the aircraft noise affecting your community. In the meantime, please bear with us! My office, in cooperation with the air traffic controllers, is doing everything possible to minimize the noise impact of the runways closure on your community.

Thank you for bringing this problem to our attention. Please do not hesitate to contact my office if I can provide additional information on this matter.

Yours truly,
Donna Berman
Noise Management Officer

Junior summer reading program takes off Monday

On Monday the Winchester Junior Library Summer Reading Program will "take off." This year's theme is "Let's go!" - and each child will be given a ticket to punch every time a book is read. The fun and enjoyment of reading should be emphasized all year around and now, when the children are free from school-work, this program offers an excellent opportunity to stimulate a child's imagination, curiosity and interests.

All children who are able to read are invited to participate by selecting books on which to report in any of the following ways: give a brief oral report; write a short review; submit a picture about the book; write a poem about the story; make a puppet of a character, or construct a diorama. On completion of ten books, a certificate of achievement will be awarded. If 20 are completed, the certificate will have a gold seal and ribbon attached. Because this is a summer reading program, only books read after the close of school will be accepted.

Beginning Wednesday, June 22, the Junior Library will be open until 8:30 p.m. on Wednesdays until Labor Day.

Also in effect is the Summer Loan Privilege where, upon request, ten books per card may be charged out until September 10.

Cyndie Sizemore of the Emeralds strikes a nonchalant pose as umpire Bob Ciamti straightens out home plate during game with the Gems recently. The game was the final playoff round for the title in the 7-10-year-old division of the Winchester Girls Baseball League. Gems won, 11-10.

For the fourth year in a row, the Diamonds have dominated girls baseball in the 11-13 age group.

This year the final play-off game was between the Diamonds (10-0-0 for the season), coached by Adelene Pronski and Marybeth Enstad, and the Ambers (4-4-2), coached by Holly Stevenson.

The first three innings were a pitcher's duel, with Susan Vincent on the mound for the Diamonds and Gretchen Goodrow for the Ambers.

The Ambers struck first in the bottom of the fourth with four runs. Gretchen Goodrow and Kathy Jacobson each hit doubles.

The Diamonds came back in the top of the fifth with four runs. Cherly Cioni hit a triple and Krissy Murphy a home run.

At the end of the regulation six innings, the score was still 4-4.

In the top of the seventh, though, the Diamonds scored three times, paced by Susan Vincent's two-run single.

Amber's mounted a serious threat in their half of the inning. With two out the bases were loaded and Kathy Jacobson, who had a double earlier in the game, was the batter. The Diamond's pitcher, Krissy Murphy, held up well under pressure. With a full count, she threw the final strike, ending the game and winning the championship for her team.

There were many outstanding plays throughout the game. Gretchen Goodrow struck out six batters. Susan Vincent struck out nine, and Krissy Murphy six. With bases loaded in the third inning for the Ambers, Susan Vincent of the Diamonds fired home to Lisa McMann to get the player out. Krissy Murphy had the only home run in the game. Cherly Cioni tripled for the Diamonds. The Ambers had some good hits by Gretchen Goodrow, who had two doubles, and Kathy Mangano, who also had two.

In the 7-10 league, Emeralds (8-1-1), coached by Marion King and Tony Nosai, and the Gems (6-3-1), coached by Carol Minutoli and Erin Daugherty, fought back and forth each inning. They were tied in the third, 4-4. Emerald's had a big fourth inning, but the Gems came back and finally won 11-10.

STANDINGS

League A (11-13): Diamonds (10-0); Rhinestones (6-3-1); Ambers (4-4-2); Jades (3-4-1); Opals (3-7); and Zircons (3-7).
League B (7-10): Emeralds (8-1-1); Gems (6-3-1); Pearls (6-3-1); Rubies (5-4-1); Jewels (3-7); and Crystals (0-10).

Cloister Garden series continues with duets

The Cloister Garden Concert Series at the Parish of the Epiphany, 70 Church St., continues on Thursday with VOICES IN DUET, a program by two sisters exploring the unusual repertoire of music for two women's voices. Carolyn Cole Kingston, soprano and Diana Cole Roberts, mezzo-soprano, have been enthusiastically received by college, museum, community concert and radio audiences since 1968. The early training of the artists includes study at Indiana University, Yale, the New England Conservatory, and the Academia Chigiana in Siena, Italy. Both singers have appeared in opera in this country and in Italy.

The program in the Cloister Garden will include music from Purcell to Gilbert and Sullivan. The accompanist will be James Busby and the concert begins at 8:30 p.m. For further information call the church office.

Curtain call

Looking back at the year in sports at WHS

By Rick Pearl

This, then, is the curtain call for Rick Pearl. Since December you've been seeing that name sprinkled across these pages regularly. With sports season just about run dry and other duties calling, however, this will be the final by-line.

Before I leave I'd like to present a collection of the special things and people that I have experienced in the six months since I first began writing sports for The Star. Since they're just random thoughts that's the way they'll be presented to you - randomly.

So wade your way through and enjoy. If you had anything at all to do with sports in this town (at least on the high school level) during the winter and spring seasons, no doubt you or your team is mentioned in here somewhere.

Memories of the Sackem Sport Scene '76-'77

The zany girls' basketball and softball bus rides, complete with hula dances. The "nickname gang" at the Winchester-Lexington lacrosse game. The hockey team's first win over Woburn.

George Casey during April vacation baseball practice. "We had 'em". Little Mike Eysenberger. I met a girl from Istanbul. Tony the bus driver during the rain delay in Burlington. "Let's see you go John David".

Bagger and D-Top's "bags of candy for little girls" on the lacrosse bus. Taking batting practice with the varsity and rapping some drives. Billy "White Shoes" Murphy.

The softball win over Lexington. Coach Joan Rosazza and her patience with her team. "Kath-a-leen" and the entire Driscoll family, who are all great sportsmen and human beings. THE fans - Mrs. Leach and Mrs. Gately. "Hacka". Bionic Audrey.

The air-horn blowing out your ear drums at the lacrosse games. Coach Tom Kline, whom I didn't know well at first but grew to greatly admire, and his efforts on behalf of the girls' track program. Sammy Card, the little man who never quits. Charlie Larkin's unbelievable anchor leg of the mile relay, coming from 60 yards behind to win. Jimmy Burns' phenomenal effort in the high jump.

clearing 6'1" in the drizzle versus Belmont.

"Miss Margie" - Coach Sexton, who made me work for every tennis score I could get by disappearing with the sheets. Learning how a high school golf match is scored (I guess). Crazy Mary Russo, Mary Russo. Coach Paul Mulloy's well-circulated comments on the mediocrity of the rest of the league in tennis.

The Shrewsbury Indoor Squash and Tennis Center - site of the tennis team's state championship victory - and Court 9. The rides to Worcester, Shrewsbury, and Rhode Island in the funeral home cars. The Land brothers behind the wheels. Captain Lloyd's "franking" on Ferrooch. Nick and Paul "making their move" on Kelly on the bus ride back from Weston. Steve Colt's (Weston) frightening face. Nicky Julian talking with a photographer right in the middle of a crucial match. The old "hole-in-the-net" trick, as pulled by Weston's Mike Leach on Rhys Thomas during the EMass final. Paul Simons and Jimmy Willing pulling out that big victory against Weston for the state championship. The "baseball" game during the rain at Colby College and Dipak's crucial three-run error.

Diane Pankratz's (Wakefield) unbelievable shot which beat the girls' basketball team. "Piercy". Two of my most favorite people - Coach Barb Hollis and Bette Crowley of the girls' basketball team. The A.D. and an old friend, Mr. "C". Thanks for the hat. Coach Knowlton, a great man who it is a real honor to be a friend of.

Being a part of that wild 87-62 destruction of Burlington (the top ranked team at the time) in basketball. Telling Donny Allard to "get me a pair" in that same game and then receiving his pass for a basket. "You guys played two minutes and 17 seconds of basketball out there tonight!!!"

The good feeling of being eight behind at half-time and just knowing you'll win - and then winning (basketball). McCabe's stuff versus Burlington. Burny's "pass" that beat Melrose in overtime. Pam Rufo and her husband Pete.

Kim Perenick's last hurrah at the Woburn game. Cliff Falla's play in the All-Star game. The Outstanding Winter and Spring Sports Performers. Wrestling coach Ted Benton's humor. The stifling heat at Higginbottom Pool during the Middlesex League swimming championships. "Creamy". Seeing alma-matar McCall and Mr. Johnson whip Lynch in basketball. Mr. P - trainer Frank Provenzano.

Winning that bet from Mr. Chrusz about the hockey picture. Don Young for his excellent work and, more importantly, for his friendship. Saturday morning basketball practice layups. Going to the Tourney. Sunday and Monday nights in front of the typewriter banging out stories.

The reaction of certain players after the feature story on the girls' basketball program. Hanging the SACHEM warmup jacket over the balcony at the girls' gymnastics championships in Wakefield. Kirk Swanson and Dan Heffernan back for practice.

The free food in the Boston Lobster's press box. The kind words of Mrs. Hollis, Mrs. Rufo, Mr. Kline and Mr. Colella at the Winter Awards Banquet. Jack Nolan for his fantastic work.

Thursday mornings, bright and early, for copies of The Star. Talking sports in the coach's locker room at 2:30. Another great sports family, the McGoldicks, for all their kind words. Kelly Gately - need I explain?..and finally...The standing ovation at the final Awards Banquet, which is, without a doubt, my greatest thrill ever.

Before I close let me leave you with something that's been tucked up on my bulletin board amidst assorted sports garbage and memorabilia for quite a while. It's a short piece by Lloyd Shearer which I'd like to share with you:

No one will ever get out of this world alive. Resolve therefore to maintain a sense of values.

Take care of yourself. Good health is everyone's major source of wealth. Without it, happiness is almost impossible. Resolve to be cheerful & helpful. People will repay you in kind.

Avoid angry, abrasive persons. They are generally vengeful. Avoid zealots. They are generally humorless.

Resolve to listen more & to talk less. No one ever learns anything by talking. Be chary of giving advice. Wise men don't need it, & fools won't heed it.

Resolve to be tender with the young, compassionate with the aged, sympathetic with the striving, & tolerant of the weak and the wrong. Sometime in life you will have been all of these.

It's been a great year. I hope I've given you as much pleasure as you've all given me. Have a nice summer.

Travel Along with

Some sights to see while in London? On a grey day, the majesty of the British House of Parliament, standing in the heart of London, seems especially important. The Thames River and Westminster Abbey, the 323 ft. Victoria Tower; the Clock Tower which houses Big Ben - these are all fine for grey days. On sunny days it's possible to see all sorts of castles and gardens including Compton Wynyates, a monument to the Elizabethan age, which rises just beyond fine gardens of flowers, sculptured yews and fruit trees. On any day, a trip to London verifies and enlivens the English tradition from which so much of America has sprung.

You will be advised of special events when your itinerary is planned through MCGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE, 14 Eaton Avenue, Woburn. It's going to be another great summer in London! Come and see for yourself, and take a look at those famous sights which make it one of the most exciting cities in all the world. Call 935-0600. Open Monday-Friday 9-5 Saturdays and evenings by appointment.

C-2 tennis team wins title

by James R. Stewart Jr.

The Winchester Tennis Association's C-2 tennis squad has won the North Division title in the Men's Suburban Tennis League and will play their counterparts in the South Division this evening at 6 at the William S. Packer Courts on Palmer street.

Under the direction of Captain Bud Johnson, 55 Sylvester st., the Winchester sextet compiled a record of 16 set wins and only 2 defeats to nose out Lexington for the crown. Since Lexington had a 15 and 6 record, the Winchester match with Weston, postponed because of rain, will not be played as it would not affect the final standings.

The opponents in today's match will be the Wightman Tennis Club of Weston, named in honor of the famous Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, one of the earliest women's tennis champions in the U.S.

In a special meeting, Johnson won the toss for home court so the locals will be trying to take advantage of the home grounds and, hopefully, a good crowd of spectators to cheer them on to the over-all C-2 championship.

Little League puts off drawing

Due to the inclement weather of last week and the resulting postponement of several baseball games, the collection of fund drive raffle tickets has not been completed. Because of this, the Little League Raffle which was to have been held this past Tuesday, June 21st, will now be held in conjunction with the All Star game to be played in early July.

The actual date and location of the All Star game and the drawing will appear in a future edition of The Winchester Star.

If there are any Little League players who still have raffle tickets and receipts which they have not turned in, they are asked to leave these at the Winchester Sport Shop so that a final tabulation can be made.

JUST ANOTHER LOSER

ALL 95
POUNDS

with a little help from a great diet milkshake

COLCHESTER WOMAN TAKES 'BIG LOSS', IS DELIGHTED

Rita Randazzo of Colchester took a big loss, but it's the kind a lot of others wouldn't mind taking either. In five and a half months, Rita went from 213 pounds to her present 118 which looks pretty good on her 5 foot 8 inch frame.

Like a smoker who quit, she can remember the exact date when it started: Jan. 8, 1974 when she hit that 213 pounds. It was on that day she left the hospital with her third child, a son. She went shopping for a dress and found she could not get into a size 20. That did it. Today, she wears a size 7.

NO HUNGER PANGS — What did the trick was a diet food called NaturSlim, used twice a day in the form of milk shakes. The program requires no meeting to attend, no exercises, no drugs or shots and best of all for those who follow it, no hunger pangs.

Various sweetenings can be added to lend variety. Rita says she's a chocolate nut, so uses Nestle's Quik in her shakes. The unusual part of the diet is the main meal of the day, dinner is absolutely unrestricted. The dieter can eat anything he or she wants. Rita claims she eats like a horse then.

COMES WITH VITAMINS — After her success at losing weight, Rita obtained the distributorship for NaturSlim for her area. Today, she estimates there are between 1,200 and 1,500 people here using the diet food. It is sold in one pound cans, along with a jar of vitamins which provide the required daily needs. One can supplies 60 meals, at an average cost of 38¢, including the low fat or skimmed milk used. Many of these only use the powder for a single meal, such as breakfast or lunch, just to maintain their weight.

The slim Mrs. Randazzo lives with her husband, Paul, an analyst with Aetna Insurance Co. and their three children at 20 Lynn Street. Needless to say, she feels a lot happier now than she did two years ago.

How Arm & Hammer Baking Soda helps maintain your pool's ideal pH and helps keep your water crystal clear.

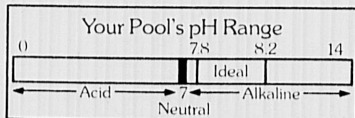

The 2 most important rules for easy pool care.

The most important rule to remember about pool care is to use a chlorinating product.

Recommended usage: Maintain a minimum chlorine level of 1.0 ppm Free Residual (Available) Chlorine.

The second most important rule to remember is to maintain the proper pH. And here's where Baking Soda goes to work. Baking Soda is a natural acid neutralizer and buffering agent which helps maintain pool pH at an ideal range of 7.8 to 8.2. This helps keep eyes from burning. And Baking Soda even helps improve water clarity—keeping your pool water crystal clear.

Recommended usage: Add 1 lb. of Baking Soda per 10,000 gallons of water each week during active pool season. Add a chlorinating product as needed.

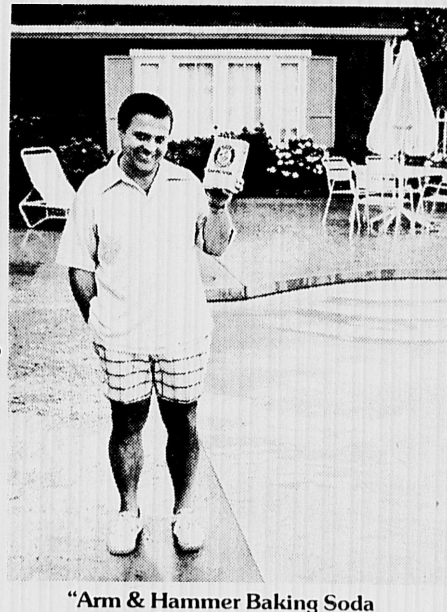

If pH reaches 8.2, you can discontinue weekly use of Baking Soda and use only as necessary to maintain a pH within 7.8 to 8.2. Do not use Acid. If cloudiness occurs, run filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep the water clear

Your pool water is filled with tiny particles too small for your filter to remove. Some of these particles make the water cloudy. Baking Soda causes the smallest particles to become attached to larger ones which are then easily filtered out of the water. The result is crystal clear water. If cloudiness occurs when you add Baking Soda, run the filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep eyes from burning

When eyes sting or burn and chlorine odors can be detected from the pool water, the problem is usually one of low pH. A low pH promotes the formation of irritating chlorine-nitrogen by-products. The best way to minimize the formation of these irritating by-products is to control the pH of your pool water.

"Arm & Hammer Baking Soda is a pool owner's best friend."

By maintaining your pool's pH with Baking Soda, you automatically adjust the pH of your pool water into the ideal range of 7.8 to 8.2. As a result, eye irritation is kept to a minimum.

6 Rules for Pool Maintenance

1. Test water daily.
2. Daily chlorine measurements should be taken to assure proper germicidal activity. Free Residual (Available) Chlorine should be 1.0 ppm or above.
3. Maintain pH between 7.8 and 8.2. Once every week during active pool season use 1 lb. of Arm & Hammer Baking Soda for every 10,000 gallons of water.
4. Check filter regularly. Clean when necessary.
5. Check water hardness monthly, particularly in hard water areas. High water hardness may cause scaling. If total water hardness (as calcium carbonate) is above 300 ppm, do not use Baking Soda until pool has been drained and refilled.
6. If heater is used: Operate filter at least 15 minutes after heater is turned off.

Note: On occasion, particularly in a new pool or in pools being opened for the season, additional steps are required to bring the pool into balance more rapidly or to clear up problems such as algae growth or mineral accumulation. When these problems arise, consult a pool expert in your area.

Test Kits

An accurate Test Kit is very important to avoid inaccurate readings which can cause problems in proper pool maintenance. Testing solutions should be replaced at least once every year.

How to estimate your pool's capacity

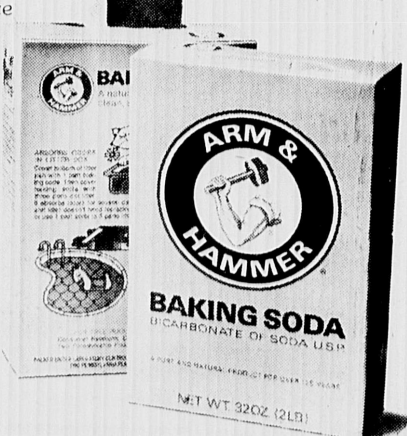

The average swimming pool contains approximately 20,000 gallons. However, an accurate record of the pool's water capacity in gallons is necessary since this measurement is often used to calculate amounts of chemicals for treating the pool water.

The following formulas can be used to approximate the total gallons of water a pool will hold.

Type Pool	Dimensions in feet	Gallon Capacity
Rectangular	Length x Width x Avg. Depth x 7.5 =
Circular	Diameter x Dia. x Avg. Depth x 4.7 =
Oval	Length x Width x Avg. Depth x 4.7 =

Merit Cigarette Sets New Taste Standard.

Tests confirm low tar MERIT delivers flavor of higher tar cigarettes.

There is a way to get real taste from a cigarette without high tar.

Technology created it.

Taste tests proved it.

Smokers are confirming it.

In fact, 75% of all MERIT smokers are former high tar cigarette smokers—the toughest taste critics of low tar smoking.

MERIT—the cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco—seems to be solving the smoker dilemma of having to choose between high tar or low taste.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Prove Taste

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes. The results proved conclusively that 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco does boost taste without the usual increase in tar.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS...NOW!

If there was ever a good time to buy real estate — that time is now!

From all indications, the real estate market has bottomed and is now on its way upward. New home starts reached a 29-year low in 1975 with an output of only 1.1 million homes. This increased to about 1.5 million in 1976 and the prediction for 1977 is 1.7 million. Upward — but still not adequate to meet our nation's demands. Over 65 percent of American families own their own homes. When demand outraces supply, prices always rise.

The mortgage market has turned around and now there are ample funds available for home loans. Although interest rates have become more favorable, they are not expected to drop much below current levels. In fact, they are expected to start easing upward during the second half of 1977.

Real estate has always been a sound investment and the best hedge against inflation. Its value historically increases faster than the cost of living. With all these factors fall into place, if there was ever a good time to buy — that time is NOW!

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester, Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

Town meeting attendance

Attendance at this spring's town meeting averaged 149 or about 78.5 per cent of the town meeting members. Some districts held better records than others, and two had instances of perfect attendance.

The totals ranged from a high of 165 (out of 189 TMMs at the time) during the first meeting May 2 to a low May 12 of 139 TMM in attendance out of 191 (two vacancies had been filled by then).

District 4 had the best record, with perfect attendance May 9 and again June 2. This district also had the fewest absences overall: 25.

District 3 also had perfect attendance on one occasion, the May 31 meeting. With 33 absences overall, they had the second best record.

The worst attendance record was held by District 8, with 96 absences spread throughout the 10 sessions.

Total attendance for the 10 sessions was as follows: May 2, 165; May 5, 148; May 9, 146; May 12, 139; May 16, 153; May 19, 146; May 23, 153; May 26, 142; May 31, 152; June 2, 149. Total membership ranged from 189 to 191 as vacancies were created and filled during the course of the meeting.

Below is the member-by-member attendance breakdown by meeting. An "X" beside a TMM's name means he or she was not present at that meeting.

Staying alive is no accident.

The greatest single cause of traffic accidents is carelessness. And you're lots more likely to be careless when you've been drinking. Or when you're speeding.

But even the safe and sober get careless. Forget to buckle seat belts. Decide not to wait for a green light. Jaywalk. Concentrate on conversation instead of the road. Shoot out of driveways on bikes. Showboat on motorcycles. Make hundreds of careless mistakes that could be fatal.

Sure, traffic fatalities went down by 10% last year here in Massachusetts. Good, but not good enough. We who love living here are aiming at zero fatalities.

So it isn't enough to watch yourself. Watch the other guy too. Any time you're in traffic, look alive. It's the surest way of staying alive.

Staying alive is no accident.

Sullivan wants to sell

Board postpones cab hearing

The public hearing before the board of selectmen to determine if James T. Sullivan's hackney carriage license will be revoked, was postponed Monday night until July 11. Attorney Daniel J. O'Connell III of Boston, representing Sullivan, asked for the postponement in order to complete negotiations in the selling of Winchester Cab Company.

O'Connell explained to the board, "I understand the board's point of view in wanting taxi service for Winchester and in wanting it run by a reputable individual. We hope to have someone by July 11 to apply for the licenses, at which time we would like to come back before this board with someone who will meet your approval."

Sullivan, doing business as Winchester Cab Co., has shut down his taxi business because of difficulties with insurance for a hackney license. He has, instead, been running a private livery service, which does not come under the jurisdiction of selectmen and which is subject to certain conditions not applicable to cabs.

He has been seeking buyers for his company, which has a fleet of four cabs, and meanwhile has shut down his office in the center.

At the request of selectmen, Police Lt. Andrew Crawford also attended the meeting Monday. He said, "Since the notice to terminate to our knowledge, Mr. Sullivan is not operating a taxi." Harry Chelof was worried about calls which are still coming into Winchester Cab. Sullivan said that they are being turned over to other companies through an answering service. Selectman Richard Wilsack said, "That must be working because I have not been inundated with calls from people unable to obtain service." Selectmen Chairman Barbara Hankins took exception to Wilsack and said, "I certainly have received calls — mostly from irate ladies." Police Chief John P. McHugh, also in attendance, said that the police department has not received complaints about lack of service.

This discussion brought Bill Falzano, former owner of Bill's Taxi, to his feet. Falzano recently sold his company to Robert C. Paco of Stoneham. Falzano accused Sullivan of keeping Paco from beginning operations even though licenses were in order two weeks ago, because of a mix-up in which company owns Falzano's telephone line.

Falzano said that when he became hospitalized recently he turned his phone number over to Sullivan until he returned to work. Falzano is now accusing Sullivan of not releasing the number, which Falzano said he has had for 32 years, back to Bill's Taxi. Sullivan said that the phone problem could be straightened out. "I have entered into negotiations with Paco," he said.

Harry Chelof, disturbed by the phone problem, said that he wanted to have that situation ironed out before voting on continuance of the hearing.

Barbara Hankins, called on for the second time Monday night to break a tie vote, sided with Wilsack and O'Connell in granting a continuance until July 11, the next regular meeting. As she did, she said, "I signed individual licenses to drivers two weeks ago. But two companies are now not doing business, Mr. Sullivan because he has closed down his taxi and Mr. Paco because he can't start his. Now we have 16 licenses out, minus Mr. Sullivan's four and Mr. Paco's two."

O'Connell added, "I hope, Mr. O'Connell, that you realize when you come before this board the next time, we will be at a point of no return. We will take action."

School board reviews Chapter 766 problems

While special education programs are serving 700 children in Winchester's schools, those running the programs are calling Chapter 766 "an administrative nightmare."

That is how Richard E. Cary, chairman of the Advisory Committee on Special Education, described the process of writing education plans, arranging schedules, and evaluating progress on a child by child basis.

Cary joined special education coordinator Frank Bianco Monday night in delivering a year-end report to the school committee on Chapter 766 programs in Winchester's schools.

Despite the problems involved with dealing with so many students on a case-by-case basis, Cary told the school board that the area of greatest overall improvement in special education over the past year was in administration.

He praised the work of the core evaluation team, made up of teachers and psychologists, which has been formed to draw up educational plans for special needs children.

The core evaluation team is responsible for roughly 200-plus "full" core evaluations. In all, about 780 cores are being processed for next year. Of the 780, only 13 educational plans were rejected by parents, according to Bianco.

The increase in students served by 766 has been dramatic. For example, the number of 3-5-year-olds served has tripled since Bianco arrived last October.

The 766 director offers a number of explanations for the increases: the program is picking up more children aged 3-5 and 16-21 as parents become better aware of their rights under the law and the programs being offered; a certain number of families are moving into Winchester because of its reputation in education; and fewer parents are willing to pay out private tuition when their children may obtain similar services through the public school system.

School board members Heinrich Holland and Robert Frank pressed Bianco for signs that the programs were succeeding.

Firemen near contract signing

Firefighters are nearing signing of a two-year contract with the town, according to Joseph Riga of the Firefighters Association.

At a meeting June 16, firefighters approved in principle a contract which now needs some language change before ratification. Riga expects that ratification within a week or so.

After signing by both sides, a special town meeting will probably be called by selectmen within the required 30 days.

The contract is an agreement that will cover the period July 1, 1977 through June 30, 1979. Negotiations started last fall, Riga says, and there have been about ten sessions since then.

Referring to the 16 per cent of Winchester school children involved in 766 programs, Holland said:

"We're spending an awful lot of money on this. . . I can't believe that 16 per cent are so bad off we can't tell how they're doing from a standard reading test."

Chairman Frank backed Holland's request for some achievement testing among 766 students, to help determine whether or not the 766 programs are working. The test results "may give us some kinds of signals about where we may have to change," Frank said.

Bianco told the committee: "If you look at the 700-plus education plans you'll see it in a different perspective." Bianco explained that most of the money spent on 766 programs goes to help children with "severe" problems and handicaps. Many of these children, according to Bianco and others involved in 766 programs, do not test well, standardized achievement tests do not always produce significant results. Bianco noted that there are about 80 separate tests used in testing special needs children.

He also questioned whether or not achievement testing would produce appreciable results, considering the time and staff needed to do the testing.

"Well," queried Chairman Frank, "do we do a decent job with the special education program?"

"Yes, I think we do," said Bianco.

"Then how do you demonstrate it?" responded Frank.

Bianco pointed out that one measure is the fact that all of the education plans drawn up for next year have been signed by parents. Rather than testing, Bianco suggested a better measure would be to determine how many children are being reintegrated into regular school programs.

Board member Constance Papas said she would like to see Bianco "go at it one kid at a time" and try to determine how close each child is to "mainstreaming," or returning to the regular classroom environment.

"Measurement by achievement of goals," responded Frank, "is only as good as the goals and only valuable if you hold up the goal against some external standard."

Bianco took exception: "The only fair measurement is to measure the child against himself," he insisted, noting that to generalize about the child's progress "is to go

Colson interviewed

Watergate visitor at WHS: students get first-hand view

Former counsel to former President Richard Nixon Charles Colson visited WHS last week to talk with students about Watergate.

While most of us know about the Watergate Scandal from what we saw of the proceedings on television and read in the papers, a group of Winchester High School juniors had the opportunity for a much closer look this spring.

A month-long investigation into the event by three advanced placement history classes at WHS culminated last week in an in-person interview with one of the principal characters involved in Watergate, former Presidential Counsel Charles Colson.

The interview was video-taped by Diskundis Productions as part of an educational project on "The Lessons of Watergate" being produced by the Washington-based company.

Every year the AP classes spend the final month of school following the AP exam studying a particular contemporary issue; last year it was the diplomacy of Vietnam, this year it was Watergate.

Diskundis initiated the project when company representatives approached teachers at the high school about their plans. The company helped out with preparation of the source materials and consulted with teachers on the course content. They even sent in a specialist in the Constitutional questions of Watergate from the University of Chicago to help out.

Under the direction of history teacher George Watson (who was joined by teachers Marge Sexton and Larry Rinaldi), the students delved into volumes of primary sources, including the report of the House Judiciary Committee which ended with the impeachment articles against Richard Nixon.

(Watson is vice president of the National Council for Social Studies and director of the Economics Education Center at Tufts University.)

The Diskundis group, which hopes to make money off the project, has two primary products in mind: a printed study program for high school classes on Watergate; and a series of video-tape programs, shot around the country, featuring interviews with persons involved, directly and indirectly, with Watergate. They have already shot two sequences besides last week's meeting with Colson: one was at an inner city, predominantly black, all-girls high school in Chicago with Jeb Magruder; a second was done in Fresno, Calif. and dealt with press coverage of the event. Two more are planned this summer.

In addition to the primary sources, the 42 students involved in the project read from a variety of books, including Colson's own "Born Again" and books by Magruder, Sam Dash, John Dean, and reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein.

By the time Colson arrived at the high school for the taping session last week, the 22 students who had signed up for the interview were well prepared.

"The kids asked some fine, hard-nosed questions," said department head Bill O'Connor, "and they came back around when they weren't satisfied with the answers."

Many of the students felt Colson evaded their questions.

"He was quite defensive," said student Maria Leydon. "I got the feeling he was there to defend himself rather than to tell what happened." She added, though, "I don't think any of us expected to nail him."

David Russell was willing to give Colson the benefit of the doubt: "He never answered our questions more than what we asked for, sometimes less. But he was polite, and he stayed to talk as long as we wanted after the interview."

Tony Urry was less generous: "He is a very smooth man. He knows how to weasel out of questions; he could respond to anything without answering it." As for Colson's being "born again," Urry was skeptical. "He thinks he's guilt-free — I think that's wrong. Watergate hasn't been answered to yet."

The others had mixed reactions to Colson's alleged conversion to Christianity after Watergate and seven months in prison. "I was impressed," noted Leydon, "but I don't know if I believe he was actually 'born again.'"

"He didn't seem to express any zealous regret," was Russell's response. "I'm not sure it could have changed his ethical-moral outlook that much."

O'Connor pointed out that the adults at the taping session "were more willing to give him the benefit of the doubt" than the kids were about Colson's conversion. "There may be a generation gap there," O'Connor added with a laugh.

As for the students' performance, the reviews were good. O'Connor said "they pushed him hard" on the ethics of Colson's actions in the Daniel Ellsberg break-in and Dita Beard-ITT cases, adding that Colson seemed "most shaky" on those points. But the session went smoothly for two and a half hours. "The students didn't badger Colson, they treated him with respect."

How did Colson feel about the students? "He seemed impressed," said O'Connor. "Both he and the students kept the conversation on a very intellectual plane."

One of Colson's most revealing answers to the students was in response to questions about what draws a man, already wealthy, to such a position as Colson held in the White House.

The former presidential counsel replied: "It's the power." He said he enjoyed the power and perhaps surprised the students with his attitude toward what a man in such a position might do to "get things done." Colson denied knowledge of breaking the law and claimed he merely took the law "to its limits."

How did the interview affect their perspective on Watergate? Student Russell replied, "I think it made me see it in a more human light." He said the interview, "made me aware that he (Colson) is a person, and that he's subject to the same kind of mistakes

More study needed

Bicycle committee seeks path along Palmer street

The bicycle study committee is going to have to do some more homework before it will be ready to present its case for a bicycle path down Palmer street to town meeting. So say the board of the selectmen who, Monday night, listened to David Drummond and William Burrows explain why such a path is needed.

The committee wants to apply to CETA for a minimum $45,000 grant to widen and install an asphalt bikeway between the Wildwood and Fletcher intersection and the entrance to Wedge pond parking on Palmer street. The proposed path would also extend into part of the cemetery and join the Aberjona Bicentennial Bikeway at the high school.

In explaining the proposal, William Burrows, himself an ardent cyclist, said, "We have been extremely lucky in the past six months (since the widening and resurfacing of Palmer street) that there has been no tragedy on that street."

He called Palmer street a "funnel from the west side to the high school with attractions along the way like the tennis courts and the swimming hole (Wedge pond)."

Selectmen were concerned that there would indeed be CETA funds available, and that the town engineer and department of public works would be in a position now to design and plan a bikeway.

Selectmen Chairman Barbara S. Hankins said, "There are several things to look into here: CETA funding is for labor only. Does the DPW have funds for asphalt? The Chapter 90 (highway funds) contract for Palmer street has been completed. Are there residual funds for a bikeway? Administrative personnel will be involved whether or not CETA workers lay the path. Have the DPW and town engineer been contacted as to the feasibility of even designing the bikeway now?"

Although the board seemed to favor the idea of a path, it is asking that the bicycle study committee return with more information. They also suggest that a special town meeting may be needed to allow this construction. There may be a special town meeting this summer, Mrs. Hankins said.

Specifically the plan calls for a bikeway along the cemetery side of Palmer street to the east gate. Then, following the former route of Palmer street (the bed of the Middlesex Canal), the path would go through the unused corner of the cemetery, emerging opposite Fairfield place. The path would follow Fairfield place and Linden street, returning to Lake street along the side of the town yard. From there it would go along the north side of Lake street and Skillings road to the high school where the bikeway would connect with the Aberjona Bicentennial Bikeway.

This route prompted Town Manager Thomas J. Groux to ask, "Would children go through the Lake street-Palmer street route anyway? Would cyclists go through the cemetery and come out the main gate?"

David Drummond, former chairman of the bicycle study committee and its present secretary, replied, "The carrot here is the level ground; the stick is the Palmer street hill."

Mrs. Hankins questioned whether a public way can go through land dedicated to cemetery use.

VFW, Legion plan festivities for 4th

This year Winchester's Fourth of July celebration will be run by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3719 and the American Legion Post 97.

Commander Warren T. Bolivar of the VFW and William Stevenson of the American Legion have been planning the celebration, which will take place at the Loring avenue (McDonald) Field at 1 p.m.

The world-famous Antonucci Chimps will lead off the celebration, followed by Sammy Lyman the Clown, ice cream, and blueberry pie and watermelon eating contests.

In case of rain, the festivities will be at Town Hall.

There were plenty of goodies for the picking at last week's carnival, held at Manchester Field. Here a youngster gets his share of cotton candy from one of the concession stands.

back to why they were singled out in the first place."

Cary supported the 766 director, recommending "against more specific testing." He also noted various pressures being placed in the 766 programs and urged the school committee to deal with those issues. "The high expectations of Winchester's parents," Cary said, are evidenced in the high demand here for core evaluations, resulting in a higher percentage of children processed through 766 in Winchester than in other towns.

Another pressure Cary described originates in the increasing public discussion of falling standards in education and the call for a "return to basics." This discussion, according to Cary, focuses to a large degree on 766 curriculum. "For 766 to take the thrust in basic curriculum reorganization is an unfair burden," said Cary.

He suggested that a task force on curriculum "might be appropriate" to study the various alternative programs being offered and determine how special education fits into an overall educational picture. "To see where you want to draw the limits," Cary explained.

In order to deal with the great volume of administrative work, Bianco has asked the school board for roughly $2500 in funding for computer programming. By law, Winchester is required to keep a separate register of 766-served children. The programming would help out in maintaining records pertinent to reimbursements, "monitoring of quarterly reports, liaison personnel, re-evaluation dates, specialized support services to be delivered, therapy, prototype changes."

In order to help "streamline" the core evaluation procedure, Bianco explained that efforts are made, before the actual evaluation, to determine if a child's needs might be served within the structure of the regular school programs.

Once the core begins, there is about a 50-day process of referral, evaluation, creation of an educational plan, and parental approval. Asked by Chairman Frank how many cores were off schedule, Bianco replied, "No plan to my knowledge has exceeded the time line without a waiver from the parents."

One change Bianco is trying to effect is to increase the emphasis on behavioral objectives for 766 youngsters. A grant is being sought to finance workshops to train teachers in this sort of evaluation; if the grant is denied, Bianco asked the school committee to transfer funds from the summer workshop allocations to cover the expense. Bianco expressed the view that the attainment of behavioral goals can be as significant for many of the 766 children as achieving academic goals.

Starting this coming school year there will be quarterly reports on each child's progress, according to Bianco, who said "we're basically tightening the entire process."

He noted a lack of communication between the schools and the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, where most of those children who need therapy are serviced. The 766 report included a suggested policy for regular contact between the center and the school system. This effort ties into the move to include behavioral goals in a student's educational plan.

"When we send a child to a clinic, we should have some very specific goals in mind," Bianco said.

One problem faced by the schools, according to Bianco, is to what extent they should become involved in a child's home life, in particular if the child is in therapy and the family is directly involved. "We cross some fine lines," Bianco said, in dealing with the goals of education and therapy. Often, a child's progress in school is intricately tied to his or her progress, and the family's progress, in therapy.

Cary noted that sometimes the school perceives a problem and the families involved refuse to cooperate. In that case, the matter can be brought before the school committee and they may act, through state agencies, to bring the parents around.

Also recommended by Bianco was a series of workshops and development of a curriculum guide to aid regular classroom teachers in dealing with special needs students. Though the programs would cost between $1000-$3000, Bianco said the development of curriculum alternatives would help integrate youngsters into the regular classroom more readily.

While Winchester "has been forced to react rather than plan appropriately" in developing its 766 programs, Bianco says this is not unusual because of the deadlines built into the law. But, in order to make the program more efficient and practical to manage, Bianco's report states:

"The need for special needs programs, curriculum and a clear delineation of what is special needs vs. regular education is crucial."

To achieve this, Bianco recommended establishing the task force mentioned earlier.

Bianco reported that the SEEM Collaborative will be serving 15 Winchester children next year; 43 children from the various towns in the collaborative were served this year within the local SEEM classes.

Asked about the relative cost to Winchester of the program, Superintendent William MacDonald explained that the town pays one-seventh of the total administrative cost, while the remaining costs are prorated according to how many local children are in the programs.

In his report, Cary noted the major weakness of the 766 program was at the junior high school level, where fewer alternative programs are being offered.

Howard Chase, Winchester's coordinator with CETA, was present at the meeting and said that even if a July 8 deadline for applying for CETA funds were not met at this time, there should be no problem in finding other grants later. Under CETA regulations, ten percent of the funding goes for administrative and materials cost. Anything over that ten percent figure would be expended by the town. The rest of the $45,000 grant requires no town funding.

Arthur Dunbar reflected, "After that ten percent includes health insurance, workmen's compensation, and such, there's not much left for laying out a six-foot wide asphalt bikeway. I suggest that you may have to go to town meeting and I also suggest that you get in touch with the cemetery people."

One of the purposes of the bikeway, in addition to the safety aspect and the diversion of cyclists from the housing for the elderly, is the "feeling of independence," according to David Drummond. "That's an important feeling to know you can bike to school and leave when you're ready without having to call your mother to come and get you."

That comment prompted Selectmen Edward O'Connell, always tuned in to the English language, to ask, "Are we talking about the psychological or the 'cycle-logical' benefits of this bikeway?"

Burrows said that the committee would follow through on the suggestions of the board of selectmen and report back.

other people would make." Russell added, "It's frightening that the people running the government are much the same as I am. . . it's frightening when you consider there's so much power, and the people who run it are average, they have the power, but they're no more intelligent or ethical than anyone."

While many of the students went into the interview with a skeptical attitude about American politics and government, their talk with Colson didn't seem to ease their doubts.

"I have a better understanding," said Jessica Fikler of her experience, "but I'm not sure I have any more confidence." To hear how Colson and the others operated, she relates, "was disillusioning."

"Unfortunately," she continued, "to a majority of the American people, I don't think it (Watergate) is having the effect that it should. I was outraged when so many people could care less when it was going on. . . That's not the way things should be."

Tony Urry had a different attitude: "I want to go into politics. Colson made me aware of how smooth and polished one has to be. It would be a chance to accomplish something." Urry added he was impressed with Colson's control: "He handled himself quite well."

Russell put his feelings this way: "As far as politics go, there's a lot of instinct in me that would like to go into government; I see a lot of things to be changed, and it's one way to do it. But Watergate makes you wary of it." "I do think," Russell added, "that the events that happened leading to the resignation are a kind of testimony to the fact that the system does work. . . but it's the next best thing to it not happening at all."

How does Watergate size up as a part of American History? Russell had these comments: "It was one of the most important events in American History — not so much because of what happened, but because there were the tapes, and the publicity, because the knowledge of it was so widespread. If it had come 100 years ago, it wouldn't have been nearly as important."

Ambulance under fire department

Winchester's emergency ambulance service will be officially transferred from the Police to the Fire Department effective at 8:00 a.m. July 1, 1977. Transferring of the ambulance service will enable both departments to better utilize the Registered Emergency Medical Technicians within the departments. State law requires all ambulance attendants be certified E.M.T.A. as of July 1, 1977.

Residents should be reminded that the ambulance will be used for emergency purposes only, and not for transportation. All residents are urged in non-emergency cases to use the many fine private ambulance services in the area.

The new telephone number for the ambulance will be the emergency Fire Department number 729-1800. This number must be used for direct communication.

50 SPEDY jobs still open

More than 50 job openings are still available in the Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth (SPEDY). The program began Monday and is for youths between 14-21 years of age.

About 25 to 30 of the 40 who have so far applied so far have qualified for SPEDY positions, according to Eugene Prior, program coordinator. Prior added that he will be down at the Winchester Board of Health office every morning from 8:30-11 to receive applications for the jobs.

Youths who are to be full time students in September and those who may have just graduated from high school, if eligible, will be offered a maximum of 25 hours a week working in Winchester town departments.

Jobs include clerical and general office work, building maintenance, lawn care, and playground assistance. Pay is $2.30 an hour and the program runs to Aug. 19.

Funding for the program comes through the Medford CETA office. Disadvantaged students include those whose family income includes government support and/or whose income does not exceed the following guidelines:

For a family of 1—$2970; 2—$3930; 3—$4890; 4—$5850; 5—$6810; 6—$7770; add $960 for each additional family member. Applications are available at the board of health office, town hall.

Board deals with signs, lights

Selectmen covered a variety of topics at their regular Monday evening meeting this week, including requests for traffic signs, lights, and out-of-town travel.

Through Police Chief John P. McHugh, Paul McCarthy, 64 Wildwood st., requested the placing of Commercial Vehicles Excluded signs along Wildwood street in light of repeated violations on that road. There are now two such signs, one at Church and Wildwood and the other at Pond and Woodside at the approach to Wildwood street.

The proposed signs would be placed at Wildwood terrace, opposite Warren street, and at Woodside and Wildwood. Selectmen asked for further evaluation of these placements and did not approve them Monday night.

They did, however, approve the placing of a sign eliminating parking under the railroad bridge on Main street at Shore road at the request of Safety Officer John W. McKinley. McKinley wrote to Chief McHugh, "Parking (at this location) has gotten out of hand. It is not a safe practice and should be restricted."

A third request for signs, this time for directions to route 93 at three locations, caused Selectman Arthur Dunbar to say, "I am opposed, and opposed again. I have had it up to here with signs all over town."

Selectman Richard Wilsack, however, replied, "For those who do not live in Winchester, we need some kind of signs." Harry Chelaflo agreed with Wilsack and moved to approve the signs. On a vote Dunbar and O'Connell voted against the signs, and Chelaflo and Wilsack voted in favor. Chairman Barbara Hankins broke the tie and sided with the affirmative votes. Signs will be placed at the following intersections: Main and Washington streets, Washington and Mystic Valley parkway, Mystic Valley parkway and Highland avenue.

Said Mrs. Hankins, "I have been lost too many times in other towns not to know what a help directions to a major road are."

Dunbar replied, "Yes, but how do you know that when you're lost there will be a sign right there?"

Selectmen received a letter from Attorney Paul F. Amico on behalf of his clients Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Spagnuolo, Jr., of 123 Johnson rd. They were requesting additional lighting between Cox road and Thornberry road along Johnson. There is now no lighting in this area.

At Town Manager Groux's request, Police Chief McHugh recommended "proper lighting" and said that Johnson road between Ridge street and the Lexington line is poorly illuminated. He further said in his memo to Groux, "A comparison of lighting conditions east of Ridge street on Johnson road to Westland avenue reveals 14 street lights have been installed."

A recommendation from Wiring Inspector Frederick Reid asked that a 350-watt mercury vapor lamp be installed and John Ciaccia, town engineer, recommended "the entire area be at least lighted up as per town policy." A Selectmen agreed to the installation of one light and a look at the area after a couple of months to see if additional lighting is required.

Selectmen also handled a request from Jack Fallon of the school department for $205 to transport the varsity tennis team to the New England finals in Kingston, R.I. recently.

Medford CETA has approximately 1300 jobs available for low income, long-term unemployed, or AFDC recipients. Particularly needed are those with technical or administrative background.

Medford CETA services the communities of Burlington, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Stoneham, No. Reading, Reading, Woburn, Wilmington, Wakefield and Winchester. Residents of these communities only should apply immediately to the Medford CETA office, 22 Forest St., Old Medford High School, Medford for an eligibility determination. Especially needed are:

Electricians, plumbers, secretaries, typists, bookkeepers, outreach workers, (20) home health aides, public relations, job developer, assistant director, counselors, trainees, special education aides, administrators, coordinators.

There is always need of general laborers and drivers. Applicants must fill CETA eligibility guide line and should apply to the above address.

We are an equal opportunity employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Arthur Dunbar questioned the amount of the expenditure for out-of-state travel. Harry Chelaflo wondered if insurance had been included in the amount, and Barbara Hankins was disappointed that the school department did not follow procedure in asking for approval before rather than after the fact.

The vote was to approve the request but to include a statement of disappointment.

In other action, selectmen agreed that constitutionally they should allow representatives of Massachusetts Fair Share to conduct a tag day drive in Winchester, but at the same time, they are indicating to Mass Fair Share that they will not be permitted to stop cars in public ways in order to solicit in any manner.

Mass Fair Share, a state-wide citizens' action organization concerned with economic issues, is planning to distribute literature, answer questions, and seek support from Winchester residents between July 6 and July 9, noon to 6.

Notice of two vacancies on the human services study committee has been posted. The committee, established by town meeting, will consist of seven members. Selectmen are accepting letters "stating in clear and specific terms" qualifications of residents interested in serving on this new committee. Deadline is July 2.

Selectmen are not meeting next week, but will resume regular Monday night meetings July 11. They are also planning joint meetings during the summer with the school committee, town engineer, police and fire chiefs, health agent, building commissioner, and various other bodies and committees.

Wyman staff assigned to other schools

Now that the Wyman School is closing down, most of the staff and all of the ten teachers there have been reassigned to other posts in the school system.

Principal John J. Carmilia has been elected to fill the vacancy for assistant principal at McCall Junior High School.

Undecided is the fate of secretary Anna E. Hill.

As for the 10 Wyman teachers, they have been reassigned as follows:

Helen W. Mallon, who handled kindergarten classes this year at Wyman and

How Arm & Hammer Baking Soda helps maintain your pool's ideal pH and helps keep your water crystal clear.

The 2 most important rules for easy pool care.

The most important rule to remember about pool care is to use a chlorinating product.

Recommended usage: Maintain a minimum chlorine level of 1.0 ppm Free Residual (Available) Chlorine.

The second most important rule to remember is to maintain the proper pH. And here's where Baking Soda goes to work. Baking Soda is a natural acid neutralizer and buffering agent which helps maintain pool pH at an ideal range of 7.8 to 8.2. This helps keep eyes from burning. And Baking Soda even helps improve water clarity—keeping your pool water crystal clear.

Recommended usage: Add 1 lb. of Baking Soda per 10,000 gallons of water each week during active pool season. Add a chlorinating product as needed.

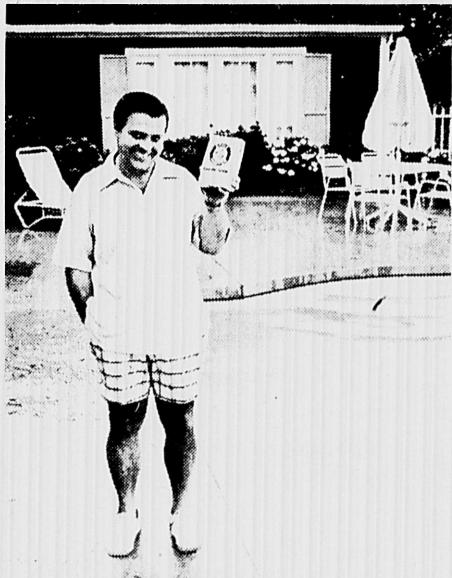

If pH reaches 8.2, you can discontinue weekly use of Baking Soda and use only as necessary to maintain a pH within 7.8 to 8.2. Do not use Acid. If cloudiness occurs, run filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep the water clear

Your pool water is filled with tiny particles too small for your filter to remove. Some of these particles make the water cloudy. Baking Soda causes the smallest particles to become attached to larger ones which are then easily filtered out of the water. The result is crystal clear water. If cloudiness occurs when you add Baking Soda, run the filter (keeping it clean), until pool water clears.

How Baking Soda helps keep eyes from burning

When eyes sting or burn and chlorine odors can be detected from the pool water, the problem is usually one of low pH. A low pH promotes the formation of irritating chlorine-nitrogen byproducts. The best way to minimize the formation of these irritating byproducts is to control the pH of your pool water.

"Arm & Hammer Baking Soda is a pool owner's best friend."

Note: On occasion, particularly in a new pool or in pools being opened for the season, additional steps are required to bring the pool into balance more rapidly or to clear up problems such as algae growth or mineral accumulation. When these problems arise consult a pool expert in your area.

Test Kits

An accurate Test Kit is very important to avoid inaccurate readings which can cause problems in proper pool maintenance. Testing solutions should be replaced at least once every year.

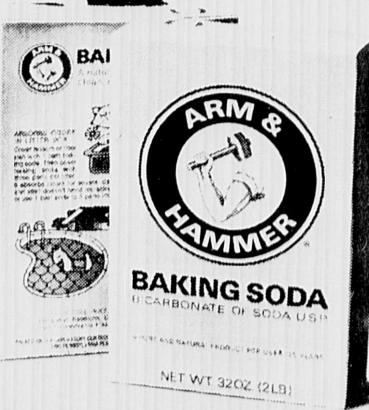

How to estimate your pool's capacity

The average swimming pool contains approximately 20,000 gallons. However, an accurate record of the pool's water capacity in gallons is necessary since this measurement is often used to calculate amounts of chemicals for treating the pool water. The following formulas can be used to approximate the total gallons of water a pool will hold:

Type Pool	Dimensions in feet	Gallons Capacity
Rectangular	Length x Width x Avg. Depth ÷ 7.5 =
Circular	Diameter x Dia. x Avg. Depth ÷ 4.7 =
Oval	Length x Width x Avg. Depth ÷ 4.7 =

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

It's not a problem - yet

The three-year experiment in binding arbitration for police and fire personnel would have come to an end today. Governor Michael Dukakis would have preferred that, apparently, since he vetoed the bill last week after the state legislature passed it by a very comfortable margin.

But the state's elected representatives and senators would have none of it and in the wake of heavy pressure from fire and police union officials, they overrode the governor's veto by votes of 26-10 in the senate and 166-59 in the house.

Winchester's Representative Sherman W. Saltmarsh, Jr., sided with the unions and voted to override the veto. He told The Star, "One problem in municipal government is that public safety employees cannot strike, so there has to be some vehicle for solving and resolving an impasse. And that's right. I don't think police and fire officers should have the right to strike."

Saltmarsh has a long history of involvement with police and fire unions which pre-dates the beginning of binding arbitration.

Winchester's Senator Sam Rotondi took the other side Monday and voted to sustain the governor's veto. "The main problem with the bill is that arbitrators are forced to choose only between the last best offer from both sides. That troubles me because one of the guidelines for the arbitrator is the ability of the community to pay. That's the prime consideration, I think, and I don't know of an arbitrator who is able to make that decision."

Under the binding arbitration bill, if police or fire unions reach an impasse in bargaining with local officials, a third party arbitrator or panel of arbitrators comes in, reviews the circumstances and the fact-finder's report, and chooses one or the other of the last best offers. There is a ten-point set of guidelines which the arbitrator must follow to try to eliminate a frivolous or unjust decision.

During the three years the present law has been in effect, 50 cases have gone to the point of binding arbitration. Of those, 29 settlements were on the side of the union.

Winchester has never gone to binding arbitration.

Joseph Riga, representative of Winchester's firefighters local, called the bill "fair." He said, "You know, the papers say that the officials who voted to extend the bill put their political lives at stake. It's the other way around and the ones who voted to sustain the governor's veto are the ones who will answer for it at the next election."

As other fire and police union officials congratulated each other and their legislators, local officials were pondering the next step — the Mass League of Cities and Towns wants to draft an initiative petition putting the law on the ballot in the 1978 state elections.

The MLCCT said before the Vote Monday, "Unless the firemen will meet our final offer at shaping a compromise or the legislature upholds the governor's veto of compulsory and binding arbitration, we are going to take this directly to the voters in the Commonwealth!"

The MLCCT has the support of taxpayer groups which worry about the property tax increases resulting from the extension of the bill. The League says, "Both the legislature and the firemen have refused to understand the fiscal crisis caused in cities and towns by continued real estate tax increases... taxpayers looking at another 13 percent to 15 percent tax hike are going to explain it to them on the ballot in '78."

Never having gone to binding arbitration in Winchester, we can look to what happened in our neighboring town of Arlington recently.

In 1975 a binding arbitration settlement went against the town and the town retaliated by taking the case to supreme judicial court to test its constitutionality. The town lost. The result of this battle, according to Arlington Town Manager Donald R. Marquis, was pay raises for public safety officers to the tune of 28 percent in three years. Other town employees who do not come within the purview of the binding arbitration law have received only 18 percent pay raises.

Marquis said, "We'll remind the voters of this in the 1978 referendum." Marquis, by the way, is a member of the governor's local government advisory committee.

One of the possible wordings on the referendum would allow a vote of the municipality to settle binding arbitration impasses.

The question of binding arbitration goes beyond taxes and union power, however. It also brings to the front a touchy topic like home rule.

The arbitrator is a third party from outside the union, the officials, and sometimes the state.

Sam Rotondi said, "I disagree with the concept of removing from local government control over those situations."

On the other extreme we see the possibility of municipal voters deciding in binding arbitration cases.

Rotondi also said, "My feeling is that municipalities in this type of legislation are being compared to private industry. A town is not a profit-making organization, but we will start acting like a profit-making organization with lay-offs and other problems of such an organization." But as Joe Riga said, "We've never had to go all the way." —KLF-W

CMARC thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

CMARC, Inc. would like to have this appear as an open letter to citizens of Winchester to thank them as a whole and the individual residents who helped us during the recent carnival at Manchester Field.

We would like publicly to thank the outstanding job that Chief John McHugh's men did during the Fair. I had an opportunity to speak with them and watch them work with proficiency that is a credit to the Winchester Police Force.

I think that all residents of Winchester understand that there was some controversy in the beginning in reference to us obtaining a license and I would publicly like to thank the town manager and the board of selectmen for extending us an opportunity to prove that we could run a fair without incident.

We had guaranteed that we would clean the grounds on Sunday and here I would like to thank Mr. Jim Kent, of Winchester, and his scouts for helping us to clean up the park.

We extend special thanks to all the Burlington Rotary members and individual Winchester residents who helped us during the week to sell tickets. Without them to man the booths it would have been a difficult task.

We hope that all enjoyed themselves at the fair. We enjoyed the hard work and cooperation we received from the town citizenry.

We raised $2,200 dollars which will be used to help retarded Winchester citizens as well as all people involved in our programs. In closing let me extend my personal thanks to the Town Manager for supplying me with advice which can only strengthen our organization, which in turn helps us to provide more and better services to the retarded citizen.

EDITOR OF THE STAR

In his most recent letter to The Star Robert Coyne, David Evans' roommate, once again criticizes in print persons who, because of their public positions, will be unable to answer him.

On August 16, 1976 our daughter was assaulted at the corner of Warren and Wildwood streets, receiving a fractured skull, broken nose and other injuries. On September 24, 1976, after a one and one-half day trial, Judge Francis P. Cullen of the Woburn District Court found David Evans of 4 Wildwood terrace guilty of that assault. Mr. Evans appealed from that decision. Subsequently, in May of 1977, after deliberating approximately four hours, a Middlesex Superior Court Jury voted to acquit Mr. Evans.

We make no comment upon either the district court finding of guilt or the jury vote of acquittal. We do, however, wish to express publicly our thanks and appreciation to the conscientious and professional Winchester police officers who were associated with this case. These men were: Lt. William T. Haggerty, Lt. Donald E. Pigott, Officer Charles T. Culhane, Inspector William Nash, Officer William Wright and Inspector William O'Neill.

This was and still is a difficult experience for our family. However, the opportunity we have had to become aware of the calibre of officers we have on our police force, and to appreciate close at hand their qualities as men—their kindness, their strong sense of public service and their trained ability to shrug off unjustified personal criticism and keep going—has been a by-product of this case that we will treasure for a long time.

Backward progress?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

You can include me out of any mass telephone calls to Logan Airport, as suggested by a resident of Winchester, following one of the usual brief periods when commercial airliners must of necessity be diverted to a flight plan that includes some Winchester air space due to noise.

This is 1977 and unless we are willing to progress backwards to something like Amtrak, we are going to have aircraft over our heads. Folks who object should try living in East Boston or Winthrop and then they would really know noise. After all it isn't very often that the prevailing winds force this inconvenience and I have lived at various points around town for nearly forty years and really there isn't much difference between Wildwood street and Nassau - the noise would only be transferred from here to maybe, Lexington or Medford if the Massport paid any attention to a few phone calls from disturbed Winchester residents to over-adjacent towns.

I may be a little biased over this so-called nuisance due to having been an Air Force pilot in WWI and having had two sons in the same branch in between wars, but believe me, just so long as they can keep the Concord from our precious upper air I will not object, and will refrain from participating any senseless mass phone calls to have the planes re-routed. They got headaches enough as it is.

Intolerable

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The problem of intolerable aircraft noise over Winchester pointed out by Mrs. Latanision deserves the serious consideration she recommends. It is not a problem related to temporary run-way construction, although this may certainly enter; instead it is one that has for some time continuously harassed the citizens of this community.

One can perhaps be forced to adjust to high levels of noise and other types of pollution in the industrial sectors of the state on the excuse that the economy requires it, although that thesis can be and is being challenged. But pollution in a residential community has less excuse and should not be tolerated. Within restricted boundaries, Winchester has wisely zoned against the operation of heavy industry and the pollution that accompanies it. The town should be kept that way.

Beautiful birds

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

There have been a number of complaints about airplane noise violating the air space over our beautiful Winchester. For another point of view, read on.

Winchester is singularly blessed with the material goods of life, including money with which to travel on these "noisome beasts." If I, or any loved one, were on a given airplane, I would be very happy to know that the pilot and the air traffic control people had that airplane headed for the most favorable runway for prevailing wind and weather conditions.

My family and I look forward to summer's wind changes that bring these beautiful birds over our home, and to open windows and doors the better to see and hear as they fly over. Just feel the power and strength as they claw for altitude, feel the tightly bridled horses as they slow for gentle let-down and remember, when you or yours are on a flight, anywhere, you will be glad the airplane is in a safe mode for you, no matter which town below has to hear the noise.

Flight safety

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Recently there has been a great deal of controversy over the Air Traffic problem at Logan airport, and prompted by the letter in last week's Star, I decided to express my own opinion.

I am a licensed commercial pilot and I have been flying out of Hamsom Field in Bedford for about four years. I know almost nothing about flying a big jet, but I am very familiar with the air traffic control system in Boston. I have used it many times and I know its benefits and its limitations.

The whole reason for any Air Traffic Control at all is safety. To maintain this high level of safety, everyone must give a little. People seem to think that airplanes can land or take-off on any runway at any time. As a pilot, I know that this is not true. It is usually considered unsafe for the big jets to land or take-off the wrong way (with the wind), and

Talking things out

By The Observer

Among topics for discussion during the summer, selectmen took a look Monday night at the last session of town meeting. They reached a couple of conclusions which may help the next session go a little more smoothly.

Edward O'Connell suggested that selectmen, "although we're good buddies," should take on an adversary role with each other when budget discussions come up. He thinks that challenging each other on insertions and omissions might help communication about the budget better.

O'Connell also asked for a statement of the status of unexpended funds appropriated by town meeting.

Thomas J. Groux, town manager, said that there is such a statement every month which gives budgets for each of the accounts. The statement includes original appropriation by town meeting, how much has been expended, how much has been transferred either in or out of the account, how much is left.

O'Connell's concern is that some departments may be spending just for the sake of using up funds. "Where are we over-appropriating?" he asks.

Groux also made a suggestion to the board. He wants to go back to the way the budget was done the first time he did it two years ago. At that time, he printed up copies of his proposed budget and then printed up copies of the finance committee's budget. This year there was just one copy, the final budget.

He was not pleased with response to the single document and will go back to the more complete informational package.

Selectmen received a gift Monday night of bound volumes of the town reports between the years 1924 and 1956. The gift, from Mrs. Ralph Bonnell, will enable selectmen to fill out their collection. Duplicate volumes will be given to the library and the archival center to help complete their sets of the reports.

The town reports can make for some rather interesting and sometimes entertaining reading.

The MBTA has improved service on its summer bus routes, some of which affect Winchester. The public information number for more detailed information is 722-3300.

The summer schedule, in effect now until September 9 makes these changes: Route 326 (West Medford-Haymarket Square express): weekday rush hour service has been improved by operating every eight minutes instead of every 10 minutes.

Route 77 (Arlington Heights-Harvard square): This route, which serves Arlington center, Mass Avenue, and Porter square, will have service every two and a half minutes instead of every three minutes.

Route 96 and 96-1 (Medford square-Harvard square via Boston Avenue and George Street): This route, which serves Davis square, Harvard square, Tufts, Harvard and Radcliffe, will have midday buses every 30 instead of 35 minutes. There's also been a change on the inbound route here.

The Winchester Archival Center is moving this summer from its present location in the basement of the Sanborn House on High street into the Carriage House next door.

Because of the move, Town Archivist Ed Galvin says the center will close down for the months of July and August. Anyone wishing to get hold of Galvin about the center should call the public library.

Volunteers are needed by the House of Correction in Billerica for the Inmate Fellowship Program.

Held at the house each Wednesday from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., the fellowship program provides access to community resident for the discussion of a wide variety of topics. Volunteers are invited to attend social functions sponsored at the house by the inmates. For many of them, the only visitors from the outside world are fellowship volunteers.

The house requires that fellowship volunteers not be relatives of current inmates and that they be over 18 years old. Program orientation is provided on the first visit. Those interested in participating should call the fellowship coordinator at 729-8030. The Billerica House of Correction is located on Treble Cove road, off Route 3.

The Winchester Historical Commission has received word from the Mass. Historical Commission that it intends to fund the proposed comprehensive survey and inventory of historical assets approved earlier this year by town meeting.

The meeting voted funds for a matching grant, and formal notice of the state's intention to help fund the project should be forthcoming in the fall, according to a letter from the state commission.

A plan recently forwarded by Middlesex County Sheriff John J. Buckley, whereby the state department of corrections would assume control of the Middlesex County Jail in Cambridge, would save Winchester 18 cents on its annual tax rate, according to the sheriff's office.

Buckley claims that by allowing the state to take over the facility, which has been vacant for some time, the county would save $1.8 million the first year. Winchester's county assessment would drop by a total of $37,100, according to Buckley's figures.

The plan calls for turning over the jail to the state DOC via a lease agreement with the Middlesex County Commissioners. The facility might then be used by Suffolk County, which is faced with overcrowding at the Charles Street Jail in Boston.

Visit from another world

By David Funkhouser

At noontime two little boys stood, one pointing up to a Bunyan-sized Hillbilly whose stomach bulged over the waistband of his pants. Above the Hillbilly's ogling face, in tri-colored lettering, it read: The Outhouse. Entrance to the lower left, a steel-frame stairway leading up to a ticket-taker's stand, a shallow tunnel leading into the maze behind the two-story high, false-front billboard. Outside, hanging off the steps, a cracked wide-screen bleeps a test pattern, waiting for the show to be plugged in.

All the way across the lot stood a man in lime-green overalls. He had black hair over his shoulders and a week-old beard, and he stood with his hands on his hips, staring around at the boarded-up midway and a row of silent machines. He wore a cast on one wrist, a tattoo on the other. Slowly, dropping his hands, he walked over to where a younger man in jeans slapped bright blue paint onto the fence surrounding the Twirling Swings.

A loose, red and purple flap of canvas, the wall of a tent full of unlit pinball machines, waved erratically in the breeze.

By five-thirty the midway wagons along one side of the field were raising and bracing their sides, one by one. Another lime-green suited man with long blond hair fiddled with the dials of the tape system, standing on the platform of the cup-and-saucer ride. Metallic rock and roll began to penetrate the evening's humidity, while next door at the Sky Rocket Ride, another man flicked on the rows of hundreds of colored lights.

At six o'clock a few parents with younger children were drifting through. In one corner the generators were grinding away in their trailer, thick black wires stretching across the grass to where attendants warmed up the rides.

At the center of the carnival, already a little girl was grinning from her perch atop a wooden pony on the Merry-go-round. Grandchildren squealed in their seats aboard pint-sized army tanks as they bumped around a small gray track. On the next ride, two scruffy little boys, one with a black eye and a baseball cap, sat lazily across souped-up motorcycles, going around and round in circles munching on candied apples. The one with the black eye sized up a stranger walking by as he would an intruder in his back yard.

Pairs of young girls, some barefoot, paced across the grass and hopped onto different rides. Faint drings rang out from the pinball tent and children began calling out to each other across the midway. The Sky Rocket whirled around its ferris wheel frame carrying caged-in buckets cocked at every angle, daring someone to be the first to try.

On the cup-and-saucer ride, the lime-green attendant stood quietly at the outside of the rotating wooden disk, a hand placed behind his back, calmly riding the board waves as riders passed a few feet from him, whirling around in their seats laughing and screaming. When the ride ended he stepped lightly off into a platform and changed the tape in his stereo player.

Teenagers began arriving in the near-dark and whisked each other around the grounds while a hunched old man with gray whiskers grumbled as he took tickets at the motorcycle ride.

Depth charges exploded and Indy-500 cars crashed inside the pinball tent; clouds of rock music merged into one another as the crowd wandered to and from cotton candy to rocket rides to The Outhouse, where strange noises reverberated back out the entrance from the depths and the wide-screen cast vague shadows across the neon-lit grass. There were screams and cries and stolen kisses and furtive glances, prizes won and promises made.

Like a lost land out of Gulliver's Travels, carnival landed in Winchester.

'Area strategy'

State agencies planning to coordinate human services

State government is a lot bigger than it used to be. As the public demand for publicly provided services has increased, more and more tax dollars have in turn been funneled into an expanding state bureaucracy which has been attempting to offer a wide range of human services—from welfare to education to mental health.

As the bureaucracy expands, the problems have grown. The purview of each particular state agency has become unclear; there are gaps in some areas of need, duplication of services in others. Two needs are apparent: better coordination between the various agencies attempting to provide the services; and more public information, so that citizens can become aware of what services the state does provide and where to go to get them.

This is what area strategy is all about.

The Massachusetts Executive Office for Human Services (EOHS), the umbrella agency which oversees the operations of the various human service agencies, is coordinating an effort to establish an "area-based planning and service delivery system."

"The state is already divided into 40 service 'areas,' each with local administrators for each state department."

The goals of this effort, a three year plan to improve the delivery of human services, include:

- Earlier and easier access to services;
- Comprehensive evaluation and diagnosis independent of but coordinated with eligibility determination;
- Maximization of the coordinated use of existing local and state, formal and informal resources;

- Matching each kind of human problem with the most effective and efficient intervention.

The agencies involved include the Department of Public Welfare (DPW), the Department of Mental Health (DMH), the Office for Children (OFC), the Mass. Rehabilitation Commission (MRC), the Mass. Commission for the Blind (MCB), the Division of Youth Services (DYS), and the Department of Corrections (DOC). Also involved in the strategy is the State Department of Education through its special education division.

At present, while these agencies come under some coordination through the EOHS (headed up by State Secretary of Human Services Jerald Stevens), there is very little coordination at the local level.

As a summary paper on the area strategy points out, "as new needs are identified, each agency creates new departments or divisions to support new services rather than turning to the other for support or advice. Priorities and goals for services, therefore, are unclear across agencies; eligibility standards and intake forms vary greatly from agency to agency; and there is inadequate monitoring and evaluation of services whether provided directly or under contract."

EOHS is, evidently, well aware of its own shortcomings, and for the past few months, initial implementation of the area strategy has been underway.

This effort is involving persons at all levels of the human services delivery system. And the plan focuses on better management, with the intention that it "be implemented without a substantial increase in state funding."

A policy paper put out by the EOHS states the four basic objectives of the area strategy in this way:

- 1) "To provide valid data regarding existing public expenditures to all citizens, elected officials and human service organizations regarding the amount of public funds being expended, kinds of service available, numbers of clients served, and tables of organization for each publicly supported human service organization within each city and town in the Commonwealth."

- 2) "To formally relate to cities and towns as providers of and managers of local services; (and) to interact with cities and towns in such a way that both state government and local government can jointly contribute to the strengthening of the social structure of communities and families."

The paper points out that local communities employ "three to five times" as many human service workers as the state. The paper continues:

"Each city and town should be encouraged to coordinate existing services and plan the development of new services. As each city and town assumes this responsibility, the Commonwealth should provide technical assistance and funding in three incremental stages."

The three stages are, first of all, creating a formal directory of human services; secondly, establishing a local plan for providing those services; and finally, "development of an organizational capacity, with adequate depth to manage certain state supported services."

One comment in the paper under this objective reads: "the state should be prepared to respond to those cities and towns initiating this responsibility. . . ." The third objective is:

- 3) "To provide a structural design at the area level which supports coordinated planning and service delivery between state agencies." In addition to coordinating services, this objective also seeks to establish working relationships between public and private, state and local agencies. The paper also stresses the need for citizen, volunteer involvement.

- 4) "To provide a single, total population-based, client pathway for all public services, such that:

- each citizen can enter a human service network located as close as possible to his community or neighborhood through which he can receive directly, or indirectly, or through referral, all publicly supported human services.

- the most cost-effective intervention can be determined for each client.

—A state and local management information system (for documentation, billing, planning, etc.) can be aggregated from events on this client pathway.

—a budgetary and personnel mechanism will be implemented for transferring resources to essential services determined as missing or of a higher priority from need assessment studies.

—large numbers of volunteer citizens provide formal and informal interventions on the client pathway.

—consumer evaluation impacts on planning and management."

Implementation of this rather obtuse plan is being carried out on several levels. At the top, there is a social service policy committee, made up of commissioners from the various agencies along with Secretary Stevens and a representative from the division of special education.

At the regional level are six teams, made up of regional directors of the state agencies, which are meeting monthly to discuss and support the area planning teams.

There are to be 40 area planning teams. Winchester is included in the Mystic Valley Area, which includes Arlington, Lexington, Woburn, Burlington and Wilmington. The team, which meets once a month, consists of Carla Massey from the OFC (she operates out of the First Congregational Church here in Winchester), Norma James of the DPW, Ernest Cook of the DMH, Estelle Quinlan from the MRC, and Charles Snow from the MCB. The group hopes to soon add a member from the DHS as well.

They have met five times so far, and the discussions have been generalized.

"For now we are trying to get a sense of how the system isn't working," says Ms. Massey. "We're trying to identify the problems; we hope to have a strategy mapped out by the end of the summer."

Considering the scope of the problems the state comes up against in providing services to its citizens, it should be a while before the area strategy begins to clear up the tangled web of state and local agencies. But the end result should make human services more readily available, make the providers of those services more accountable, and perhaps save Massachusetts taxpayers some dollars.

Saltmarsh named to research council

Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh has been named by House Speaker Thomas W. McGee to the Legislative Research Council, the fact-finding arm of the state legislature.

The Council and its Research Bureau were created by statute 22 years ago. Saltmarsh will be one of eight representatives annually appointed to the Council by the House Speaker along with four senators designated by the President of the Senate. The statute provides for holdover membership pending formal reappointment of either present members or the appointment of their successors.

The Legislative Council serves directly under the General Court and by law determines "all policies with respect to a legislative research program of statistical research and fact-finding." For this purpose, it appoints a Research Bureau staff consisting of a qualified director and necessary technical and clerical assistants.

Among other responsibilities, the Research Bureau assists individual legislators, legislative committees and recess commissions with statistical or fact-finding in connection with proposed legislation or other matters pertaining to the functions of the General Court.

Research assignments are also voted during General Court sessions when that body decides there is need for further information for the solution of intricate problems. Such assignments reflect the major, in-depth studies which the General Court requires of specified subjects.

The resultant reports become printed legislative documents which serve as reference sources during the period the data remains relevant. The reports represent factual material only, in as much as the basic statute does not authorize recommendations by the Bureau.

The Bureau also handles less formal research requests from individual legislators, legislative committees and special commissions and from public and private agencies throughout the country.

Rediscover Colonial

Many of you might remember Colonial as THE popular spot on the North Shore to take a date, or you may have nostalgic memories of a prom, an engagement or perhaps a wedding. I too have those memories and am very proud to have been able to share them with you. But, we've grown at Colonial — we're now a resort, a restaurant within a restaurant, a place where you can enjoy the day and evening and end up spending the weekend. We still have our country club atmosphere, open to each and everyone at surprisingly reasonable prices — but there's more.

We cater not only to the couple looking for a romantic spot to spend the evening, but also to the family who enjoys the attractive setting of our 200 acres where they can stroll together before or after their dinner or spend the weekend at our Colonial Hilton Inn. Our Inn is in the last phase of a complete refurbishment and the overnight accommodations and banquet and wedding facilities are extremely tastefully done. The businessman at a meeting or convention finds the activities at the golf course, pool and health club a grand way to relax after a session with the boss. The Coffee Shop in the Inn is open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. and the Pub is a favorite meeting spot which opens at noon and serves cocktails & sandwiches. A country club, complete with cocktail lounges, dancing, attractive lodging, superb dining, complete golf and health club facilities — all open to the public at a cost far less.

Recently we introduced a few attractions to our menu at The Colonial Restaurant and have enjoyed watching them grow. We have what we call Slim Ideas — something that offers a complete dinner to those who like an early supper at the slim price of $4.95. Also for an exceptional luncheon, served with a touch of elegance, you won't want to miss our Crepe Corner. Take my word — it's here to stay.

And The Colonial Restaurant, like an old friend, is here to stay. Rediscover Colonial — you can count on us.

Demand Builds For Merit Taste Technology.

High and low tar smokers converted as news of 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco spreads.

There is a way to pack flavor — extra flavor — into a low tar cigarette.

MERIT proved it.

By cracking cigarette smoke down into separate elements, researchers were able to isolate certain "flavor-rich" ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

The result was 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco that delivers the kind of taste smokers can switch to. And stick with.

"I tell you that they are fantastic!...if you can change me, you can change anyone."

—Mrs. Bonnie Lindsay Bridgeport, Connecticut

REGULAR and MENTHOL

This kind of smoker enthusiasm is typical of what smokers are saying about the taste of MERIT.

"After smoking one pack, I was really amazed...they are as good as the cigarettes with higher tar."

—Mrs. Brenda Clark

"I have been searching for a low tar cigarette for some time now. All others I've tried have no taste...I'm a MERITman."

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

During the school year many activities take place in our public schools that do not catch the eye of the town. One of these at Parkhurst School has involved the students caring for and creating a new garden, and the planting of shrubs and trees. In grades three and four, they have been saving pennies all year to buy a large shade tree or two, so that some future class will have a tree to sit and read under during hot and sunny school days.

However, it is gratifying to note that local businesses enjoy helping in these causes when they are aware of them. Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm, when they saw the size of the tree that little students wanted to plant, not only delivered and placed the tree where the students wanted it, but gladly did the planting to the specifications of the children.

It is small acts such as this effort that continually remind me that there are many people outside the profession who want to help whenever called upon. A tip of the hat to an understanding Mahoney!

Andrew A. Allan
Principal

A professional

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Rick Pearl's farewell column in last week's Star (June 23 edition) reflects the kind of personable, human being that characterizes this young man now on the threshold of a profession he apparently loves and lives 24 hours a day.

He was your chief sports writer (perhaps the youngest on the staff ever to carry the responsibilities of a full-time sports editor), and his tender age of 18 belies the dedication projected under his by-lines over the past seven months.

Those who know Rick cannot help but take notice of his sincerity, warmth and all-out dedication. This is the kind of young man he is. In short, he is a budding professional, a gentleman and a friend.

I, for another, wish him a successful and happy future.

TV violence

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am writing simply to say that I think the whole bit of violence on television has been overplayed. A look at the daily newspapers shows that muggings, rapes, murders, beatings, and other horrible crimes occur all the time, not only in the cities but in the rural areas as well. In this respect the recurring battles over the bloodshed on T.V. are settled.

Programs depicting violence accurately represent one of the most devastating problems of city life in the United States. When, as it has today, it becomes impossible to even safely walk on the streets of the city at night and a normal life is threatened by crime, the time has come for the crisis to be ended. Maybe television violence will make the public more aware of these problems and a solution will be found in the near future.

Discrimination

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I know, as every thinking person knows, today there is a great deal of discrimination in all kinds of businesses who give credit. If you are over 65 years of age today you cannot get a credit card. Even if you have a medical problem today the doctor will say How old are you? If you are in your 70s, he will say Well it's your age or words to that effect.

Some folks are very up and coming and could afford a credit card payable monthly in their 70s. If you need clothes, even a dress, the cheapest is $15. Groceries even for the poor elderly cost at least $20 per week with no goodies.

Death has no age group in mind, as we all know, and if our stores are refusing credit to our elderly for this reason (too old) they are losing out.

Coop nursery school still has openings for next school year

The Unitarian Cooperative Nursery School, Inc., has openings in its afternoon session for the 1977-78 school year.

Children who will be four years old by Dec. 31 are eligible for enrollment in this pre-kindergarten class, which is held Monday-Thursday under the direction of Mrs. Susan Schultz. There is also room on the waiting list for the Monday-Wednesday-Friday morning session for three and four-year-olds taught by Mrs. Elinor Parker.

The Unitarian Nursery School is a non-profit, non-sectarian school in which the parents and children participate in a cooperative learning experience. Northeast Voke enjoying good job placement record

Placement of skilled tradespersons graduating from Northeast Regional Vocational High School this June increased sharply by 6.4 per cent to set a new high of 91.8 per cent, according to figures released by William J. Coutanche, placement counselor.

This year's record high placement of 91.8 per cent of the graduating class compares to 85.4 per cent a year ago, which was the lowest record in the past five years.

A comparison of total placement figures for the past five years shows: 1973, 90.1 per cent; 1974, 85.4 per cent; 1975, 88.5 per cent; 1976, 85.4 per cent; 1977, 91.8 per cent, or 246 of 268 seniors placed.

These figures reflect full-time day school graduates, and includes employment in the trade, outside the trade, entering the military or continuing education.

Graduates from the late afternoon program are also placed through Northeast, and Coutanche reported that 70 per cent of the 80 seniors in that program have found employment, with job applications still pending for the remainder.

Another marked increase was evident in the number of graduates continuing their education. While 9.6 per cent of last year's graduates went on to further education, 11.6 per cent of the graduates this June are enrolling colleges or technical institutes. Again, this year's per centage is the highest in the past five years.

Last year the job market had shrunk, which accounted for the drop in placement, according to Coutanche. This year's figures reflect an improvement in employment opportunities.

A comparison of the Northeast graduating classes of the last five years shows: Class size: 1977, 268 students; 1976, 259 students; 1975, 257 students; 1974, 247 students; and 1973, 239 students.

Placed in jobs within their trade areas: 1977, 190 or 70.9 per cent; 1976, 165 or 63.8 per cent; 1975, 168 or 65.3 per cent; 1974, 183 or 74 per cent; and 1973, 169 or 71 per cent.

Placed in jobs outside their trade areas:

1977, 12 or 4.4 per cent; 1976, 20 or 7.7 per cent; 1975, 21 or 8.1 per cent; 1974, 17 or 6.9 per cent; and 1973, 14 or 5.8 per cent.

Continuing education: 1977, 31 or 11.4 per cent; 1976, 25 or 9.6 per cent; 1975, 27 or 10.5 per cent; 1974, 12 or 4.9 per cent; 1973, 20 or 8.7 per cent.

Entering military service: 1977, 13 or 4.9 per cent; 1976, 11 or 4.3 per cent; 1975, 12 or 4.6 per cent; 1974, 13 or 5.2 per cent; and 1973, 11 or 4.6 per cent.

Seeking their own employment: 1977, 22 or 8.2 per cent; 1976, 38 or 14.6 per cent; 1975, 29 or 11.5 per cent; 1974, 21 or 8.5 per cent; and 1973, 19 or 7.9 per cent.

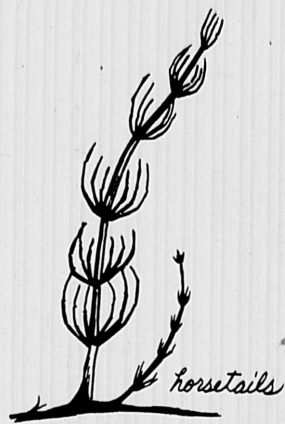

Coutanche noted that the demand for Northeast graduates remains high in industry with more potential employers contacting him because of the proven quality of instruction demonstrated by the competence of graduates already in industry.

Coutanche pointed out that the placement report is compiled before the end of June for statistical purposes. Those graduates falling into the category of seeking own employment are often given job leads by the Northeast placement office and the majority find employment within a month following graduation.

Horsetail

What did Americans use to clean pots and pans before the advent of S.O.S.? Horsetails, of course. Enormous amounts of silica absorbed by this plant make it an abrasive and useful scouring pad. You find it growing on pure silica (sand) especially on the banks of the North Reservoir beside the Auxiliary Fire Station behind the Washington School. These amazing plants are scaled down cousins of the enormous 100 ft. high horsetails of dinosaur times.

Like other non-flowering plants, the spores of the horsetail ride the wind currents. Their four opened up wing-like paddles give them air lift. As soon as dampness is felt by the flying spore, the winglike paddles automatically coil tightly about it so that the spore may drop to earth and reproduce in the wet environment beneath.

The fertile shoots which arise from the underground rhizome look like a thick jointed brown pencil. The scale-like leaves which grow in whorls around the jointed stems of the sterile shoot resemble a scraggly horse's tail.

Baird receives Jaycees award

Thomas L. Baird, director of statistical services for the NGM Group in Keene, N.H., recently received The United States Jaycees highest honor when he was made Ambassador Number 365, and a member for life in the U.S. Jaycees.

Baird, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Baird of 25 Oxford St., was singled out for "his outstanding contribution to the Jaycee movement" and the award presented at a dinner which featured Alfred L. Simensen, executive vice president of the United States Jaycees, Tulsa, Ok., as guest speaker.

Active in the Jaycees since 1969, Baird has twice been honored as Jaycee of the Month in Keene and as one of five outstanding local presidents in New Hampshire, and has been an officer of the Jaycees at the local and state level since 1970.

In addition to his involvement with the Jaycees, he is the past president and current board of chairman of Monadnock Region Big Brothers-Big Sisters; a member of the Monadnock Region School Board; an incorporator of Cheshire County Savings Bank; and president of the Swansey Lake Association.

Baird joined National Grange Mutual Insurance Company in 1968 after five years of service in the U.S. Air Force. He is the father of a son, Andrew, 4.

Rev. Edward Sherry of the Immaculate Conception Church, Malden congratulates Mrs. Claire Mullen, a member of Winchester's First Baptist Church, on her receiving the Corrigan Medal, presented by the Boston CYO at the recent Den Mothers' Day of Reflection for her activities in the Cub Scout program.

Local chapter wins VA Red Cross honor

At the 25th annual celebration of the Boston Veterans Administration Hospital late in May, the Winchester Red Cross was one of five Red Cross Chapters of the area to be honored because of its volunteer services to veterans.

At the same ceremonies Frances Elliott, a volunteer from the Winchester Red Cross Chapter and chairman of the Office of Volunteers of the Winchester Chapter, received a merit certificate because of her 300 hours devoted to volunteer service to veterans.

The VA honor that came to the Winchester Chapter was in the form of a certificate which read in part "This certificate is awarded — in recognition of volunteer service to veterans and for continued organizational support of the Veterans Administration Volunteer Service program."

This is the second award to be received by the Winchester Chapter this spring. Earlier the Veterans Hospital in Bedford presented the Chapter a similar award for "services performed" in the recreational and social programs at this hospital during the past year. Credit for this award should also go to Fran Elliott, who is Chapter chairman of the office of Veterans Hospitals.

YMCA classes start this Tuesday

Summer classes are about to begin at the North Suburban YMCA, with offerings for both children and adults.

One course being offered is in SCUBA diving; there is another entitled "Movement Exploration Springboard Diving." The latter runs once a week for eight weeks.

Other courses include adult swim classes for all levels, from Beginner to Swimmer. Classes are 45 minutes long and meet once a week for eight sessions.

For pre-school swimmers, there are the Mom and Tot, Small Fry, Tiny Tot and Advanced Tiny Tot programs.

Youth Swimming has six levels. Students work on personal safety, lifesaving, endurance and strokes.

The Senior Lifesaving course provides training in swimming and lifesaving skills needed for making contact rescues and to further develop the watermanship required of a skilled lifesaver. Participants must be at least 15 years old.

Senior Lifesaving is a prerequisite to training in the lifeguard program.

Private swimming lessons are being offered for children from 6-17 years old. Each student receives eight lessons, with three students per instructor, using the National YMCA Progressive Swim Program.

Classes in all of the above programs begin Tuesday at the YMCA. For information, contact the "Y" at 137 Lexington St., Woburn, 935-3270.

Cardinals sweep way to league championship

The Winchester Little League's town championship was won last week by the American Major League Cardinals. The Cards swept three games from the best teams in both leagues to do so.

After losing an exciting 6-5 game to the Pirates, they were forced into a playoff game. Rising to the occasion, they banged out 17 hits to win easily, 15-2. Brenden Minnehan allowed just two Pirate hits, while Michael Colozzi chipped in with two home runs, including a grand slam. He and infielder Kevin Scully had four hits each.

This brought on the National League champions. The Yankees had finished with 16 wins against only four losses and were ready to give the Cards a run for their money. Lead-off batter Damion Grozier sent Cardinal outfielder Alex Laats almost to the homerun line to start the game off. Laats made the catch and starting pitcher Bob DiVincenzo took care of the rest in a scoreless first half.

In the bottom of the first the Cards started off strong. Back to back doubles by Kevin Scully and Scott Nolan accounted for their first run. After a hit batter and a walk, Eric Donaghey delivered a bases-loaded single for two more runs. Steven McAdams knocked in another pair and the Cardinals had a five-run lead. For the next four innings the Yankees chipped away at the lead. David Palumbo's two-out single in the fifth made it 5-4 and left the tying run on third. But relief pitcher Ricky Veitch came on with a big strike-out to end the inning.

Doubles by Scully and Michael Colozzi and a single by Bobby Giarrizzo got the Cardinals a couple of insurance runs in the sixth and they held on with a 7-5 victory. Yankee catcher Grozier hit a long homerun to account for their last run.

Leading one game to none in the best of three series, the Cardinals had the championship in sight. They took command early with three scoreless pitched innings by surprise starter Josh Keller. While Keller was stopping the Yankees, the Cards were building up a five-run lead. Colozzi and DiVincenzo drove in runs in the first and fourth innings. A triple by Nolan and a single by Tony Todisco were other key hits. Brenden Minnehan came on in relief in the fourth to finish the game. After a shaky start he took command, allowing just two runs in a 7-2 game.

Outstanding plays on the field by Scully and DiVincenzo aided Minnehan. Scully's diving catch on a ground ball ranked as the series' best.

Yankee pitcher Feldman pitched a strong game for his team, as did Tommy Parell in the previous game. Both were key members of the National League champions.

Gems end season

Coaches Carol Minutoli and Erin Daughtery hosted their team to a cookout to celebrate a great season and their hard won championship.

It was just like watching the Red Sox and the Yankees battle. The Emeralds, a super team coached by Marion Long and Tony Nosal gave them their toughest game of the season.

Gem Karen Richardson did a good job pitching the first three innings and "Kat" Lee held the Emeralds with five strike outs. Catchers Sharon Cullen and Rita Mawn did their usual good job, as well as basemen Sheila Donaghey, who caught several pop flies. Second baseman Laura Haddad was unable to play but Kris Kelly and Sue Allard covered her base admirably.

Third baseman Diana Powers and short-stop Karen Sirieka did a super job at their positions. Outfielders were great, left fielder Gail Minutoli "used her head" and fielded a great hit by the Emerald's Debbie Daughtery, while Sheila Mawn, Marybeth Cella and Diane Struthers held the rest of the outfield together fielding grounders. Score 11-10. The girls received a trophy honoring the championship.

Jackie Ayer and Heidi MacDonald get their money's worth, flying around in the Tilt-a-whirl ride at the carnival held last week at Manchester Field to benefit the Central Middlesex Association for Retarded Children.

Winchester A team second in league

by James R. Stewart Jr.

Led by Captain Doug Ankerson, the Winchester Tennis Association's entry in the "A" Division of the Suburban Men's Tennis League survived extremely stiff competition to emerge in second place as the season wound down, last week.

In spite of losing only one match, the Winchesterites could not overcome their 0-3 loss to Acton, but presented a very creditable showing in the league. In winning five of six matches and garnering 12 of a possible 18 points (sets), the team came from behind in many matches, and pressing the eventual winners to the very last match.

Against Acton, the sextet lost all three matches, but came back, in their final set-to against Nashoba Valley to record a 2-1 victory to end the season on a high note. In this match, Dick and Phil Kadesch triumphed in the number one slot, and, although Ankerson and Taylor lost the second sets, Bob Horne and W.T.A. President Wil Aldrich gathered in the win with an impressive victory in the final go-around.

Others involved in the "almost" championship were Bill Macneill, Brooke Green and Carmen Elio, to make up an impressive set of doubles teams who compiled the best record in the "A" Division that Winchester has put together in many years.

Rainy day program

In the event of rain, all Winchester recreation programs will be held indoors at the high school gymnasium. Program hours will be from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Members and friends of the Winchester Post Office Employees Association gathered at the Woburn City Athletic Club on April 2 for their Annual Dinner and Dance and to pay tribute to recent retiree Thomas Cassidy.

Known as "Todd" by everyone, Cassidy began employment at the Winchester Post Office as a substitute carrier on October 1, 1941. He enlisted in the United States Army in June, 1942 until October, 1945. He returned to the Winchester Post Office and became a regular carrier in 1947 until his retirement in January 1977.

Cassidy was presented a money tree by the Employees Association.

Camp operates Tuesday and Thursday for two four-week periods. You may choose to have your child register in either the morning (9:30-11:30) or afternoon (1:30-3:30) session. The first period runs from July 5 through July 28, and the second period runs from August 2 through August 25.

Primary activities in Tiny

Tot Camp include: structured arts & crafts, gymnastics in the form of movement education, learning primary numbers and letters of the alphabet, swimming, and music used in many forms.

It would have been nice but there's no $4M DPW funding

The news a couple of weeks ago that Winchester was due for a $432,000 federal public works grant came as a surprise to town officials. They were delighted, of course, but surprised.

No wonder it was news to them. The computer print-out very generously awarded this town unsought funds and then went ahead and on a second computer error gave us $4 million for a civic center which Worcester has been looking for.

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux explained the problem to selectmen last week after he had spoken with Paul Ford, an aide to Rep. Edward J. Markey.

It seems that Markey's office announced the $432,000 as the balance left in Middlesex County in the second round of a $4 billion national public works program.

The second round means that towns which applied the first time and did not receive funds were eligible to apply during the second round.

Winchester did not apply the first time after a vote of town meeting denied the town manager authority at that time to apply for a public works grant. Groux said, "We did not submit an application in the first round so we aren't in round two."

This year town meeting has given approval for plans for a public works facility and allocated $10,000 to study the matter.

As to the $4 million civic center, Selectmen Chairman Barbara S. Hankins wondered about that one. "When we saw that $4 million for a new civic center, we knew something was wrong."

Although Winchester is not about to receive $4,432,000 from the federal government, the mix-up brought Selectman Edward F. O'Connell to suggest that the town have a person to look into fund raising.

"I wonder if we could have a CETA person to track down funds that we might be able to make application for. We need a proposal writer, a seeker of funds," he said. The board agreed with O'Connell. Town Manager Groux said that there is not anyone now serving as a "seeker of funds", but that "there might be a possibility" of having someone in that capacity.

CETA has funds for work-study, needs employers

The Medford CETA Consortium, which includes 12 cities and towns in this area, is looking for manufacturing companies, machine or tool factories, and other types of enterprises which would hire CETA-sponsored young people to teach them a trade while they are attending school.

There are 112 such programs now operating in the Medford Consortium, according to Howard Chase, Winchester's coordinator. Under the program, CETA Act, Title 1, Section 112, the prime sponsor, which includes the Medford Consortium, will be allocating approximately $800,000 for training in fiscal year 1978.

There is a listing in Medford of specific occupations for which proposals are being sought. This list is available to prospective employers at 22 Forest st., Medford. Employers may also contact the work-study program at that address.

In some cases high school equivalency credits may be earned under the program. Interested agencies, organizations, companies, educational institutions, or consulting firms may submit proposals until July 25.

Homes sought for children

Families for Foster Children, a unit of the Massachusetts Office for Children, has started a recruitment effort to enlist potential foster parents in the Winchester area.

Agency spokespersons report that there is a critical shortage of foster homes for teens. These teenagers may be parentless, their families may be in a temporary crisis, or they may be ready to leave an institution but can't return home. Some have had trouble with the authorities. A special effort is made to keep brothers and sisters together.

Single persons, or couples, interested in becoming foster parents should call Families for Foster Children at 727-7277.

Speakers are available for organizations which would like a presentation on foster care.

IMPROVEMENT CAN BE COSTLY

You can make a million mistakes trying to sell your own home. And one of them is making the wrong improvements. Many times, an expensive addition or repair can be the kind of thing that'll cost you far more than you get back.

True, the house should present a favorable appearance — mowed lawn, trimmed shrubs, and no obvious indications of neglect, but it's rare when a large financial undertaking will bring more than its cost in the final selling price.

There is always the financial risk of miscalculation too. Home repair costs frequently end up a lot higher than originally anticipated. You may end up with a faster sale and less inconvenience if you lower the selling price an equivalent amount.

Instead of guessing as to how much, if any, repair work to undertake, see a Realtor. He can tell you what to do to make your home more salable. And what not to do so you won't lose money.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester, Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

Local Unitarians at annual assembly

Six delegates from the Winchester Unitarian Society helped to elect a new president of the continental Unitarian Universalist religious denomination and set the social concerns policy for the following year at the 16th annual general assembly of the Unitarian Universalist Association.

The Winchester Unitarian Society delegates attending the week-long assembly on the Cornell University campus in Ithaca, N.Y., were: Rev. Jack D. Zoerheide, Marie Zoerheide, Hazel and Arthur Rich, Mary Lewis and Fran Moulton. Delegates ended the week by electing Dr. Paul N. Carnes, minister of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Buffalo, N.Y., as president of the Boston-based denomination.

Among a number of significant stands taken by General Assembly delegates were resolutions supporting the passage of an Equal Rights Amendment, a stand against the initiation of a Constitutional Convention on abortion, and for the establishment with Canada of a grain food bank.

The Unitarian Universalist association at 25 Beacon St. in Boston is the continental headquarters of the religious denomination whose Universalist sides dates formally to 1793 and to 1825 for the Unitarians. The two denominations merged in 1961 in Boston, Mass. There are 1000 UU societies in U.S. and Canada which profess, "a firm commitment to freedom for all individuals as the hallmark of the faith."
